

Items, official invitation

One year a Commander.

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS.

COMMANDING
ANCIENT & HONORABLE
ARTILLERY COMPANY
1901-2.

BOSTON.

*Captain Frank Huckins.
June 1901 to June 1902.*

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS.

COMMANDING
ANCIENT & HONORABLE
ARTILLERY COMPANY
1901-2.

BOSTON.

Headquarters
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
of Massachusetts

THE CAPTAIN AND OFFICERS OF THE ANCIENT AND HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY WILL BE AT HEADQUARTERS, FANEUIL HALL, ON SUNDAY, JUNE 1,
FROM FOUR TO EIGHT O'CLOCK, AND WILL BE PLEASED TO RECEIVE OFFICIAL GUESTS OF THE COMPANY WHO ARRIVE SUNDAY TO TAKE PART IN THE ANNIVERSARY PARADE ON MONDAY

For Commissioned Officers 1901-1902.

Mark X in square against the candidate for each office for whom you wish to vote.

2nd. ballot.

1st. ballot.

258-130 - for choice

265-133 - for a choice.

Whole number.

132
2
116
7
1

For Captain.

Lieut. FRANK HUCKINS
Capt. CHARLES W. KNAPP
Hon. WILLIAM A. MORSE
Col. JOSEPH B. PARSONS

107
28
112
17

For First Lieutenant.

Sergt. THOMAS W. FLOOD
Lieut. FRANK H. MUDGE
Capt. JOHN C. POTTER

24
5
234

For Second Lieutenant.

Sergt. HARRY H. NEWCOMB
Sergt. CHARLES H. PORTER
Sergt. FRANK P. STONE

6
113
145

For Adjutant.

Col. CHARLES K. DARLING
Lieut. A. A. GLEASON
Lieut. THOMAS J. TUTE

142
25
96

2

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, MONDAY, JUNE 3, 1901.

Two Hundred and Sixty-fourth Election.

OFFICERS FOR 1901 AND 1902.

For Captain,

LIEUT. FRANK HUCKINS, of Dorchester.

For First Lieutenant,

LIEUT. JOHN C. POTTER, of Roxbury.

For Second Lieutenant,

SERGT. FRANK P. STONE, of Roxbury.

For Adjutant,

CAPT. THOMAS J. TUTE, of Boston.

For First Sergeant of Infantry,

MR. JOHN D. NICHOLS, of E. Somerville.

For Second Sergeant of Infantry,

CAPT. ARTHUR N. WEBB, of Salem.

For Third Sergeant of Infantry,

MR. FREDERICK D. HICKS, of Waltham.

For Fourth Sergeant of Infantry,

MR. HENRY P. WILMARTH, of Attleboro.

For Fifth Sergeant of Infantry,

MAJOR GEORGE F. QUINBY, of Dorchester.

For Sixth Sergeant of Infantry,

MR. FRANK C. HYDE, of Newton.

For First Sergeant of Artillery,

HON. CHARLES S. ASHLEY, of New Bedford.

For Second Sergeant of Artillery,

MR. ERNEST O. BARTELS, of Dorchester.

For Third Sergeant of Artillery,

MR. WILLIAM H. THOMAS, of Dorchester.

For Fourth Sergeant of Artillery,

SERGT. ELMER G. FOSTER, of Dorchester.

For Fifth Sergeant of Artillery,

MR. GEORGE A. SHACKFORD, of Reading.

For Sixth Sergeant of Artillery,

MR. JAMES EDGAR, of Brockton.

For Treasurer and Paymaster,

LIEUT. EMERY GROVER, of Needham.

For Clerk and Assistant Paymaster,

LIEUT. GEORGE H. ALLEN, of Boston.

For Quartermaster and Armorer,

SERGT. JOHN H. PEAK, of Dorchester.

For Commissary,

CAPT. GEO. E. HALL, of Dorchester.

PRESENTATION OF COMMISSIONS BY THE GOVERNOR
VIEWS OF THE ANCIENTS' ELECTION DAY.

DRUMHEAD ELECTION ENDS DAY

Captain Frank Huckins Chosen to Lead the Ancients—Time-Honored Ceremony on the Common

With the drumhead election on the Common the annual celebration of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was brought to a close yesterday afternoon. After the banquet in Faneuil Hall the company formed in line and, accompanied by three guns from Battery C of Lawrence, marched through Merchants row, State, Washington, School and Beacon streets. Just before reaching the State House the guns were allowed to pass the marching men and to go ahead to the Common, to prepare to fire salutes. When the company came to the State House, Governor Crane, escorted by Captain Thomas J. Olys, Adjutant General Dalton, Judge Advocate General Dewey, General Brigham, Lieutenant Colonel Capelle and Major Davis, sergeant-at-arms, joined the ranks, and the march was resumed down Beacon street to the Charles-street entrance to the Common.

As Governor Crane marched into the enclosure the governor's salute of seventeen guns was fired by the battery. The command marched along the Charles-street side of the Common while the governor with his escort and staff cut across the field and took their places at the upper side, where three large marquees had been erected for the accommodation of the invited guests and ladies. The tents were filled and there were several hundred people seated in chairs on either side of the tents, just inside of the enclosure. Governor Crane and his staff took the places just in front of the central marquee and the command passed in review, each company receiving a round of applause as it passed. When the lower end of the field was reached again a hollow square was formed and the command proceeded to ballot for new officers by the old drumhead method. The big bass drum was placed in the centre of the square and each man advanced and dropped his ballot upon it. After all had voted—the vote was unanimous—Lieutenant Colonel Bailey, the adjutant of the command, read the list of officers elected, each name being saluted as it was read by a roll of the drums. After reading the list to the command, Adjutant Bailey marched up the field and presented it to Adjutant General Dalton, and then returned to his post.

The officers are as follows: Captain, Lieutenant Frank Huckins of Dorchester; first lieutenant, Lieutenant John C. Potter of Roxbury; second lieutenant, Sergeant Frank P. Stone of Roxbury; adjutant, Captain Thomas J. Tute of Boston; first sergeant of infantry, Mr. John D. Nichols of East Somerville; second sergeant of infantry, Captain Arthur N. Webb of Salem; third sergeant of infantry, Mr. Frederick D. Hicks of Waltham; fourth sergeant of infantry, Mr. Henry P. Wilmarth of Attleboro; fifth sergeant of infantry, Major George F. Quinby of Dorchester; sixth sergeant of infantry, Mr. Frank C. Hyde of Newton; first sergeant of artillery, Hon. Charles S. Ashley of New Bedford; second sergeant of artillery, Mr. Ernest O. Bartels of Dorchester; third sergeant of artillery, Mr. William H. Thomas of Dorchester; fourth sergeant of artillery, Sergeant Elmer G. Foster of Dorchester; fifth sergeant of artillery, Mr. George A. Shackford of Reading; sixth sergeant of artillery, Mr. James Edgar of Brockton; treasurer and paymaster, Lieutenant Emery Grover of Needham; clerk and assistant paymaster, Lieutenant George H. Allen of Boston; quartermaster and armorer, Sergeant John H. Peak of Dorchester; commissary, Captain George E. Hall of Dorchester.

The election over, Colonel Ferris, amid a salute from the battery and a volley of cheers from the spectators, marched to the front, where Governor Crane received from his hands his badge of office, but before allowing Colonel Ferris to return to the company Governor Crane took the opportunity to thank the colonel for the excellent service rendered. There were more cheers as his successor, Lieutenant Huckins, marched up and received the emblems of authority just relinquished from the Next on the programme was the resignation of the old officers and the presenting of the commissions to the newly-elected ones. Col. Ferris was the first to advance and he resigned his commission in a few words. Gen. Dalton took charge of the insignia of office, the halberd and silver locket. Gov. Crane made a few complimentary remarks and Col. Ferris started back to the command, meeting and saluting on the way the new commander, Capt. Frank Huckins. Capt. Huckins halted a few paces in front of the Governor and Gen. Dalton invested him with the insignia of his new office, while the Governor congratulated in a short speech. As he turned to rejoin the command, he was greeted with a salute of two guns from the battery.

Then in rapid succession came Lieuts. Cushing and Davis and Adj. Bailey to resign their commissions, each one giving his halberd to Gen. Dalton and each, as he returned to his place, meeting and saluting his successor as he came up to receive his commission and halberd.

Each of the new lieutenants and the adjutants was saluted by a single gun, as he received his commission and returned to the command. After the ceremony of the resignation of the old officers, the sergeants tendered their commissions to the commander and the newly-elected sergeants were installed.

The complete list of the new officers follows:

Captain, Lieut. Frank Huckins of Dorchester; first lieutenant, Lieut. John C. Potter of Roxbury; second lieutenant, Sergt. Frank P. Stone of Roxbury; adjutant, Capt. Thomas J. Tute of Boston; first sergeant of infantry, Mr. John D. Nichols of East Somerville; second sergeant of infantry, Capt. Arthur N. Webb of Salem; third sergeant of infantry, Mr. Frederick D. Hicks of Waltham; fourth sergeant of infantry, Mr. Henry P. Wilmarth of Attleboro; fifth sergeant of infantry, Maj. George F. Quinby of Dorchester; sixth sergeant of infantry, Mr. Frank C. Hyde of Newton; first sergeant of artillery, the Hon. Charles S. Ashley of New Bedford; second sergeant of artillery, Mr. Ernest O. Bartels of

[Photo by E. Chickering.]
CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS.

Dorchester; third sergeant of artillery, Mr. William H. Thomas of Rochester; fourth sergeant of artillery, Sergt. Elmer G. Foster of Dorchester; fifth sergeant of artillery, Mr. George A. Shackford of Reading; sixth sergeant of artillery, Mr. James Edgar of Brockton; treasurer and paymaster, Lieut. Emery Grover of Needham; clerk and assistant paymaster, Lieut. George H. Allen of Boston; quartermaster and armorer, Sergt. John H. Peak of Dorchester; commissary, Capt. George E. Hall of Dorchester.

The next thing on the programme was to pass in review before the Governor under the new commander, and as the command marched past the Governor took his position in the line again and was escorted back to the State House. Then the command, headed by the band and the 8th regiment rifle and drum corps, continued on its way to the armory in Faneuil Hall, where a light supper was served. Congratulations were then in order and it was late in the evening before the command disbanded and the members started for their homes.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

Sketches of Capt. Huckins and Lieuts. Potter, Stone and Tute.

Capt. Frank Huckins was born in Boston Aug. 7, 1859. From school he entered the leather business, and in 1884 went into the hard pine timber business, and for several years has been the sole member of the firm of P. S. Huckins & Co. He has been president of the Old Dorchester Club for three terms. He joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1890. He was a sergeant in the company in 1893, and again in 1896. He was in command of a company on the London trip. He proposed the movement to have Faneuil Hall repaired, and was on the committee that brought the matter to the attention of the city government. In 1899 he was chosen a lieutenant of the company.

Lieut. J. C. Potter served in the Massachusetts volunteer militia 14 years. He has served as a sergeant and as adjutant of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, and was one of the first subscribers who started to form the Boston Athletic Association.

Second Lieutenant Frank P. Stone is one of the best known and most popular men in Boston, and is esteemed by a constantly widening circle of acquaintances and friends as a "prince of good fellows."

He has given his attention for some years to the theatrical business, and has been interested in enterprises in Boston and New York, which have been most successfully and profitably managed.

He is a member of various social, benevolent and military organizations, the National Lancers being among the last mentioned. He is also a 32d degree Mason.

First Lieutenant Thomas J. Tute, adjutant, was born in Boston Dec. 29, 1848. He is engaged in the plumbing business. In September, 1862, he enlisted in company H, 44th Massachusetts infantry, and was discharged in July, 1863. In 1865 he was at the United States Naval Hospital in the construction department. In 1864 he enlisted in the 2d light battery, M. V. M., and was discharged in 1878 as senior first lieutenant. He is prominent in Grand Army circles, having served as commander of Charles Russell Lowell post 7, 1878-1901. He joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1890, was a sergeant in 1894 and sergeant-major in 1898.

[Photo by E. Chickering.]
ADJT. THOMAS J. TUTE.

2ND LIEUT. JOHN C. POTTER.

At the business meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company last Monday evening Captain Frank Huckins announced that the preacher of the anniversary sermon will be Rev. Walter E. C. Smith of New York (formerly of Dorchester,) and Rev. Minot J. Savage will write the anniversary ode.

Captain Frank Huckins, Adjutant Thomas J. Tate and Past Commanders Colonel Henry Walker and Colonel Sidney Hedges of the Ancients attended the anniversary of "Old Guard of New York" in that city last Tuesday evening. They report it a very pleasant occasion.

ANCIENTS' ELECTION DAY.

The Rev. W. E. C. Smith to Preach,
Minot Savage to Write the Ode.

At a meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company at the armory in Faneuil Hall last evening, Capt. Frank Huckins announced that the Rev. Walter E. C. Smith, late of Dorchester, now of New York, would deliver the annual election day sermon on the first Monday in June, and that the Rev. Minot J. Savage would write the ode. These applicants were admitted to membership: Andrew McNeil, Hingham; James N. Thompson, Brighton, and Isaac N. Goldsmith, Roxbury. A coronation medal was presented to the company by Capt. Woolmer Williams of London, Eng., and regimental histories of the 13th Massachusetts and 13th New Hampshire by Lieut. E. E. Wells and Capt. John Sullivan. Capt. Huckins and Adj. Tate left for New York at midnight to join in the celebration today of the 76th anniversary of the Old Guard.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, May 23, 1902.

General Orders No. 10.

In accordance with the Rules and Regulations, this Company will parade on Monday, June 2, 1902, to celebrate its two hundred and sixty-fourth anniversary.

- I. Members of the Company will report at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, in full dress uniform, white gloves, on Monday, June 2, 1902, at 7.45 o'clock A. M.
- II. Staff, Non-Commissioned Staff, Flankers to the Commander and Orderly will report to the Captain at 8 o'clock.
- III. Band and Field Music will report to the Adjutant at 8 o'clock. Band Guide will report to the Adjutant at 8 o'clock for instructions.
- IV. Color Sergeants will report at Headquarters at 8 o'clock.
- V. At 8 o'clock the First Lieutenant will form the Right Wing, tallest on the right, the Second Lieutenant will form the Left Wing, tallest on the right, and Infantry Sergeants and Artillery Sergeants will respectively take command of their companies, 14 files front, including guides, from right to left, according to seniority. Men detailed to act as guides will not fall in line in the first formation, but will take their positions as soon as Sergeants take command of their companies.
- VI. Sergeants will then hand to the Adjutant, on blanks furnished by him, a complete roll of their companies.
- VII. Battalion line will be formed on South Market Street at 8.50 o'clock. Church services will begin at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Walter E. Clifton Smith of New York will preach the Anniversary Sermon. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock. Line will be formed on Merchant's Row in column of Companies at 4.30 o'clock.
- VIII. Col. Charles K. Darling is hereby detailed as Officer of the Day, and he will report to the Captain at 8 o'clock for instructions.
- IX. Gen. Samuel C. Lawrence is hereby detailed as Personal Escort to his Excellency, the Governor and Commander-in-Chief, and he will report at the State House at 9 o'clock.
- X. Capt. Albert A. Folsom is hereby detailed as Personal Escort to the invited guests, and he will report to the Chief of Staff at the Armory at 8 o'clock.
- XI. Lieut. Col. E. W. M. Bailey and Capt. Wm. Hatch Jones are hereby detailed to act as Flankers to the Commander-in-Chief, and they will report to the Adjutant at the Armory at 8.30 o'clock.
- XII. The Honorary Staff will report to Col. J. Payson Bradley, Chief of Staff, at 8 o'clock. Past Commanders are invited to parade on the Honorary Staff of the Captain.

- XIII. Lieut. A. A. Gleason is hereby detailed to act as Officer of the Guard, and he will report to the Adjutant with his Guard, at 8 o'clock.
- XIV. No uniform will be worn other than the Company Full Dress, or Full Dress Army, Navy or Militia, to which members may be entitled by previous service.
- XV. Maj. Charles G. Davis is hereby placed in command of the detail at the Church and on the Common, and the following members will report to him in full dress uniform at the Church at 8.30 o'clock, and on the Common at 4 o'clock:

Col. Joseph B. Parsons.	Lieut. Fred I. Clayton.
Lieut. Col. A. M. Ferris.	Lieut. George Going.
Capt. Thomas F. Temple.	Sergt. Wm. H. Robertson.
Capt. George O. Noyes.	Sergt. Joseph W. Adams.
Lieut. Wm. Parker Jones.	Priv. Charles D. B. Fisk.

Sergt. Benj. A. Stiles.

- XVI. Any officer or detail not being able to perform the duty assigned to him, will report in writing at once to the Adjutant.
- XVII. At 1 o'clock Sergeants will form their companies in the Armory and will march in company formation to the Hall for dinner. No member in citizen's dress will be permitted in the Hall until parading members are in their places.
- XVIII. A large turnout brings credit to the Company, and the old formation at 8 o'clock will give every member his own place in line. For the credit of the Company every member should perform his duty throughout the entire day, parading to the Common, and make a fine appearance on review by the Commander-in-Chief.
- XIX. Promptness, military bearing and courtesy will be the order of the day.

By order of

THOS. J. TUTE,
Adjutant.

CAPTAIN HUCKINS.

HEADQUARTERS
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

LONG SERVICE MEDAL.

ARTICLE XII. When any member of the Company shall have served ten years, and during that time shall have made twenty parades, he shall be entitled to a long service medal, and shall be entitled to a bar for every five years' service thereafter, provided he shall have made ten parades during that time, or as soon thereafter as he shall have made that number of parades.

Members wishing the above medal in time to wear it on the June parade will at once apply to the Adjutant in writing, stating years of service and parades made, and a certificate will be issued. These certificates with $5.00 for the medal and 60 cents for each bar should be presented before May 22d, to the paymaster, Lieut. Emery Grover, 31 Milk Street, where medals may be secured.

FRANK HUCKINS,

Captain.

ARMORY

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston, May 15, 1902.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that regular meetings of the Company will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Monday evenings, May 19 and 26, at 7.45 o'clock.

The rules of the Company provide that, at the meeting on the 19th inst., there shall be elected by ballot, one member of the Finance Committee, one member of the Museum and Library Committee, and one Trustee of the Permanent Fund, each to serve for five years.

At the meeting on the 26th inst., the annual reports of the Finance Committee, Museum and Library Committee, and the Trustees of Permanent Fund will be presented.

The following list of candidates for membership are in the hands of committees, which committees are requested to report at once on the same so that the names may be acted upon at the meeting, May 19:—

WILLIAM J. BATCHELDER, Clothing Dealer, 675 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.
EDWARD C. BECK, Painter and Decorator, 166 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.
ARTHUR BLISS, Apothecary, 27 Main Street, Andover, Mass.
ARTHUR C. BURNETT, Banker, 43 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.
FRANK EDWARD GLEASON, Coal Dealer, Andover, Mass.
FRANK H. GREELEY, Druggist, 134 Main Street, Gloucester, Mass.
WILLIAM A. HOMANS, Ice Dealer, 153 Main Street, Gloucester, Mass.
CHARLES W. LUCE, Merchant, Gloucester, Mass.
JOSEPH EDWARD OSBORN, Leather Manufacturer, Peabody, Mass.
ALFRED MUDGE, Printer, 24 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass.
CORDENIO FLOURNOY KING, King Crowther Oil Co., 28 State Street, Boston, Mass.

GEO. H. ALLEN,
Clerk.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

1912

ARMORY
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, May 1, 1902.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that regular meetings of the Company, as provided by the rules and regulations of the Company, will be held at the Armory on Monday evenings, May 5, 12, 19 and 26, at 7.45 o'clock. As a large amount of work is provided to be accomplished at these meetings, the Commander asks that all members will be prompt at the hour named.

Monday, May 5, the election of a member of the Museum and Library Committee will be held to fill vacancy caused by the resignation of Capt. A. A. Folsom.

The rules and regulations provide that

ART. 4. "At the first regular meeting in the month of May, the Company shall go into Committee of the Whole and shall nominate at least three candidates for each of the following-named offices: Captain, First Lieutenant, Second Lieutenant, and Adjutant; at least two candidates for Quartermaster, Paymaster, Commissary, and Assistant Paymaster; at least twelve candidates for Sergeants of Infantry, and at least twelve candidates for Sergeants of Artillery."

"At the second regular meeting, the Company shall go into Committee of the Whole and vote on said nominations, and the persons receiving the largest number of votes for Captain, First Lieutenant, Second Lieutenant, Adjutant, Quartermaster, Paymaster, Commissary, and Assistant Paymaster, respectively, shall be the nominees for said offices. The six persons receiving the largest number of votes for Sergeants of Infantry and Sergeants of Artillery respectively shall be the nominees for said offices. The order of precedence shall be determined by the number of votes received."

"Also, at the second regular meeting in May the Company shall nominate at least two candidates for a member of the Finance Committee, at least two candidates for a member of the Military Museum and Library Committee, and at least two candidates for a member of the Board of Trustees of the Permanent Fund, all to be voted for upon one ballot."

"At the third regular meeting in May the Company shall proceed to elect by ballot one member of the Finance Committee, one member of the Museum and Library Committee, and one Trustee of the Permanent Fund, each to serve for five years "

The following list of candidates for membership are in the hands of committees, which committees are requested to report at once on the same so that the names may be acted upon at the first meeting in May:—

JOSEPH SANFORD WILLIAMS, Manufacturer, W. Water Street, Taunton, Mass.
WALTER DAVIS SHURTLEFF, Physician, 9 Court Street, Plymouth, Mass.
JAMES WILLARD COOPER, Pharmacist, 1 Court Street, Plymouth, Mass.
WILFRED G. BROWN, Physician, 4 North Street, Plymouth, Mass.
HENRY DAWES HUMPHREY, Advertising Co., 227 Washington Street, Boston, Mass.
HOWARD FULTON BUTLER, Lawyer, 30 Court Street, Boston, Mass.
ALFRED ANDERSON. Agent for Extract of Beef, 270 State Street, Boston, Mass.
SEBASTIAN GAHM, Restaurateur, 53 Court Street, Boston, Mass.
WILLIS CARROLL BATES, Wholesale Lumber, 2 Kilby Street, Boston, Mass.
GEORGE AMORY PATTEN, Cycles and Sporting Goods, 7 Hanover Street, Boston, Mass.

FRANK HUCKINS,

Captain.

GEO. H. ALLEN,

Clerk.

ARMORY A. & H. A. Co.,

Boston, April 2, 1902.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that regular stated meetings of the Company will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Monday evenings, April 7 and 21, at EIGHT O'CLOCK.

The Commander will announce the preacher of the anniversary sermon and the writer of the ode, as provided by the rules of the Company.

The following proposition for amending the new Rules and Regulations of the Company, submitted at the last meeting by Lieut. John E. Cotter, will be in order for consideration at the meeting, April 7, 1902, as follows:

Article IX., Sections 1, 2 and 3 to be stricken out, and substituted for the same the following :

ARTICLE IX.

SECTION 1. At the meeting on the second Monday in June, there shall be appointed by the Captain a committee of five whose duty it shall be to make arrangements for the celebration of the Fall Field Day.

At the meeting on the first Monday in April, a committee of five shall be chosen whose duty it shall be to report in print, on the third Monday in April, a list of ten names to be balloted for, and the five having the highest number of ballots shall be declared to be the Committee of Arrangements for the Anniversary on the first Monday in June.

The commissioned officers, Treasurer, Clerk, Quartermaster, and Commissary of the Company shall be ex-officio members of both committees.

GEO. H. ALLEN,
Clerk.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, March 31, 1902.

General Orders No. 7.

1. Members of the Company will report for drill on Friday evenings, April 4, 11, 18, 25; May 2, 9, 16, and 23, at 7.45 o'clock to prepare for duty on the Anniversary Parade, June 2.
2. Members wishing special individual instruction will report to the Adjutant at 7.30 o'clock.
3. Sergeant-Major, Sergeants and Color Sergeants will report on each of the above-named evenings unless excused.
4. It is hoped to have on each of these drill nights a sufficient number present to form a battalion. Those members of the Company who understand the duty of the day will be welcomed at these drills, but those who are not efficient in drill owe a duty to the Company by being present on each night.
5. No special formation of companies will be allowed, thus at all times there will be positions in line, for all who attend, according to size.

By order of

THOMAS J. TUTE,
Adjutant.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

GENERAL ORDERS No. I.

BOSTON, June 3, 1901.

The following appointments are hereby made, and will be respected and obeyed accordingly:—

Chief of Staff	Col. J. Payson Bradley.
Surgeon	Horace E. Marion, M. D.
Assistant Surgeons	 {  John E. Kinney, M.D. L. E. Morgan, M. D. F. L. Abbott, M. D. G. F. Walker, M. D. E. Dwight Hill, M. D.
Paymaster	Lieut. Emery Grover. } Elected
Asst. Paymaster	Lieut. Geo. H. Allen. } by the
Quartermaster	Sergt. John H. Peak. } Company.
Commissary	Capt. George E. Hall. }
Assistant Clerk	Arthur T. Lowell.
Sergeant Major	Augustus Andrews.
Quartermaster Sergeant	Lieut. Edward Sullivan.
Commissary Sergeant	Lieut. Edward E. Wells.
Hospital Steward	Sergt. Fred H. Putnam.
National Color Sergeant	Boardman J. Parker.
State Color Sergeant	Capt. Walter S. Sampson.
Flankers to the Commander	 {  Capt. P. D. Warren. Capt. John G. Warner. Sergt. George L. Look. Sergt. Frank W. Hilton. Dr. A. J. Bulger. Sergt. James A. Glass.
Band Guide
Right General Guide
Left General Guide
Orderly to the Commander

By command of

CAPTAIN HUCKINS.

THOMAS J. TUTE, 1st. Lieut.,

Adjutant.

HEADQUARTERS
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

GENERAL ORDERS, NO. 2.

BOSTON, June 3, 1901.

1. In assuming command of this Company, it is the intention of the Commanding Officer to give his best thought and attention to the duties of his office, and he hopes to have the hearty coöperation of every member of the Company.
2. Drills will be held at the Armory, commencing on Friday evening, Sept. 6, 1901, and every Friday evening until May 23, 1902.
3. Sergeants will at once appoint their Guides, and report their names to the Adjutant.
4. Battalion line will be formed by the Adjutant, each Friday, at 7.45 P. M. sharp, and he will turn the command over to the Captain of the Company. The Commanding Officer will drill the battalion in the manual of arms, under the supervision of the Officers and Sergeants. During the evening Sergeants will drill their companies in company movements, each company having the whole floor for a portion of the time.
5. On drill nights Officers and Sergeants will wear fatigue uniforms and side arms. Men will wear khaki coats and caps. Men selecting the Infantry wing will carry rifles, and men selecting the Artillery wing will wear belts and sabres.
6. In full-dress uniform on parade, no web belts will be worn. Men not having black leather belts must provide themselves with them. Commissioned Officers in the ranks may wear their officer's belts. Sergeants in the ranks will wear black belts.

By command of

THOMAS J. TUTE, 1st Lieut.,
Adjutant.

CAPTAIN HUCKINS.

ARMORY A. & H. A. Co.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, June 5, 1901.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that the regular June business meeting will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Monday evening, the 10th inst., at 8 o'clock.

At this meeting the Rules of the Company provide that a committee shall be chosen to make arrangements for the Fall Field Day.

The Commander desires a full attendance at this meeting.

FRANK HUCKINS,

Captain.

GEO. H. ALLEN,

Clerk.

ARMORY

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Aug. 28, 1901.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that the regular stated meetings prior to the Fall Field Day will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Tuesday evening, Sept. 3, and on Monday evenings, Sept. 9, 16, 23 and 30, at 8 o'clock.

At the meeting, Sept. 3, the committee on Fall Field Day will submit its report, and as it will be of interest to every member of the command, as many as possible should attend.

ATTENTION TO DRILLS.

The drills of the Company, as laid down in General Orders No. 2, enclosed, are for the purpose of bringing the Company together once a week and perfecting the sergeants and men in the movements the Company makes on its parades. It is intended to have these drills a pleasant duty to all, and it is expected the attendance will be large.

Men who cannot attend these drills regularly will find places in line at such times as they may be able to come. It is better that men should attend drills occasionally rather than not at all.

No specified companies will be organized, but companies will be filled as men arrive, as formerly. It is especially wished that the older members of the Company may attend.

APPLICATION FOR MEMBERSHIP.

By vote of the Company an application blank is herewith enclosed, and members of the Company are urged to secure new members to fill the vacancies in the ranks occurring each year by death and discharges.

Members laying before their friends what this Company is, and what it stands for in this two hundred and sixty-fourth year of its existence, will create an interest in the Company and a large addition to its ranks, and lead to good results.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

GEO. H. ALLEN,
Clerk.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Oct. 1, 1901.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 4.

In accordance with Rules and Regulations this Company will assemble on Monday, Oct. 7, 1901, and out of respect to the memory of President William McKinley, the Company will hold Memorial Services on this 264th Fall Field Day.

1. Members not otherwise ordered, will report at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, in full dress uniform, white gloves, on Monday, October 7, 1901, at 1.30 o'clock.
2. The Staff and Honorary Staff will report to Col. J. Payson Bradley, Chief of Staff, at 1.30 o'clock.
3. Non-Commissioned Staff, Flankers, Color Sergeants, General Guides, the Band and Field Music, will report to the Adjutant at 1.30 o'clock.
4. The Orderly will report to the Captain at 1.30 o'clock.
5. Sergeants will form their companies at 1.45 o'clock, and hand at once to the Adjutant a roll of their men on blanks furnished by him.
6. Capt. E. R. Frost is hereby detailed to command the Veteran Company. He will permit no man to parade in that Company without a written permit from one of the Surgeons. A roll of this Company with the Surgeon's certificates will be handed at once to the Adjutant.
7. Col. Wm. H. Oakes is hereby detailed Officer of the Day, and he will report to the Captain for instructions at 1.30 o'clock.
8. Major Chas. G. Davis is hereby detailed at the Old South Church in charge, and the following officers are hereby detailed as assistants, and they will report to him at the Church at 2 o'clock. Colonels, S. M. Hedges, Horace T. Rockwell; Majors, C. W. Stevens, L. N. Duchesney; Captains, E. E. Allen, Wm. Hatch Jones, A. A. Folsom, E. P. Crāmm, Henry E. Smith, Geo. O. Noyes, Thos. J. Olys; Lieutenants, Emery Grover, C. C. Adams, Geo. H. Innis, James M. Usher, Fred I. Clayton, John E. Cotter.
9. No uniform or badge will be worn, except as provided in Regulations.
10. On this parade men are charged with proper respect of the occasion, and will conduct themselves as true soldiers.
Sergeants will march their companies into the church, and on completion of the services will march their companies out, and form in column of companies on Boylston Street, right resting on Copley Square.
Every man will enter the church with the Company and remain there throughout the services.
11. No member of the Company, except parading in the ranks, will appear on the street in fatigue uniform, between the hours of 1.30 o'clock and 6 o'clock on Monday, Oct. 7, 1901.
12. Members of the Fall Field Day Committee are hereby invited to parade on the staff of the Captain on this occasion. The church detail will parade on the staff of the Captain on the return of the Company to the Armory at the conclusion of the services.
No others will parade on the staff unless invited to do so in writing.
13. Officers and sergeants are charged with the enforcement of these orders, and the names of any members not obeying them will be reported at headquarters.
14. These orders are published for the purpose of having the Company make a soldierly and dignified appearance on this occasion, and will be mailed to every member of the Company. No excuse for disobeying will be good, and any member infringing these orders will be considered so doing with a desire to injure the good standing of the Company.

By order of

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

THOMAS J. TUTE,
Adjutant.

ARMORY

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, Sept. 12, 1901.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that the committee on the revision of the Rules and Regulations of the Company reported on the 3d inst., submitting the same in the accompanying draft, and it was voted, that the report be printed, a copy sent to every member of the Company, and that action on the report be especially assigned for Monday evening, the 16th inst. As this is one of the most important matters which will come before the Company this year, it is desirable that all the members shall carefully consider the report and be present at the meeting when it is to be acted upon.

GEO. H. ALLEN,
Clerk.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

ARMORY

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

BOSTON, MASS., Sept. 26, 1901.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that the Assessment for the Fall Field Day, Oct. 7, 1901, has been fixed at FIVE DOLLARS, and that the Clerk will be prepared to receive the same and deliver tickets (including cards for the Memorial Service to the late President of the United States, William McKinley) on Monday evening, Sept. 30, from 4 to 8 o'clock; on Friday, Oct. 4, from 4 to 5.30 o'clock; Saturday, Oct 5, from 2 to 4.30 o'clock, and Monday, Oct. 7, after 10 o'clock.

Members can obtain tickets, etc., by mail, by sending amount of dues and return 2-cent addressed envelope to Geo. H. Allen, P. O. Box 1548, Boston, prior to Oct. 3, 1901.

The method of purchasing tickets by mail has become one of the great conveniences and saving of time to members and facilitates the delivery of tickets, etc.

It is important that all who intend to parade or be present on Oct. 7 shall procure their tickets well in advance of that day. Promptness in this respect is a great aid to the Committee.

Special arrangements will be in force at the Armory from 1 to 1.30 o'clock and from 5 to 7 o'clock on Oct. 7, whereby men who desire to change their dress before and after the parade, may do so, and be assured of the safety of their clothing and baggage.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

GEO. H. ALLEN,
Clerk.

ARMORY
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

TO THE OFFICERS AND MEMBERS:

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Oct. 1, 1901.

The Committee on Fall Field Day, having in charge the arrangements in connection with the memorial services in respect to the memory of President McKinley, to be observed on Monday, Oct. 7, 1901, believing that a greater number can be informed in regard to it than by any announcement at meetings of the Company, take this method of doing so. Services will be held at 3 o'clock, in the Old South Church, corner of Boylston and Dartmouth streets, immediately after the arrival of the Company, and will consist of an address and an oration by the Rev. E. A. Horton and Hon. William A. Morse, and appropriate musical selections, the latter under the direction of comrade Joseph L. White.

At the conclusion of the exercises the Company will march back to the Armory.

A collation will be provided in Faneuil Hall at 5.30 o'clock. Tickets admitting members can be obtained of the Clerk at the Armory, or by mail, by payment of the assessment according to notices already issued.

For the Committee,

JACOB FOTTLER,
Chairman.

ARMORY
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

Dec. 11
FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Nov. 8, 1901.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that a special meeting of the Company will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Monday evening, November ¹⁶~~25~~, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving ~~any~~ applications for membership ~~there may be~~ ~~XXXXXX~~ for election of new members; for receiving report of the Committee on Rules and Regulations; reports of other Committees; publishing of General Orders; for receiving communications of official nature.

FRANK HUCKINS, Captain.

GEO. H. ALLEN, Clerk.

ARMORY
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Dec. 11, 1901.

DRILLS.

Drills are being held at the Armory every Friday evening from 8 to 9 o'clock, and members of the Company who are not familiar with military tactics owe a duty to the Company by attending a good number of these drills. Let every man who knows he needs some instruction or practice attend one, two, three, or four drills a month.

The members of the Company who have seen service, those who are connected with the militia, and those old members of the Company who are already familiar with the drill regulations and who do credit to the Company on its parades, are not expected to attend these drills, though their presence at any time would be appreciated by the officers.

It is not the intention of the Commanding Officer to permit the organizing of any special companies, thus giving to all members of the Company a position in line at all drills and in the Anniversary Parade.

Formations on all occasions will be made by the whole command falling in, tallest on the right.

This formation is fair to every man in the Company and should assure a good attendance at drills and a large turnout in June.

It is the desire of the Commissioned Officers to bring about a finer military bearing of the Company on parade, and they seek the support of every member who has the interest of the Company at heart. Sergeants should be present every Friday evening and familiarize themselves with their duties.

Drills every Friday at 8 o'clock! Come as often as you can.

THOMAS J. TUTE, Adjutant.

FRANK HUCKINS, Captain.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Jan. 8, 1902.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that a special meeting of the Company will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Monday, Jan. 13, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving applications for membership, for election of new members, for receiving reports of committees, for receiving official communications, and for the consideration of the following proposed amendments to the new rules and regulations:—

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED.

BY CAPT. J. HENRY BROWN.

To amend Article 1, Section 5, so that it shall read as follows:—

“The name, occupation, and address of each applicant shall be mailed to each member of the Company at least ten days previous to the meeting at which the application is to be acted upon, and, also, shall be stated on the notice of said meeting.”

To insert in Article 9 a new section, to be numbered Section 5, and to read as follows:—

“At the second regular meeting in May, the Company shall nominate at least two candidates for a member of the Finance Committee, at least two candidates for a member of the Military Museum and Library Committee, and at least two candidates for a member of the Board of Trustees of the Permanent Fund, all to be voted for upon one ballot; and the Paymaster Sergeant shall cause to be printed a sufficient number of ballots for the candidates so nominated, with directions upon each ballot as to voting.”

BY LIEUT.-COL. ALEXANDER M. FERRIS.

To add to Article 4, Section 1, the following:—

“No member shall be eligible to the position of Sergeant until after having successfully passed an examination before the Military Examining Board of this Company. An Examining Board, consisting of five members, who are familiar with military tactics, shall be appointed by the Commander of the Company, one for one year, one for two years, one for three years, one for four years, and one for five years; and a new member of this Board shall be appointed each year for a term of five years.”

BY SERG. J. HARRY HARTLEY.

To amend the amendments proposed by Lieutenant-Colonel Ferris by providing:—

“The Commander, Lieutenants, and Adjutant shall also subject themselves to examination before that Board.”

FRANK HUCKINS,
Captain.

GEO. H. ALLEN,
Clerk.

HEADQUARTERS
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Feb. 12, 1902.

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified that a special meeting of the Company will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, on Monday, Feb. 17, at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving applications for membership; for election of new members; for receiving reports of committees; for receiving official communications, and for the consideration of the following amendment to the new rules and regulations:—

PROPOSED BY LIEUT. GEORGE H. ALLEN.

To amend by adding, as Section XII., the following:—

COMPANY BADGE.

The Company Badge shall be as adopted by the Company Jan. 30, 1888; the design is as shown in cut, and consists of “a pair of crossed cannon, in deadened gold, as a pin; across the face runs a bar of polished gold with the inscription ‘A. & H. A. Co.’ and the date of organization, 1638, in black enameled letters.

“The pendant or badge proper is in the form of an elongated shield of polished gold, following the general shape of the centre of the Company’s official seal, and bearing in its centre the raised figure of an ancient warrior in deadened gold.

“Protruding from the upper corners of the shield are the heads of two halberds; and at the top stands out in bold relief the mailed arm and sword of the crest of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. The pin and pendant are connected by two three-link chains of gold.”

Article XII. to be Article XIII.

“	XIII.	“	XIV.
“	XIV.	“	XV.
“	XV.	“	XVI.

FRANK HUCKINS, Captain.

LIEUT. GEO. H. ALLEN, Clerk

The Old Guard

Veteran Battalion of New York present their compliments to Capt. Frank Duckins

and request the honor of his presence at Dinner to celebrate the

Seventy-sixth Anniversary

on Tuesday evening, April the twenty-second, 1902, at seven o'clock, at the Armory, Broadway & 49th Street

S. Ellis Briggs,

Major Commanding.

R. S. H. P.

ANNUAL TURNOUT.

Ancients on Parade and at a Banquet.

Also Elect Officers in Usual
Spot on the Common.

Commissions Awarded by the Governor.

Gen Guild's Speech One of the Features.

Rebukes Bostonians for Not Uncovering to Flag.

NEW OFFICERS OF THE ANCIENTS.

Sergt Frank Huckins—Commander.
Capt John C. Potter—First Lieutenant.
Sergt Frank Stone—Second Lieutenant.
Lieut Thomas J. Tute—Adjutant.
Private John D. Nichols—First Sergeant of Infantry.
Capt Arthur N. Webb—Second Sergeant.
Private Frederick B. Hicks—Third Sergeant.
Private Henry B. Wilmarth—Fourth Sergeant.
Maj George Quinby—Fifth Sergeant.
Private Frank C. Hyde—Sixth Sergeant.
Private Charles S. Ashley—First Sergeant of Artillery.
Private E. O. Bartels—Second Sergeant.
Private William H. Thomas—Third Sergeant.
Sergt Elmer G. Foster—Fourth Sergeant.
Private G. A. Shackford—Fifth Sergeant.
Private James Edgar—Sixth Sergeant.

The members of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company celebrated its 363d birthday yesterday, with the usual church parade, banquet and drum-head election.

The company commenced the celebration early and ended late, and at all the exercises Gov Crane was present and took an active part.

Early in the morning the company met at Faneuil hall, and after the usual preliminaries, marched under command of Col A. M. Ferris to the Old South church, where elaborate exercises were held and a sermon preached by Rev Julian C. Jayne of Newton. The musical portion of the service was under the direction of private Joseph L. White, and was beautifully rendered.

At the conclusion of the services the company marched back to the armory, when the annual banquet was served in Faneuil hall. It was attended by some 400 members of the organization, the score of tables running the full length of the hall.

It was a notable gathering, including many prominent state and town officials.

The hall was finely decorated with flags and streamers, and at the conclusion of the dinner Maj Livermore was heartily congratulated on the excellence of the event.

Col Ferris, in his address of welcome, said:

"I wish to take this most opportune time to express my sincere gratitude to those officers and men of the company who, at much personal sacrifice, many, many times repeated, have done their utmost to assist in our successes. And permit me to express the hope that this good work will continue, and with increased interest, until the day shall come when the Ancients shall not only be honored for their past record, but shall be respected and admired for their present standing as soldiers of this commonwealth."

Gen Guild's Rebuke.

Col Ferris introduced Lieut Col Bailey

THE ANCIENTS MARCHING ALONG BOYLSTON ST, AND GOV CRANE REVIEWING THEM ON THE COMMON.

sponded for the "Honourable artillery company of London." He was loudly cheered.

Congressman Powers spoke in eloquent terms of the American soldier, and the chaplain also made a brief address.

As the time for the departure of the company had arrived, several gentlemen who were to have addressed the company were asked to hold their speeches for some future occasion.

The company reformed to march to the Common to complete the day's exercises. The route was through Commonwealth. The company reformed to march to the Common to complete the day's exercises. The route was through Com-

The New Officers.

Capt Frank Huckins, who took command yesterday, has been the sole member of P. S. Huckins & Co, and is one of the enterprising merchants of the city. He was born in Boston Aug 7, 1858, and was educated in the public schools. From 1879 to 1882 and ever since has been interested in enterprises in Boston and New York.

Lieut Stone is a member of various social, benevolent and military organizations. He is also a 32d degree Mason, a lover of horses and is the owner of a large and valuable stock farm.

Lieut Thomas J. Tute, the new adjutant, is one of the best-known G. A. R. men in the city and a popular member of the Ancients. He was born in Boston, Dec 29, 1843, and received his education at the Boston school

...at much personal sacrifice, many, many times repeated, have done their utmost to assist in our successes. And permit me to express the hope that this good work will continue, and with increased interest, until the day shall come when the Ancients shall not only be honored for their past record, but shall be respected and admired for their present standing as soldiers of this commonwealth."

Gen Guild's Rebuke.

Col Ferris introduced Lieut Col Bailey to the position which he filled with credit to himself and the company.

The toast, "The President of the United States," was responded to by Gen Curtis Guild Jr, and cheer after cheer greeted him when he rose to respond. He said in part:

"In an age of flippant jest and reckless criticism, no citizen can afford to let slip an opportunity for just one serious word as to the respect that every citizen owes to the great office of president to the national song, to the colors, to whatever symbolizes or embodies the will, the power, the judgment of the American people.

"You carried that flag with arms in your hands through the streets of the great metropolis of Europe, which till but yesterday was the undisputed commercial capital of the world. Wherever the stars and stripes passed the hats of Englishmen were raised in respect to the flag so often borne against their fathers in battle. You carried that flag today through a city that has sent forth thousands of men to die in its defence, and scarce a hat was raised in greeting to the most sacred symbol of American citizenship.

"The roll of battle shows that at the time of great crises we at least are not less patriotic than our fellows, but if an Englishman feels no loss of self-respect in showing courtesy to the flag of a foreign nation, the American civilian cannot afford to show a less degree of courtesy at the passing of the stars and stripes.

"The President of the United States! It is a great office, the greatest in the world. It should never be but greatly filled. By the oath of allegiance to the constitution we swear to respect that office and to conform our conduct to the action of the executive power put into the hands of the President by the will of the American people.

"Gentlemen, the President!"

"It is well for us that we have free speech. It is well for us that no man in public life can escape criticism, but it is not well that some of us forget that the President of the United States deserves at least the same measure of consideration and courtesy that is observed in the private conversation of American gentlemen.

"We cannot all agree as to the best way to serve our country, but we can agree to serve her with sincerity and to respect the sincerity of others who seek to serve her, though in a different channel.

"No man in literature has better expressed the pith of American patriotism in the relation of citizen to President, especially in regard to our dealings with other nations, than John Kendrick Bangs in his proposed toast.

"Gentlemen, I give you the President of the United States, the political incarnation of ourselves, the embodiment of the power of the conscience of this nation. In all matters outside of our borders we and he must be one. His enemies are ours. Those who defy him defy us, and in the face of shotted cannon directed against the authority which he wields let us not be found skulking in the rear, baiting our general at every move and by our capacious criticism in the face of danger distracting his mind from problems which God knows are in themselves hard enough to solve. Advice? Yes—constructive, not destructive. Warnings? Yes, the more the better, but whispered and in a friendly, helpful spirit. Support? When lack of it comforts his enemies—always.

"Gentlemen, the President, standing."

Gov Crane a Speaker.

"The commonwealth" brought Gov Crane to his feet and he received an ovation from the assembly. He was extremely brief in his remarks, as were also the speakers who followed.

The "Army and navy" was responded to by Commander Eaton, USN, and Prof Wendell responded for "Harvard college."

The speech that aroused considerable enthusiasm was that delivered by Maj Fred M. Hubbard of Montreal, who responded for the "Honourable artillery company of London." He was loudly cheered.

Congressman Powers spoke in eloquent terms of the American soldier, and the chaplain also made a brief address.

As the time for the departure of the company had arrived, several gentlemen who were to have addressed the company were asked to hold their speeches for some future occasion.

The company reformed to march to the Common to complete the day's exercises. The route was through Commercial, State, Washington, School and Beacon sts. A halt was made in School st to allow the battery to precede the company to the Common and to get ready for the salute which was given later.

When the company arrived on the field a few minutes after the artillery it met with a cordial reception at the hands of 10,000 people, the majority of whom were women. Space had been roped off for the ceremonies, which were the most interesting of the day.

It took little time to complete the election, and those named above were announced to have received the largest number of votes.

New Men in Office.

The election over, Col Ferris, amid a salute from the battery and a volley of cheers from the spectators, marched to the front, where Gov Crane received from his hands his badge of office, but before allowing Col Ferris to return to the company Gov Crane took the opportunity to thank the colonel for the excellent service rendered.

There were more cheers as his successor, Lieut Huckins, marched up and received the emblems of authority just relinquished from the hands of the commander-in-chief, who in a brief speech wished him success in his new position.

Each officer in turn went through the same ceremony, and at its conclusion the company marched in review past the governor, and the day's duty was over.

The review was excellent, the men being remarkably steady in the ranks, considering the hard day's duty; salutes were fair and distances and alignments good.

At the conclusion of the exercises the governor was escorted back to the state house, and the company marched to Faneuil hall, where it was dismissed.

The New Officers.

Capt Frank Huckins, who took command yesterday, has been the sole member of P. S. Huckins & Co, and is one of the enterprising merchants of the city. He was born in Boston Aug 7, 1853, and was educated in the public schools. From 1873 to 1883 he was engaged in the sole leather business, but in 1884 he took up his present business. He joined the company in 1890 and was made sergeant in 1893. He was again elected sergeant in 1896, his company winning the silver cup for efficiency in drill just before the company left on its memorable trip to London.

In 1899 he was elected first lieutenant and it was while holding that commission that he made the motion to renovate Faneuil hall, and was on the committee that so successfully carried it through.

He is a popular member of the Athletic, Point Shirley and Old Dorchester clubs, the latter having honored him with the presidency in 1897, 1898 and 1901.

Capt J. C. Potter, first lieutenant, served in the Massachusetts volunteer militia 14 years, having been a member of the Pulaski guards; 1st infantry, 2d battery, light artillery; Pierce guards, 4th battalion, infantry; Roxbury horse guards, battery A, 1st battalion, light artillery.

He served as private, gunner corporal, sergeant, lieutenant commanding and captain. He resigned and was honorably discharged in December, 1885. He had served before as a sergeant and adjutant of the Ancients. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, and was one of the first subscribers to form the Boston athletic association.

Second Lieut Frank P. Stone was born in Biddeford, Me. When he was 4 years old his parents came to Charlestown, and in that historic section of Boston young Stone grew up. Upon graduating from the public schools he took a course of study in a business college and then went into business. After a few successful years he turned his attention to the theatrical business and ever since has been interested in enterprises in Boston and New York. Lieut Stone is a member of various social, benevolent and military organizations. He is also a 32d degree Mason, a lover of horses and is the owner of a large and valuable stock farm.

Lieut Thomas J. Tute, the new adjutant, is one of the best-known G. A. R. men in the city and a popular member of the Ancients. He was born in Boston, Dec 24, 1843, and received his education at the Boylston school on Fort Hill. He early entered business and has been most successful.

In September, 1862, he enlisted in Co H, 44th Massachusetts volunteers, and was discharged in July, 1863. For over a year he was employed in the construction department at Norfolk, Va., and in 1864 he joined 2d light battery, MVM, and resigned 24 years later as senior first lieutenant.

He was commander of Charles Russell Lowell post 7, G. A. R., of Boston in 1878, and is its present commander. He is a member of the K. of H. and R. S. of G. F.

HIS MONEY STILL MISSING.

Andrew Williams of Chelsea Robbed —Police Seeking a Greek.

Andrew Williams reported to the Chelsea police last night that he had been robbed of $175 in money, a check for $125 and a note for $120.

Williams, who resides at 740 Broadway, Chelsea, says that some time between 7 o'clock Sunday evening and 6 o'clock last evening the money, check and note were stolen from a bank book, which was hidden away in a small parlor stove in the house.

He informs the police that a Greek who roomed in the house is missing.

Yesterday afternoon Williams received a letter postmarked Providence, which contained the check and note.

Chief Drury of the Chelsea police will try to locate the Greek, for whose arrest a warrant has been issued.

Kappa Chapter Holds a Reunion.

Kappa chapter, Gamma Sigma fraternity, held its first annual reunion last night at the United States hotel. There

NEW OFFICERS OF THE ANCIENTS.

THE ANCIENTS MARCH.

TIME-HONORED PARADE MADE
GAY BY KINDLY SUN--PAT-RIOTISM THE THEME AT THE BANQUET--CAPTAIN
HUCKINS ELECTED COM-MANDER ON DRUM-HEAD.

Loud rang the echoes of old Brattle Square at 3.45 Monday to the fanfare of the trumpets of the Ancients--waking the guests of the Quincy from their morning dreams to haste to the window to see what was the matter.

When they divined the cause to be the early daybreak call of Col. Charles K. Darling, Sergeant Major, his buglers and drummers to give them a jolly old-time reveille, all vexation fled and they entered heartily into the novelty of the serenade.

Col. Darling had with him 21 of the drummers, fifers and buglers of the Eighth Infantry Drum, Rifle and Bugle Corps, and his first stop was at the Quincy; from there he went to the American, the Revere, then to the residence of Col. Henry Walker, on Mount Vernon Street, and so to the Parker House, the Adams, Touraine, and the Back Bay hotels. From thence the party went out to Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury, winding up at 6 o'clock for breakfast. No old Ancient was forgotten, and the speeding and the coming officers of the company were remembered in turn.

DRUM-HEAD ELECTION.

Tents were spread upon the Common for the Governor and the ladies of his party. There was the usual ceremonial and passage in review. After this came the drum-head election. Lieutenant Colonel Bailey, Adjutant of the Ancients, announced this result:

Captain--Lieut. FRANK HUCKINS, of Dorchester.

First Lieutenant--Lieut. JOHN C. POTTER, of Roxbury.

Second Lieutenant--Sergt. FRANK P. STONE, of Roxbury.

Adjutant--Capt. THOMAS J. TUTE, of Boston.

First Sergeant of Infantry--Mr. JOHN D. NICHOLS, of East Somerville.

Second Sergeant of Infantry--Capt. ARTHUR N. WEBB, of Salem.

Third Sergeant of Infantry--Mr. FREDERICK D. HICKS, of Waltham.

Fourth Sergeant of Infantry--Mr. HENRY P. WILMARTH, of Attleboro.

Fifth Sergeant of Infantry--Maj. GEORGE F. QUINBY, of Dorchester.

Sixth Sergeant of Infantry--Mr. FRANK C. HYDE, of Newton.

First Sergeant of Artillery--Hon.

CHARLES S. ASHLEY, of New Bedford.

Second Sergeant of Artillery--Mr. ERNEST O. BARTELS, of Dorchester.

Third Sergeant of Artillery--Mr. WILLIAM H. THOMAS, of Dorchester.

Fourth Sergeant of Artillery--Sergt. ELMER G. FOSTER, of Dorchester.

Fifth Sergeant of Artillery--Mr. GEORGE A. SHACKFORD, of Reading.

Sixth Sergeant of Artillery--Mr. JAMES EDGAR, of Brockton.

Treasurer and Paymaster--Lieut. EMERY GROVER, of Needham.

Clerk and Assistant Paymaster--Lieut. GEORGE H. ALLEN, of Boston.

Quartermaster and Armorer--Sergt. JOHN H. PEAK, of Dorchester.

Commissary--Capt. GEORGE E. HALL, of Dorchester.

The resignation of the old and the bestowal of the new commissions followed. Adjutant General Dalton attended to the removal and the replacing of the gorget and the Governor announced the commissions. He said to the retiring Commander: "Col. Ferris, in behalf of the Commonwealth, I thank you for the able and successful manner in which you have discharged the duties of Commander of this Ancient and Honorable Company during the past year."

To the new Commander the Governor

(Photograph by Elmer Chickering, Boston.)

COMMANDER FRANK HUCKINS.

Born in Sheafe Street, North End, Aug. 7, 1858--Moved to East Boston 1859 and lived there 31 years--Past 11 years resided in Dorchester--Education: Boston Public schools. English High School, class 1874-77--Sole leather business 1878 to 1883--Georgia pine timber business 1884 to the present time. Since 1889 sole member of the firm of F. S. Huckins & Co.--Joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company 1890. Sergeant 1893--Again Sergeant 1895, on the visit of the company to London--First Lieutenant, 1899--Proposed action to renovate Faneuil Hall and on the committee to bring it about--President Old Dorchester Club 1897 and 1898, and again elected 1901 for third time--Member of Boston Athletic Association and Point Shirley Club.

said: "Captain Huckins, I congratulate you upon your election as Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company for the ensuing year. I am sure the leadership of the corps has passed into safe and competent hands. General Dalton will deliver to you the insignia of office." Captain Huckins, responding said: "To be elected Commander of this company is a great honor and the honor is added to by your kind words to me. I have the duty now to carry this company forward through another year of its long existence and I trust that a year hence I may have the honor to surrender my commission to you and that you may say I have performed my duty well."

Similar tributes were paid each commander.

A platoon of Battery C of Lawrence fired the salutes--17 guns for the Governor, 3 guns for the new Captain; two guns for the First Lieutenant and one gun for the Second Lieutenant.

The company reformed and marched to the armory. There Captain Huckins told them that he had received the greatest honor at their hands ever paid him in his life and said he would announce the rest in orders next Monday night. Then ranks were broken and everybody went down stairs to evening mess.

ANCIENTS CELEBRATE IN ANCIENTS' STYLE.

Time-Honored Parade, Banquet and Drumhead Election.

FRANK HUCKINS NEW CAPTAIN.

The "Ancient and Honorables," ancient in their peculiar rites, honorable in their performance of them—celebrated their 263d anniversary yesterday.

Did they have a good time? Did the Ancients ever fail to have a good time? Why, even the weather, after having been glum, gray and gloomy for many moons past, smiled upon its ancient friends, the Ancients, yesterday.

The members of the famous company

(Photo by Notman.)
CAPTAIN J. C. POTTER.
Elected first lieutenant of the Ancients yesterday.

elected their officers on the Common. Needless to say, they also had a dinner, in Faneuil Hall.

All in all it was a great field day. And now follows the list of the new officers of the company, the gallant officers who will lead them during the coming year:

Captain, Lieutenant Frank Huckins of Dorchester; first lieutenant, Lieutenant John C. Potter of Roxbury; second lieutenant, Sergeant Frank P. Stone of Roxbury; adjutant, Captain Thomas J. Tute of Boston; first sergeant of infantry, John D. Nichols of East Somerville; second sergeant of infantry, Captain Arthur N. Webb of Salem; third sergeant of infantry, Frederick D. Hicks of Waltham; fourth sergeant of infantry, Henry P. Wilmarth of Attleboro; fifth sergeant of shining upon the armor and trappings of the warriors.

By 8:30 a. m. Colonel Ferris had his staff in line, and the armory in the old "cradle of liberty" was thronged.

An hour later the march to church began.

The Salem Cadet Band played inspiring marches. The Fife and Drum Corps blew shrill tones. Flags waved. The men stepped bravely. The streets were lined with admiring and applauding crowds.

The Old South Church, was crowded. Governor Crane and his staff were there. National and company colors made the pulpit brilliant.

The Rev. E. A. Horton, D. D., the Rev. S. H. Roblin, D. D., the Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, D. D., and Edward Payson Jackson, the poet of the occasion, were seated upon the platform.

There was music. Then the invocation. Then came an overture and a soprano solo.

Then came the solemn moment of a festive day. The adjutant, Lieutenant-Colonel E. W. M. Bailey, read the roll of the dead, the names of the nineteen members who have passed away during the late year.

Then the Rev. Mr. Jaynes preached an eloquent sermon on "The Patriotism We Need." The musical part of the service was in charge of Private Joseph L. White and was elaborate and interesting. Also, it was fitted to the time and the occasion. Edward P. Jackson's ode, "Mars and Apollo," was sung and made a palpable hit.

Released from church, the company

(Photo by Gardner.)
LIEUTENANT FRANK P. STONE
Of the Ancients, who has held office in the company before, and who is one of its most popular members.

(Photo by Chickering.)
LIEUTENANT FRANK HUCKINS
Of Dorchester, elected captain of the Ancients yesterday.

infantry, Major George F. Quinby of Dorchester; sixth sergeant of infantry, Frank C. Hyde of Newton; first sergeant of artillery, the Hon. Charles S. Ashley of New Bedford; second sergeant of artillery, Ernest O. Bartals of Dorchester; third sergeant of artillery, William H. Thomas of Dorchester; fourth sergeant of artillery, Sergeant Elmer G. Foster of Dorchester; fifth sergeant of artillery, George A. Shackford of Reading; sixth sergeant of artillery, James Edgar of Brockton; treasurer and paymaster, Lieutenant Emery Grover of Needham; clerk and assistant paymaster, Lieutenant George H. Allen of Boston; quartermaster and armorer, Sergeant John H. Peak of Dorchester; commissary, Captain George E. Hall of Dorchester. Impressive were the ceremonies and highly picturesque was their setting—the green lawn of the Common, the white marquees and the decorative uniforms of the warriors themselves.

Cannons boomed, flags waved, bands played, voices cheered, and there was a clap-clap-clapping of hands as the new officers were installed.

Also there was speechmaking. But let us begin at the beginning, start with the dawn of the Ancients' day of days.

It began in gloom—but of course didn't last that way—for old Jupiter Pluvius, finding out that this was the Ancient and Honorables' own peculiar day, withdrew his clouds in affright.

Still, it was gray and cloudy weather when Colonel Charles K. Darling, sergeant-major of the company, and 21 members of the Eighth Regiment Fife and Drum Corps started out to arouse the slumbering members of the company who live in town shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning.

Shrilly blew the reveille as they made their tour.

The gallant sons of Mars at once doffed night caps and donned the habiliments and trappings of stern war.

And their looks were warlike as they bade farewell to their spouses.

By and by the sun arose and broke through the clouds to do its duty of hurried back to the street and marched to Faneuil Hall. There was a reception.

At 1:45 the company and guests filed down stairs into the main hall, where tables were set. Colonel A. M. Ferris sat at the centre of the head table, on the platform. On his right were Governor Crane, Adjutant-General Dalton, Major Hibbard, Congressman Samuel L. Powers, Department Commander Silas A. Barton of the G. A. R., and Commander Eaton, U. S. N., ordnance officer at the navy yard. On the left of the commander were Curtis Guild, Jr., the Rev. Julian C. Jaynes, Professor Barrett Wendell, the Rev. E. A. Horton and the Rev. Stephen H. Roblin, D. D.

The main hall was brilliant, was gorgeous with bunting and flowers—to say nothing about good-fellowship.

Colonel A. M. Ferris, commander of the company, spoke, reviewing the work of the company during the past year.

Adjutant Bailey began the list of toasts. "The President!"

A roar of applause went up at once. It was responded to by Curtis Guild, Jr. applause, speech, too, constantly elicited

Mr. Guild said in part:

"I thank you for the very unusual compliment paid in asking a private citizen to respond for the chosen head of the republic, a toast that, regardless of personal, is always first in the hearts of this ancient and loyal organization.

"At this season of trial and sorrow for the true man who at present holds that position one is tempted to respond not but for this President of the United States. Surely today no man has a deeper claim on the hearts of the American people than the courageous soldier, the keen statesman, the devoted husband, the American gentleman, William McKinley.

"Gentlemen, I give you the President of the United States, the political incarnation of ourselves, the embodiment of the power, of the conscience of this nation. In all matters outside of our borders we and he must be one. His duty is and in the face of shot and cannon directed against the authority which he wields let us not be found skulking in the rear, baiting our general at every move and by our captious criticism in the face of danger distracting his mind from problems which God knows are in vice? Yes—constructive not destructive. Warnings? Yes, the more the better, but whispered and in a friendly, helpful spirit. Support? When lack of it comes his enemies always.

"Gentlemen, the President, standing!" VII., an honorary member of our company." The band played "God Save the King" and there was bubbling enthusiasm.

And then there were more toasts—oh, several of them. "The Commonwealth of Massachusetts," "The City of Boston," "Harvard University," "The Army and Navy," "The American Soldier," "The Honorable Artillery Company of London" and "Our Guests From Across the Border."

Governor Crane replied to the toast to the Commonwealth in a speech distinguished for its brevity.

Major F. W. Hibbard of the Second Regiment, Canadian Artillery, replied to the toast of "Our Friends from Across the Border" and made the most applauded speech of the afternoon.

When the dinner was over—and the time for arising was put back, and put back—the company marched to the Common.

And the Common presented a fair sight. Here were assembled, under the green trees, before the white marquees, the gayly dressed, fair womenkind of the warriors.

And the drumhead election, the review, the march past was done in really good style and in the immemorial fashion of the Ancients.

This over, the warriors marched back to their armory and dispersed.

ANCIENTS' NEW OFFICERS.

Captain Huckins, a Bostonian Born and Bred, Member of the Company Eleven Years.

Captain Frank Huckins, the new captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, is a simon-pure Bostonian. He was born in the North End in August, 1853. He has lived in Boston ever since.

He was educated in Boston's public schools.

He has been in the sole leather business and later the pine timber business, from 1878 to the present time.

Since 1889 he has been sole member of the firm of P. S. Huckins & Co.

He joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1890. He was made a sergeant in 1893. He was again made a sergeant in 1896 on the company's visit to London. In 1899 he was made a first lieutenant.

He was the gentleman who first proposed the renovation of Faneuil Hall and was on the committee to bring it about.

He is president of the Old Dorchester Club and is a member of the B. A. A. and of the Point Shirley Club.

Captain J. C. Potter, the first lieutenant, served in the Massachusetts volunteer militia 14 years, having been a member of the Pulaski Guards, First Regiment Infantry, Second Battery Light Artillery, Pierce Guards, Fourth Battalion Infantry, Roxbury Horse Guards, First Battalion Cavalry, Battery A, First Battalion Light Artillery, private, gunner, corporal, sergeant, lieutenant commander, ing and captain. He resigned and was honorably discharged in December, 1885. He has served before as a sergeant and adjutant of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution and was one of the first subscribers who started to form the Boston Athletic Association.

Frank P. Stone, the second lieutenant, was born in Maine. He has been connected with the company for a number of years and filled the office of first lieutenant in 1899.

Mr. Stone is well known in the theatrical business all over the country.

He is a 32d degree Mason and is a member of various fraternal and charitable societies.

Captain Thomas J. Tute, elected adjutant of the company, has been connected with the Ancient and Honorables for the past twenty years. He is in the plumbing business and is located on Church street.

He is a prominent member of the G. A. R. and of many charitable and religious orders.

He has been a commissioned officer of the company before, having held the rank of lieutenant.

The City of Boston
requests the pleasure of your company at a dinner in honor of
His Royal Highness Prince Henry
of Prussia.
on Thursday evening March the sixth 1902
Hotel Somerset.
At half past seven o'clock.

Please reply.

CAPT HUCKINS' STAFF.

Commander of the Ancients Announces His Appointments.

Capt Frank Huckins announced his staff at the meeting of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company last night and also the fall field day committee, which will make the arrangements for the trip of the company the first Monday in October.

Several resignations were received, and John Stewart of Somerville was admitted to membership.

A handsome oil painting of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" was presented the company by a syndicate of members. It will hereafter occupy a panel on the armory wall. The presentation was made in behalf of the donors by Lieut James Davis.

Capt Huckins in his first general order stated that the drills of the company will be continued throughout the winter season, commencing Sept 6 and continuing until May 23, every Friday evening.

He made the following appointments on his staff: Chief of staff, Col J. Payson Bradley; surgeon, Horace E. Marion; assistant surgeons, John E. Kenney, L. E. Morgan, F. L. Abbott, G. F. Walker, E. Dwight Hill; assistant clerk, Arthur T. Lovell; sergeant major, Augustus Andrews; quartermaster sergeant, Lieut Edward Sullivan; commissary sergeant, Lieut E. E. Wells; hospital steward, Sergt Fred H. Putnam; national color bearer, Boardman J. Parker; state color bearer, Capt Walter S. Sampson; flankers to commander, Capt E. D. Warren, Capt J. G. Warner; band guide, Sergt L. Look; right and left general guides, Sergt Frank W. Hilton, Dr A. J. Bulger; orderly to commander, Sergt James A. Glass.

The commander appointed the following as the fall field day committee: Capt Jacob Fottler chairman, private J. H. W. Bates, Sergt Charles S. Damrell, private Daniel B. Barger, Lieut George E. Adams.

THE ANCIENTS MEET.

Capt. Frank Huckins Announces His Policy—Some Gifts and Appointments.

Capt. Frank Huckins presided at the first meeting of the Ancients, since election, last evening at Faneuil Hall. He spoke at some length as to the course he expected to follow and said he hoped to keep up the military spirit that had prevailed under his predecessor.

John G. Stewart of Somerville was elected to membership and one proposition was received. The death of Quartermaster John H. Peak was noted, and, upon motion of Lieut. George A. Allen, a committee consisting of Capts. Fottler, Frost and Sampson was appointed to draw up resolutions. Quartermaster Peak joined the company in 1854, and was the sixth oldest living member. A handsome oil painting, representing Washington crossing the Delaware, was presented by a number of comrades. It is the work of Mr. Fred Russell Bates, a young artist of much promise, and was greatly admired. A photograph of the flowers sent to the funeral of Queen Victoria by Col. Henry Walker was also presented.

Capt. Huckins announced that drills would be held at the armory commencing Friday evening, Sept. 6, and every Friday evening until May 23. These appointments were announced:

Chief of staff, Col. J. Payson Bradley; surgeon, Horace E. Marion; assistant surgeons, John E. Kenney, L. E. Morgan, F. L. Abbott, G. F. Walker, E. Dwight Hill; assistant clerk, A. T. Lovell; sergeant-major, Augustus Andrews; quartermaster-sergeant, Lieut. Edward Sullivan; commissary-sergeant, Lieut. E. E. Wells; hospital steward, Sergt. Fred A. Putnam; national color bearer, Boardman J. Parker; state color bearer, Capt. Walter S. Sampson; flankers to commander, Capt. P. D. Warren, Capt. J. G. Warner; band guide, Sergt. George L. Look; right and left general guides, Sergt. Frank W. Hilton, Dr. A. J. Bulger; orderly to commander, Sergt. James A. Glass.

Fall field day committee—Capt. Jacob Fottler, Priv. G. H. W. Bates, Sergt. Charles S. Damrell, Priv. Daniel B. Badger, Lieut. George E. Adams.

A COVETED PRIZE.

FRANK HUCKINS, HEAD OF THE HARD PINE TIMBER HOUSE OF P. S. HUCKINS & CO., BOSTON, CHOSEN TO COMMAND A. AND H. A. CO.

Boston, Mass., June 6.

THE annual field day of that famous organization, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, was held on Monday, June 3. At the "Drum Head" election held upon the Common, in the presence of the Governor and scores of military, civic and political dignitaries, the choice for commander fell to Frank Huckins, head of the house of P. S. Huckins & Co., leading handlers of yellow pine timber, with offices at 45 Kilby street, Boston, and a large dock in East Boston.

Captain Frank Huckins was born in Boston August 7, 1859. From school he entered the leather business, and in 1884 went into the hard pine timber business, and for several years has been the sole member of the firm of P. S. Huckins & Co. He has been president of the Old Dorchester Club for three terms. He joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1890, and was a sergeant in the company in 1893, and again in 1896, and was in command of a company on the London trip. He proposed the movement to have Faneuil Hall rebuilt, and was on the committee that brought the matter to the attention of the city government. In 1899 he was chosen a lieutenant of the company.

Other members of the "Ancients," and who are identified with the lumber trade, are Lindsley H. Shepard, head of Shepard, Farmer & Co., and Frank C. Page, of Parker & Page.

Frank Huckins, of P. S. Huckins & Co., 45 Kilby street, laid aside the cares of business on June 3 to don the trappings of war and receive the election of captain of that good old command, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston. Mr. Huckins' term of service has covered only a short ten years, during which time he has gone through the successive grades of the non-commissioned line and was in command of the company on the London trip a few years ago. It was Mr. Huckins who proposed the movement to have Faneuil hall repaired, and he was on the committee who brought this matter to the attention of the city government. Since 1899 he has been a lieutenant in the company. To Boston men, to whom the old "Ancients and Honorables" have become endeared through long familiarity, the honor of this election will be fully apparent, and to all others it can only be said that if they do not know the name and fame of this organization it is because they live somewhere on the edge of the tire, instead of in the "hub of the universe."

Mr. Frank Huckins is contemplating a more or less extended tour, but as yet it is a long way off. As captain of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, he will probably accompany his command to Charleston and Savannah some time in February next. Plans, however, have not yet been completed and may be abandoned.

In actual market conditions changes have not been for the better. There has been and still is something doing all the time, but new business does not as a rule compare favorably in point of volume with that transacted during the second half of November. Spruce has been in fair demand, but the keen edge of eager inquiry has worn off a little. Prices, however, keep as firm as ever all along the line. In the number of small orders for Yellow Pine there has been a shrinkage, but this has been in at least some degree atoned for by the placing of two orders aggregating 1,000,000 feet of 10x16 timbers with Messrs. P. S. Huckins & Co. Both were for the same class of buildings and emanated from the same source.

A PROMINENT BOSTONIAN.

MR. FRANK HUCKINS, member of the well-known Boston Yellow Pine firm of P. S. Huckins & Co., was elected on June 3 to the captaincy and commandership of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of that city, at the meeting of the organization held on that day at the conclusion of the annual parade and festivities. Mr. Huckins joined this company in 1890, and was elected sergeant in 1893, and again in 1896, on the visit of the company to London. He was elected to the first lieutenantancy in 1899, and his recent election to the captaincy is but the natural outcome of his popularity and his efforts in behalf of the organization. It was he who proposed the renovation of Faneuil Hall, and accordingly was appointed on the committee to accomplish the work. He was president of the Old Dorchester Club in 1897 and in 1898, and was re-elected the present year for the third time. He is also a member of the Boston Athletic Association and the Point Shirley Club. He is an exceedingly popular gentleman in the city of Boston, to say nothing of his popularity in the lumber trade, and we feel sure that his many friends in the trade will join with us in congratulating him on this latest crowning glory to his career.

N.Y. Lumber Trade Journal

The 1st Corps of Cadets M.V.M. tenders the use of its Armory for the evening of Wednesday, December 4th 1901 and extends its cordial welcome to the Loyal Legion.

Thomas F. Edmunds

Lieutenant Colonel Commanding.

*Cadet Armory, Wednesday evening,
December fourth 1901 at eight o'clock
to which you are cordially invited.*

William F. Draper -

Brevet Brigadier General.

Commander.

Commandery of the State of Massachusetts Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States.

*The Library Room of the Commandery will be opened by a reception at the Cadet Armory, Wednesday evening,
December fourth 1901 at eight o'clock
to which you are cordially invited.*

*William F. Draper—
Brevet Brigadier General.
Commander.*

ANCIENT AND HONORABLE ARTILLERY HELD M'KINLEY MEMORIAL SERVICES.

Audience Filled the New Old South Church
to Overflowing.

ELOQUENT ORATION.

The Hon. William A. Morse
Eulogized the Late President.

Giving up its usual fall trip outside the limits of the state, the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company substituted memorial exercises in honor of President McKinley, and carried out the programme yesterday afternoon, holding services at the New Old South Church.

The company, under command of Capt. Frank Huckins, assembled at its armory in Faneuil Hall at 2 o'clock, and some minutes later formed and marched to the church. Previous to the arrival of the command every seat but those reserved for the parading members had been occupied by an audience largely made up of women, and immediately following the arrival of the company, about 2:15 o'clock, the services began. The church decorations were of the simplest, mourning draperies above the pulpit, and a picture of the late President, draped with the national ensign trimmed with crape, in its front.

The order of services opened with the "Salutation to the Colors," by the band, and then followed President McKinley's favorite hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," sung by the choir and congregation. The invocation was by the Rev. Mr. Berle, who afterward read from the scriptures, and was followed by the hymn "Lead, Kindly Light." A brief address followed by the Rev. E. A. Horton, and then Miss Grace Carter sang "The Lost Chord."

The oration was by the Hon. William A. Morse, a member of the company, who spoke in part, as follows:

Death knocks with equal hand at the door of the cottage and the palace gate, and mantles the countenance with sorrow, because even yet men do not know its meaning, for since that moment when love gazed in sorrow upon the face of its departed, men and women, whether humble or great, in prayerful wonder have sought to answer the most mysterious question this world can ever now: If man dies shall he live again? No traveller into this mysterious beyond has ever returned to prove to us the truth of the golden promise of immortality. No answer has ever broken our silence. The ear to whom once our voice was sweet and welcome for the first time is deaf to the piteous appeal. The lives that always had been ready with words of kindness and of comfort refuse the consolation of one more word. The eye that once laughed and cried in our companionship in its strange and awful fixedness takes no note of the form bent in agony over it. The cold, rigid features of death reveal not in the slightest whither has gone that beautiful spirit of life that once perhaps had sustained our own, and the weary heart, broken with its weight of sorrow, cries out: "Give me back my dead." Is this cold shroud the drapery of eternal sleep, or is this the ever silent portal through which every soul must pass on its way to life eternal?

HON. WM. A. MORSE

The earth has been opened, the stars have been searched, all nature has been pleaded with almost since time was measured to find the meaning of these things, and all the centuries could make their answer in the words of Gray's Elegy: "The boast of heraldry, the pomp of power, all that beauty, all that wealth e'er gave, await alike the inevitable hour; the paths of glory lead but to the grave," but strangely mystery has been arrayed against mystery, for notwithstanding all mankind has some times reasoned. This seems to be the end, mankind has never believed it.

Hope, beautiful and constant, was born in the germ of human life, and when in the due fulfillment of the prophecy there came out of Nazareth the perfect soul, teaching people of the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, faith came and strengthened hope and a better understanding in the hearts of men, and bade them put their trust in the all-controlling power and purpose of infinite mind. In this spirit of unfaltering belief, the mightiest men have found strength to guide and protect our country in all her sorrows and bereavements. Washington sought this refuge in the snows of Valley Forge, Lincoln prayed for help through the long nights of Gettysburg, Garfield sent over the country his own words of consolation: "God reigns and the government at Washington still lives." William McKinley, in the greatness of a life-long faith, bade his countrymen be reconciled in that tender benediction: "This is God's way; his will, not ours, be done." There is nothing finer in the world of inspiration than a noble life. To read or to witness achievements of the children of genius, of courage or strength, holds the mind in the spell of fascination. It is indeed most fitting that this should be so. Enthusiasm does indeed redden the blood, when on the brows of these great soldiers of life it places the wreath of laurel, when it says to the young man, You will do wisely to imitate this life; and to the nation, This was our foremost citizen. All these tributes were deserved by President McKinley. How I wish I could on this occasion say just the words that should be said of this man, whom this Ancient and Honorable corps, ever patriotic in its purpose, meets to pay its tribute to his memory, and to awaken within you those gentler thoughts that will make you prouder and happier as you think of this splendid life of your countryman. But he who would accomplish this must not be one like myself, who hastily gathers his thoughts, in the few intervening hours between business demands and cares, for in this life there is such wealth and abundance of incidents, that many days could well be spent by even orators of great renown in attempting to discriminate what they would utter and what they would leave unsaid.

REV. E. A. HORTON

If, as it has been said, the voice of the people is the voice of God, it was the will of Providence that McKinley received the people's crown. Sept. 18, 1896, Canton was bathed in sunshine, waiting in peace and confidence for the news that was to change the history of the world. Quietly resting in the home so endeared to them, both husband and wife with solemn hearts, but with cheerful words and smiles, felt the mightiest demand he had ever had made upon him was near at hand. Suddenly those avenues of electricity, the telephone and telegraph, flashed the information that the great Republican convention in St. Louis had called his own state of Ohio, and that another soldier boy, Foraker, was standing on the platform, amid tremendous applause, waiting to present the name of William McKinley. The scene that followed that ceaseless storm and tempest of cheers reached the limit of human appreciation. Certainly the clever wit of Foraker was accurate when, after 20 minutes, there was just silence enough for him to say with a smile: "You seem to have heard of him before."

ANCIENT AND HONORABLE
ARTILLERY CO. ENTERING NEW OLD SOUTH CHURCH

Carlisle says: "A great man is like lightning out of heaven; the rest wait for him like fuel, and then they, too, will flame." It was true of that convention. In the afternoon of that day he received the nomination that was to make him the foremost man in all the world. He quietly received this information. Turning about, he crossed the room and kissed the dear face of her who is now so lonely. Bending over the aged mother, he told her of his greatest honor. With her venerable hand of blessing placed upon him, her tears brighter than her smiles, she spoke to him those holy words that only a mother can say.

William McKinley will always live in history as one of the greatest Presidents. Cuba no longer bows under the weight of the Spanish yoke and is lifting her head with the consciousness of a bright future. She is becoming indeed the Pearl of the Antilles. Progress in Porto Rico is lighting the school-rooms and the marts of commerce, and the people are enjoying the blessings of good government. But in bolder picture will the coming generations portray him. He will come down to them as the great messenger of freedom, who took from off our altars the pure white light of liberty to enlighten and civilize and dispel the darkness and barbarism of the Orient.

I have heard McKinley in all the power of his magnetic eloquence, but I shall always love to remember him by another circumstance. In company with one who knew him well, we called upon him at the White House. His courteous and genial manner made my mission easy. With face and eyes fairly beaming with joy, he told us good news had just been sent him, that the war was about to close and peace be restored. He deplored bloodshed. He was sincere in his last public utterance: "The greatest victories are those of peace, not war." In physical appearance it was true he resembled Napoleon, but in mind how different! The Emperor of the French was in himself a veritable red comet of war who filled all France with graves. McKinley was a planet under whose peaceful light the mariner could sail his ship and the shepherd tend his flock.

Great as he was in life, even mightier was he as the end drew near. All this nation in tender solicitude knelt at his bedside. Every nation bowed its head. But his great soul was not shaken. With calm courage he looked upon approaching death, and beneath the quiet stars in the stillness of the early morning, sublime in his faith and with praise on his lips, the light slowly faded from his eyes and his beautiful spirit journeyed on at the will of God who gave it. "Ah, Lancelot, thou wert the head of all Christian knights; thou wert the most courteous knight that did ever bear a shield, and thou wert the truest friend that ever bestrode horse, and thou wert the truest man that ever loved a woman, and thou wert the kindest man that ever struck with sword, and now I dare say, there thou liest, thou were never matched of earthly knight's hand."

The closing exercises consisted of the singing of "Face to Face" by Mr. Herbert Johnson, and "America" by the audience, "taps," and the benediction. The musical exercises were under the direction of Priv. Joseph L. White of the company.

From the church the command marched to the armory, partook of a light lunch and was dismissed.

1826 — 1902

The Old Guard

requests the honour of the company of Capt Frank Huckins and Ladies

at their Ball

on Thursday evening, January the twenty-third,

Metropolitan Opera House.

Robert H. Lyon,
Adjutant.

S. Ellis Briggs,
Major Commanding.

Military guests will please appear in uniform.

The favor of an answer is requested

Armory, Broadway & 49th Street, N.Y.

Present this invitation at the door.

NDAY, OCTOBER 7

PAID TRIBUTE.

Ancients Honor the Late President McKinley.

Services Held Today by Them in Old South Church.

Fall Field Day Was Not Held.

Route of March Was From Faneuil Hall.

Impressive Ceremonies Were Largely Attended.

The Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Massachusetts celebrated its annual field day with a memorial service in memory of the late President this afternoon.

When the news, which shocked the whole world, was received that President McKinley had been assassinated,

CAPT FRANK H. HUCKINS.

the company had made all arrangements for a trip to Albany, but it was unanimously voted to abandon the excursion, and in place hold memorial services.

This afternoon the company met at Faneuil hall and marched to the church in the following order:

Platoon of police.
Salem cadet band, 40 pieces, Jean Misud, conductor.

Capt Frank Huckins and staff, on which, in addition to the fall field day committee, several of the civil officers of the company, Col Henry Walker, Col Charles K. Darling and Col Joseph Parsons, paraded.

The 1st battalion, the infantry wing, was under command of Lieut John C. Potter, and the six companies were commanded by Sergt John D. Nichols, Capt Arthur N. Webb, Sergt F. D. Hicks, Sergt Henry P. Wilmarth, Maj George F. Quimby and Sergt Frank C. Hyde.

The 2d battalion, artillery, was commanded by Sergt Charles S. Ashley, Sergt Ernest O. Bartels, Sergt Elmer G. Foster, Sergt W. H. Thomas, Sergt G. A. Shackford.

LIEUT JOHN C. POTTER.

The company presented a fine appearance, but in numbers the strength was somewhat disappointing, as it was fully expected that at least 300 members would turn out.

The route to the church was as follows: Mercants row to State, Washington, School, Beacon and Arlington sts, Commonwealth av to Exeter and Boylston sts.

Fortunately, seats had been reserved for the company, but long before its arrival every vacant place had been occupied by their friends.

The following officers were detailed at the church: Maj Chas. G. Davis, Cols S. M. Hedges, Horace T. Rockwell, Majs C. W. Stevens, L. N. Duchesney, Cpts E. E. Allen, Wm. Hatch Jones, A. A. Folsom, E. P. Cramm, Henry E. Smith, Geo. O. Noyes, Thos. J. Olys, Lieuts Emery Grover, C. C. Adams, Geo. H.

LIEUT JOHN C. POTTER.

Innis, James M. Usher, Fred I. Clayton, John E. Cotter.

The services at the church were of a most impressive character, and were as follows:

Salutation to the colors; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee;" invocation, "Lord, now the hero's mortal wars are ended," male chorus; reading of Scripture; hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," male chorus; address, Rev Edward A. Horton; solo, "The Lost Chord," Miss Grace Carter; oration, Hon William A. Morse; "Face to Face," Mr Johnson and male chorus; "America;" taps and benediction.

The musical service was under the direction of private Joseph L. White, with Miss Grace Carter contralto soloist, Mr Herbert Johnson conductor and Mr Samuel Carr organist.

At the conclusion of the service the company will return to the armory, where a collation will be served.

Col J. Payson Bradley was chief of staff, Capt E. R. Frost had command of the veteran company, and Col William H. Oakes was officer of the day.

The Governor
requests the honor of your presence at the Inauguration Ceremonies, on Thursday, January the second, 1902.
at twelve o'clock.
State House,
Boston.

ANCIENTS PAY TRIBUTE TO WASHINGTON

Feasting, Oratory and Song the Features---Other Celebrations

(Photo by Notman.)

THE HON. CHARLES S. HAMLIN.

One of the speakers at the banquet of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company marked its annual celebration of Washington's Birthday at the Quincy House yesterday. Two big dining halls were filled, 250 being present.

To a song of welcome to one another the blue points disappeared, soup lubricated a pean of reunion, fish went with a strong lunged rendition of "The Bowery"---and so on to the coffee. Each course demanded a song. They sang the "Old Oaken Bucket," and as one was not present, the nearest thing to one to quaff from, a glass, was used.

The walls, save in the rear where hung a gigantic picture of Washington, were entirely covered with the national colors. Behind the speakers' chairs, side by side, were the banners of England and of the United States, and on each side of these fac-similes of the Petsy Ross, the pine tree and the colonial flags.

The bunting stirred to the air of patriotism that was rampant and the speakers one and all revelled in the thought of the story of the country of which they are citizens. The eagle screamed from start to finish, but interspersed continually were words of good will and friendship for all the nations of the earth.

The Hon. Danforth E. Ainsworth was easily the star speaker of the day. His address, lasting though it did over an hour, had not a dull moment and he was continually interrupted with cheers and applause. At the close he was given an ovation, such as even a speaker at an Ancient dinner rarely receives.

A new sort of speech was introduced---that is, what might be called an inter-prandial address. It happened in this way: The Hon. Charles S. Hamlin had was adjourned until after Mr. Hamlin should speak. He made his address, and hastened to catch his train. Then the feasting was resumed.

Commander Frank Huckins presided over the speaking and at the head table on either side of him sat Colonel possess. There are no limitations. Who shall measure our nation's conquest, who limit her conquests, the conquests of peace as well as war?"

Wilmon W. Blackmar

Responding to the toast to the "Grand Army of the Republic," General Wilmon W. Blackmar, department commander of the G. A. R. in Massachusetts, said in part:

"When the great war of the Rebellion first threatened us, you know and I know those there were many descendants of those who had fought under Washington of worthy sires."

"But may we not in answer point out all the battles that ended at Appomattox, when Lee lay down his arms to that most magnificent soldier of modern times, Ulysses S. Grant?"

Welcome to Prince Henry

After the cheering following the speech of General Blackmar, a sentiment was proposed by the presiding officer. It was: "Welcome to Prince Henry of Prussia. Let the United States preserve peace with all nations of the earth and good will to men." Then, while all stood, the band played "Wacht am Rhine."

The toast to the "Soldiers of the Revolution" was responded to by Lieutenant J. A. Davis of the Ancients.

Senator Berry

The toast to "Our City" was responded to by Senator John K. Berry. He said in part:

"I wonder if I am hereafter to address you as 'gentlemen of the jury' or not. Long ago, after the first annual dinner it was decided that none of you would have to serve on the grand or petit juries. I have been invited here today, perhaps, because I am the chairman of the committee that is to decide upon your case. It would be well, perhaps, to have you on the grand jury when, on gatherings like this, you could consider the cases that came up before you."

"This all being the case, I shall impose a pretty heavy burden of proof on Senator Sullivan of Charlestown to show that you should not be exempt from jury duty."

Colonel J. Payson Bradley spoke briefly on general topics, saying that in all Mr. Ainsworth had said of comparison between Europe and the United States he had not told how much of any country could be put into Boston.

"Our Company, the West Point of Early Days," was a toast to which Colonel Henry Walker responded briefly.

Henry D. Atwood recited Byron's "Isles of Greece" and another patriotic poem for encore, and the meeting closed with the singing of "America."

AT THE OLD SOUTH

Award of Prizes to Pupils for Essays---
Address of President Capen

At the Old South celebration yesterday President Elmer H. Capen was the orator and with him came the choir of Tufts College, some 20 young men and women, attired in academical gowns.

Mr. Edwin D. Mead presided, and in his introductory address referred to his recent European trip, during which he visited the home of the Washington family in England. At the conclusion of his address he announced the award of the prizes which are given annually to the scholars of the various schools for the excellence of their essays.

Mr. Mead said the essays numbered almost 200, and were all of a creditable character, many of them being excellent. There were four prizes, two of $40 each and two of $25 each. The subject of the first essay was: "The Explorations of the New England Coast Previous to the

GENERAL W. W. BLACKMAR,
Who responded to a toast to the Grand Army of the Republic.

Henry Walker, Colonel J. Payson Bradley, Lieutenant John C. Potter, Lieutenant Frank P. Stone, the Hon. Charles S. Hamlin, the Hon. Danforth E. Ainsworth of New York, General Wilmon W. Blackmar of the Grand Army, Lieutenant J. A. Davis and Senator J. K. Berry.

Commander Huckins

After the final coffee had been imbibed the presiding officer, Commander

(Photo by Chickering.)

LIEUTENANT FRANK HUCKINS,

Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery, who presided at the banquet.

64th Anniversary
of the National Lancers.

Admit Capt. F. Huekins A.G.H.A. Co.

To Banquet at Faneuil Hall.

June 14th 1901 at 3.30 P.M.

Not Transferable.

To be taken up at the table.

The pleasure of your company is requested
at

The 64th Annual Dinner
of the

National Lancers
at .

Faneuil Hall, Boston.

on Friday, June 14th 1901.

at 3.30 P.M.

Frank K. Neal.
Captain.

Please reply.

Previous to the music Capt. Hucks addressed those present, and told something of what had been done looking toward a visit of the company to Charleston this winter, and said that the excursion rested with the members themselves. He then introduced Capt. John Bordman, who spoke briefly and pointedly on certain features of the Philippines. Then Lieut. John C. Potter called for "first music," and the fun commenced. Some 30 vaudeville artists took part in the liveliest sort of an entertainment, which lasted for nearly two hours, the pretty curtain of the new stage falling on the last act "amid showers of applause." It is understood that the great success of the evening was largely due to the hard work of Lieut. Frank P. Stone, and later he will be presented with a brownstone front."

TWO hundred and fifty members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, with guests, "remembered Washington" in strenuous shape at the Quincy House yesterday. It had as guests the Hon. Danforth S. Ainsworth of Albany, N. Y., Gen. W. W. Blackmar, department commander of the Grand Army of the state; the Hon. Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, representatives from the regular army and the militia, Senator John K. Barry, Alderman Sidney Cushing, the Hon. George E. Mitchell, Dr. D. G. Eldredge of the naval brigade, Mr. F. N. Swift, Mr. J. H. Lakin, Mr. Alvin Belden, Mr. H. H. Cole, Mr. J. M. Bruff, Rochester, N. Y.; Mr. J. E. Osborn, Mr. A. L. Cady, Mr. Charles N. Chase, Lieut. J. S. Carter, U. S. N.; Mr. W. E. Odiorne, Mr. J. E. Loud, Mr. Joseph S. Williams, Mr. Mansel H. Bush, Mr. W. B. Wood and Mr. Thomas Hersom of New Bedford, Mr. Joseph H. Elmhorn, San Rosa, Cal.; Mr. Charles Gallagher, Mr. Don Holman and others.

Previous to the dinner, Capt. Frank Huckins and officers held a reception in the parlors, and for an hour there was plenty of informal fun on tap. Two of the largest dining rooms of the hotel were required to accommodate the party, and they had been beautifully decorated with bunting and flags for the occasion.

At the head of the main dining room the old colonial colors were displayed, and during the afternoon they served as a wonderful inspiration to the speakers. An orchestra was on hand, and during the dinner hour played appropriate music.

It is seldom that the company has succeeded in getting together such a representation of its roster as was present at this function. Gloucester sent the heaviest delegation headed by that sweet singer, Sergt. Frank Homans, while New Bedford, Attleboro, Walpole, Taunton and other cities contributed their quota.

Before the dinner was over, Capt. Huckins rapped for order, and introduced the Hon. Charles S. Hamlin, saying that, as the speaker had to leave by the 4 o'clock train for New York, the order of exercises would be changed to accommodate him.

Mr. Hamlin was received with enthusiasm, and spoke in part, as follows:

It gives me pleasure to accept your kind invitation and to respond to the toast, "Washington." It is certainly a privilege to speak upon such a theme before a society whose corporate existence has extended unbroken from the year 1638 to the present day, covering almost the entire period of our existence as a colony, a confederation and an empire.

The progress of our country from the time our fathers signed the immortal compact at Provincetown to the taking of office of Washington was marvellous. Our progress since that time has been even more marvellous. Our development has been steady and continuous. The problems we have had to solve have been many; the dark clouds of uncertainty have lowered over us, but have cleared away in the sunlight of American courage, manliness and character. Our ideals have been high; let us see to it that those ideals of truth and honor shall never be lowered.

The growth and development of the United States in recent days has brought us face to face with new problems. For the greater part of the last century we had scarcely time to look abroad, so busily were we engaged developing our own resources. Our home markets offered almost illimitable opportunities for increase; the development of our internal resources absorbed our time and energy. We had neither time nor desire to devote to foreign diplomacy. We had no interest specially in foreign affairs as such. In this course we but followed the precepts of Washington, and our development is the best tribute to his genius.

The new century, however, brings with it new problems. We find that our country has such agricultural resources that in one of our states, the wheat consumption of the United States can easily be supplied. Our manufacturing industries have so developed that in eight months of the year we can fill to overflowing our warehouses, for which our home market can furnish no customers. Originally believing that our industries were of the highest cost in the world as to production, we have suddenly awakened to the fact that we are able to undersell in the world's market the other great nations of the world.

To dispose of our surplus products abroad in order to relieve domestic glut at home is now necessarily a prime object of our statesmanship. To protect that surplus, and keep foreign markets now opened to us, is as genuine protection as was ever devised for the benefit of our home industries in the early days, when our markets could not be supplied by home productions, and when our industries were in an undeveloped state.

The old doctrine of protection shut out foreign goods to encourage the manufacturing of domestic goods. The new protection would admit foreign goods in order that the steadily growing surplus of agriculture and manufactures may find and retain a foreign market.

This industrial development brings us into new relations with foreign powers. Just so long as we were engaged developing our internal resources, so long as the home market signified ever-expanding consumption, we had no care for foreign policies, and thus avoided foreign complications. When, however, the development of our industries made the phrase "home market" one of limitation rather than of expansion, we came to realize that our industrial salvation depends upon the maintenance of friendly relations with foreign nations, who must relieve us of our surplus to save us from industrial stagnation.

The United States, therefore, has had to join the family of nations. For all to join the first time in our history we are formulating a foreign policy, so-called, on the ground of self-interest in foreign affairs.

This is well illustrated in the recent note of Secretary Hay protesting against the occupation of Manchuria by Russia on the ground that thereby a Russian monopoly of trade would be established to the injury of American commerce.

Such a policy may at first sight seem inconsistent with the teachings of Washington, but upon reflection it can be recognized as the natural evolution of our national progress.

In our dealings with foreign nations, however, we should insist upon the high ideals of Washington. Our conduct should be such that all nations should respect us. Our diplomacy should rest upon that strongest of foundations—truth.

Let us insist that in our national relations we shall apply the same principles of conduct as would be expected in an individual. Let us establish truth and justice as a maxim of American diplomacy.

Nor should we ever forget that, under our system of government, no citizen rests with the people, that no ruler has even temporary power other than that delegated by all the people.

To retain our national absolute freedom should always insist upon appointed custom of speech. If the appointed by their leaders of American sovereignty on which acts ignore the true principles, no patriot can government is founded, no patriot Frozen Pudding. Sultana Roll, Claret Sauce.

Apples. Assorted Cake.
Roquefort Cheese. Oranges. Malaga Grapes.
Black Coffee. Apollinaris. Toasted Crackers.

With the cigars came another reminder that this was a military function, the "smokers" being sent around in a fac-simile of an old fashioned cartridge, each box bearing on its "flap" the initials of the company.

It was late in the afternoon when Capt. Huckins rapped for order and said:

We may celebrate the birthday of many men of this country, but none with greater enthusiasm than that of Washington. Many organizations may celebrate the birthday of Washington, but none can do so more appropriately than this company. Honoring the name of Washington, we should not forget the men who landed on these shores, settled and developed this country, fought for their homes and laid the foundation for the work of Washington over a hundred years before Washington had a birthday.

Through the years of colonial wars this company had fitted and made soldiers to help the defence of the colonies. Coming down to the period of Washington's time this company had done much to fit its members to be a great aid to Washington when he took command of the army at Cambridge. Look over the roll of this company through all those years. Go to our armory and see the pictures of the commanders along through the years of 1760 to 1810 and you will see what the company did for Washington when he needed men. It gave him soldiers.

This company was to the colonies in the 17th and 18th centuries what West Point was in the 19th century and is in the 20th century—it fitted out officers for the colonies as does West Point for the United States. Throughout the wars this country has had, you will always see men from this company going to the front in defence of the country.

We are assembled here today to do honor to the name of Washington; to do honor to the soldiers of the colonial wars, the soldiers of the revolution, and the soldiers who came out at the call of Lincoln, and held together the Union Washington did so much to create.

On days like this let us pause. Let us go back for one moment and look at the past and consider, for fear in these days of rush we may forget the man and deeds of the period that put this country on a solid, firm basis. From those thoughts of the past we may get a better idea of what we should do in the future.

From our pause for the moment we may get a surer footing and a clearer idea of the right and wrong step, and then go on with our work in a less hasty manner.

Today behind the speaker's chair you see the flag of the colonies, the flag of Washington as he took command of the army, and the flag of the American revolution, all of which went to make up the flag of this nation, and made possible the stars and stripes of the United States. All citizens should do honor to Washington on this day, and at all times defend the flag of their country.

In closing he introduced the Hon. Danforth E. Ainsworth of Albany, N. Y., to respond to the toast "Our Country." The speaker held his audience for the best part of an hour, and was frequently interrupted with applause, and at his close was given a round of cheers. He said how much he appreciated the honor of addressing such a company in such a historic city. He thought it appropriate on such a day to discuss the present and future of this great land of ours.

A German prince comes here today, he said, to demonstrate the great goodwill that the German empire has for this new giant that has appeared on the western continent, and England, jealously watching the impression that the visit makes, immediately begins to disclose great state secrets for the purpose of demonstrating to the American people that she alone was our warmest friend during the late unpleasantness.

The speaker then went on to demonstrate the wonderful resources and capacity of this country, as he said, a country not noticed five years ago by the cabinets of the world. As to its size, he said, place every inhabitant of the world within the territory of the United States and sprinkle them over our territory as thick as they are in Belgium today, and you have got them all within the boundaries of the possessions of our government, and you then have more than twice the area of Germany, France, England and Ireland without a human being in it.

He continued his comparisons in other directions and closed amid a burst of applause. It was the speech of the day.

Gen. W. W. Blackmar was the next speaker to bring, as he said, the congratulations of the Grand Army of the state. He paid a glorious tribute to state. He paid a glorious tribute to the soldiers of Washington and to the men of '61 and '65, who, he said, had made possible the maintenance of the country so firmly established by Washington.

Following Gen. Blackmar's remarks, Capt. Huckins proposed this sentiment, which was drunk standing, the orchestra playing "The Watch on the Rhine."

"There is between this nation and England a most friendly feeling. This company has had not a little share in bringing this about. I wish to propose a sentiment:

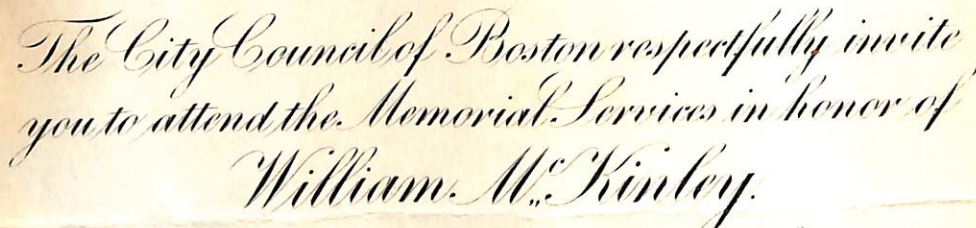

"Welcome to Prince Henry of Germany to the United States! May his visit result in the cementing of a closer friendship between the two nations, the United States and Germany! May the United States continue to secure the friendship of all the nations of the earth!

"Let these friendships be free from entanglements and alliances—leading up to 'peace on earth, good will to men.'"

Lieut. James G. Davis followed the reading of the sentiment, speaking to the toast, "The Soldiers of the Revolution." He told of the influence of the colonial soldiers, saying they "lighted the light now enlightening the world," and closed with a sentiment to "Our Heroes."

Senator Barry made a pleasant response for "Our Friends," alluding humorously to the bill now before the Legislature to make the Ancients serve on juries. He was followed by Col. J. Payson Bradley for "Our City," Col. Henry Walker closing the exercises with an appreciated effort in response to the toast, "Our Country."

A feature of the attendance was the number of past commanders who were on hand to assist Capt. Huckins, including Capt. Folsom, Fottler, Allen, Cramm and Bradley. The credit of carrying out the very successful function belongs to Capt. Huckins, 1st Lieut. John C. Potter, Lieut. Thomas J. Tate, Commissary-Captain George Hall and Lieut. E. E. Sullivan.

*The eulogy will be pronounced by John L. Bates.
The services will begin at eight o'clock.*

James H. Doyle, Chairman.
Joseph T. Stewart, Philip O'Brien, John L. Kelly,
E. Peabody, Gerry, Daniel J. Hiley, March G. Bennett,
William L. White, William M. Curtis, Joseph F. Carter,
George M. Kice, Patrick J. Shieb, Frank W. Thayer.
Committee of Arrangements.

Big Gathering at the Reception and Banquet—Eloquent Words from Many Speakers.

Notwithstanding the storm, there was a great gathering of members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company at the Quincy house yesterday, to do honor to the father of the country, and in the flow of eloquence that followed the usual feast Washington was eulogized by every speaker as a soldier and statesman.

Possibly the most enjoyable part of the occasion was the reception that preceded the banquet, and which took place in the large parlors. Capt Frank Hukins, with Lieut John Potter, Lieut Frank P. Stone and Adjt Thomas J. Tute, received the guests and turned them over to Capt Hall and Lieut Wells, who did the honors in behalf of the company.

A pleasant hour was spent in social and convivial manner, and later the whole company adjourned to the dining room, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion.

At the guests' table sat Capt Huckins, and on his right or left Hon Charles S. Hamlin, Col Henry Walker, Hon Danforth E. Ainsworth of New York, Col J. Payson Bradley, Capt Jacob Fottler, Capt Edward E. Allen and Capt Edward P. Cramm.

Commander Huckins in welcoming the guests said:

has had, you will always see men from this company going to the front in defense of the country. We are assembled here today to do honor to the name of Washington; to do honor to the soldiers of colonial wars; the soldiers of the revolution and the soldiers who came out to the call of Lincoln and held together the union Washington did much to create.

Hon Charles S. Hamlin responded to the toast of the evening. "Washington, soldier, statesman, President. The first guiding hand of the ship of state on its voyage to the front of the great nations of the earth."

Gen W. W. Blackmar, the newly elected department commander of the G. A. R., met with a cordial reception when he was called upon to respond for the veterans, and in his brief address he

OR WILL INVEST $50,000 any part of the same in any rate, paying business, E 186, Herald Office.
join an established for a good man to Address $ 186, Herald Office.
Address $ 186, Herald Office.

Illustrated Our New Fifty-Pay Investment of Money
published, Daily Letter on application.
Wall Street Guide, Just

STOCKS, BONDS, GRAIN and INVESTMENTS.
Orders executed for

85 DEVONSHIRE ST., BOSTON.

J. L. McLEAN & CO.
26 Broad Street,
New York.
436 Chestnut Street,

53c and 63c Each

BRUSSELS, 6-Frame
Body Brussels.
high-grade goods, not broken rolls, but full pieces, $1.37 each at.

58c

Yard squares; $1.00 value at.

Below Wilton Goods, and 6c self-oiled fringe.

10.98
7.98
4.98

Value.

SMYRNA RUGS in carpet sizes.
Size.

6 x 8 feet.....$7.50
7 1/2 x 10 1/2 feet.....12.00
9 x 12 feet.....15.00

CARPET MATS with

and the following two-steps and smiling waltzes were enjoyed as the schoolboys and schoolgirls can celebrate. Father Thomas A. Walsh, Deacon and Rev. J. H. Gallagher sub-technician. He made a short by-technician address. He made a fitting memorial to the deceased brothers of Mount Pleasant. His subject was duty and he showed how it should extend through the different spheres of life. He said the knights should follow the teachings of the church. He spoke of the reward of duty and cited Washington as an example. He also spoke of the self-sacrifice of Thomas Moore.

[illegible]

ing for low li.
high C and second while he was delay monse, first in the act of reaching for plane than the two of the singing dions caused greater laughter and apa share of interest. Mice, too, came in for fect of interest. Mice, too, came in for of the city streets can be made an ob-the snuff and remittah English sparrows lecture conclusively proved that even a number of tales about birds, and the President Roosevelt. There were also Hes on the ranch formerly owned by Bills, the crutty and cunning wolf which Germany.

which is beyond the widest conception of any person in the world." (Great applause.)

"Gladstone said long ago that America was to be what England had been, the leading commercial nation of the world."

"All over the world it was thought that we would be nothing better than a great park; that we were an agricultural people to a great extent; that our products were chiefly for the home market, but nothing more. There wasn't any idea abroad that we would ever cross their commercial horizon. (Laughter.)"

"It is a fact that the United States with three per cent. of the population of the world supplied 32 per cent. of its food products. Now, my friends, save not the prosperity which we are now plause). It was built in America by American workmen and every metal to the hole for which it was intended when that bridge was sent over and put in place. (Prolonged applause.) 'Go to South Africa and you will find a railway constructed of Carnegie steel from Pittsburg; offered by British officers but with freight cars from America; its palace cars from the Pullman Company. We are shipping cotton to Sheffield; coal to Newcastle; tin to Birmingham and champagne to Paris. (Great laughter and applause.)

'Coming over here on the train yesterday, a manufacturer asked me how the good times were to continue. I said to him: 'America is just entering upon a period of prosperity, the length of which and the breadth of which no one can tell. It is a

British engineer's and contractor's fee was $6,000,000 and they wanted 10 years in which to complete the contract. The Yankee steps in. His fee is $4,000,000 and he agreed to complete it in 18 months. (Laughter and applause.)

There was a great suspension bridge t up the other day in British India.

ANCIENTS CELEBRATE.

Big Gathering at the Reception and Banquet—Eloquent Words from Many Speakers.

Notwithstanding the storm, there was a great gathering of members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company at the Quincy house yesterday, to pay at the Quincy house yesterday, to do honor to the father of the country, and in the flow of eloquence that followed the usual feast Washington was enologized by every speaker as a soldier and statesman.

Possibly the most enjoyable part of the occasion was the reception that preceded the banquet, and which took place in the large parlors. Capt Frank Huckins, with Lieut John Potter, Lieut Frank P. Stone and Adjt Thomas J. Tute, received the guests and turned them over to Capt Hall and Lieut Wells, who did the honors in behalf of the company.

A pleasant hour was spent in social and convivial manner, and later the whole company adjourned to the dining room, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion.

At the guests' table sat Capt Huckins, and on his right or left Hon Charles S. Hamlin, Col Henry Walker, Hon Danforth E. Ainsworth of New York, Col J. Payson Bradley, Capt Jacob Fottler, Capt Edward E. Allen and Capt Edward P. Cramm.

Commander Huckins in welcoming the guests said:

"Throughout the wars this country has had, you will always see men from this company going to the front in defence of the country. We are assembled here today to do honor to the name of Washington; to do honor to the soldiers of colonial wars; the soldiers of the revolution and the soldiers who came out at the call of Lincoln and held together the union Washington did so much to create."

Hon Charles S. Hamlin responded to the toast of the evening, "Washington, soldier, statesman, President. The first guiding hand of the ship of state on its voyage to the front of the great nations of the earth."

Gen W. W. Blackmar, the newly elected department commander of the G. A. R., met with a cordial reception when he was called upon to respond for the veterans, and in his brief address he raised considerable enthusiasm.

He was followed by Hon Danforth E. Ainsworth, who was given a most enthusiastic cheer.

He said in part: "America stands today like a coy, blushing girl before all the nations of the earth. Today Germany is proffering us her strongest friendship and her cordial alliance, and sends her prince to bear her good will. England, the greatest military nation of the world, begins to disclose great state secrets to demonstrate to us that she was our greatest friend in the recent unpleasantness."

"America alone opens the doors of the Chinese empire, and the youngest Japan and oldest England stand as sentinels on each side of the doorway as a tribute to American diplomacy."

"Our country! Is there a man today whose veins do not thrill with highest patriotic pride when he thinks of her achievements?"

Lieut James A. Davis paid a glowing tribute to Washington and Col Henry Walker made a patriotic address.

Sergt George Raymond distributed a beautiful souvenir of the company.

ANCIENTS' "SMOKER"

Washington Smiled Upon It.

Great Crowd at the Quincy House.

D. E. Ainsworth's Great Speech.

Once again in glorious remembrance—"George Washington"—was the toast that brought every loyal "Ancient" to his feet yesterday in the big dining hall of the Quincy yesterday, to drink the health of the Father of his Country and to sing the "Star Spangled Banner" in stentorian chorus.

Since all the functions of the present winter have been held in "Old Faneuil," this naturally was the biggest "Smoker" in point of attendance of the season. It was necessary to throw both the large dining halls into one and then there was scarcely room enough for all that desired to be seated.

The walls glowed with the red, white and blue. Washington's benign countenance looked down upon the old company which he had known as more than a century old when he entered upon his martial career. He faced the flags under which he led his Continentals to victory from Cambridge Common to Yorktown—the Pine Tree flag of the Massachusetts Bay Colony with its "Appeal to Heaven," under which he found the army at Cambridge and which he carried to Dorchester Heights; the blue flag with its single cross and pine tree; the striped flag with its double cross of St. George and St. Andrew in the field, and finally the flag adopted at Philadelphia, when, after the Declaration of Independence, Mrs. Ross of Philadelphia introduced the circle of 13 stars on the blue field to accompany the red and white stripes.

The Guests.

Captain Frank Huckins presided at the head of the table and upon his right had Danforth E. Ainsworth, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction of New York, on his left Hon. Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, and right and left up and down the table, Col. J. Payson Bradley, Past Commander Allen, Captain Jacob Fottler, Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar, Department Commander of the G. A. R., Col. Henry Walker, Capt. A. A. Folson, Capt. E. H. Cram, Dr. D. E. Eldredge, C. E. Chase, Lieut. Col. E. W. M. Bailey, Eighth Infantry, Hon. John Flaherty of Gloucester, Hon. Charles Russell of Gloucester, Fred A. Fisher of Gloucester, Captain Warren of the Boston Police, Lieut. James B. Davis of Boston and many others.

The menu was a gem in its typography as well as in its subject matter. Its cover presented a beautiful embossed picture of Washington and its pages presented this diversity of course:

Blue Points, Deep Shell.
Green Turtle a l'Anglaise
Consomme, Julienne.
Green Olives.
Radishes.
Boiled Fresh Salmon with Peas.
Sliced Tomatoes.
Pommes Duchesse.
Fillet of Beef a la Bearnaise.
Philadelphia Capon, Cranberry Sauce.
String Beans.
Mashed Brown Potatoes.
Roman Punch.
Red-Head Duck, Currant Jelly.
Lettuce Salad.
Saratoga Chips.
Frozen Pudding.
Claret Sauce.
Sultana Roll.
Assorted Cake.
Apples.
Oranges.
Malaga Grapes.
Roquefort.
Toasted Crackers.
Black Coffee.
Apollinaris.

Captain Huckins said he proposed for the first time to make a speech and asked the company to give him a chance. He said that organized in 1638 this company had come down intact to the present day. Its record from 1760 to 1840 would show what the Ancient and Honorable Artillery did for Washington. It gave him soldiers in the company was to the colonies in the 17th and 18th centuries what West Point was in the 19th and 20th centuries. It was in the 19th and 20th centuries as did fitted the officers for the colonies as did West Point those for the United States.

CHARLES S. HAMLIN.

Two notable speeches followed, that of Charles S. Hamlin in the warmth of his encomium for Roosevelt and his policy, and that of Mr. Ainsworth of New York. But for his allusion to Hon. Richard Olney no man would dream that Mr. Hamlin was a Democrat. He left early to fill an engagement in New York, but before leaving he said in response to the toast, "Washington, Soldier Statesman, President."

"The progress of our country from the time our fathers signed the immortal compact at Provincetown to the taking of office of Washington was marvelous. Our progress since that time has been even more marvelous."

"The United States has had to join the family of nations. For almost the first time in our history we are formulating a foreign policy, so-called, on the ground of self-interest in foreign affairs."

"This is well illustrated in the recent note of Secretary Hay protesting against the occupation of Manchuria by Russia on the ground that thereby a Russian monopoly of trade would be established to the injury of American commerce."

"Such a policy may at first sight seem inconsistent with the teachings of Washington, but upon reflection it can be recognized as the natural evolution of our national progress."

"In our dealings with foreign nations, however, we should insist upon the high ideals of Washington. Our conduct should be such that all nations should respect us. Our diplomacy should rest upon that strongest of foundations—truth."

"Let us insist that in our national relations we shall apply the same principles of conduct as would be expected in an individual. Let us establish truth and justice as a maxim of American diplomacy."

The toast "Our President" was responded to by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the entire company. Chaplain Stephen H. Robin was not present to respond in his customary eloquent fashion.

DANFORTH E. AINSWORTH.

To the toast, "Our Country, First of the Nations of the Earth!"

Gloversville, N. Y. Dublin is putting in an American electrical system at a cost of more than $15,000,000, contract price. (Great applause.)

A Contrast.

"There was a great suspension bridge put up the other day in British India. The British engineer's and contractor's price was $6,000,000 and they wanted four years in which to complete the contract. The Yankee steps in. His price is $4,000,000 and he agreed to complete it in 18 months. (Laughter and applause.) It was built in America by American workmen and every rivet fitted the hole for which it was intended when that bridge was sent over and put in place. (Prolonged applause.)

"Go to South Africa and you will find a railway constructed of Carnegie steel from Pittsburgh; officered by British officers but with freight cars from America; its palace cars from the Pullman Company. We are shipping cotton to Sheffield; coal to Newcastle; to Paris. (Great laughter and applause.)

"Coming over here on the train yesterday, a manufacturer asked me how long the good times were to continue, and I said to him: 'America is just entering upon a period of prosperity, the length of which and the breadth of which is beyond the wildest conception of any person in the world.' (Great applause.)

"Gladstone said long ago that America was to be what England had been, the leading commercial nation of the world."

"All over the world it was thought that we would be nothing better than a great park; that we were an agricultural people to a great extent; that our products were chiefly for the home market, but nothing more. There wasn't any idea abroad that we would ever cross their commercial horizon. (Laughter.)

"It is a fact that the United States with three per cent. of the population of the world supplied 32 per cent. of its food products. Now, my friends, I say that the prosperity which we are now enjoying is destined to be permanent. (Applause.)

The Iron Age.

"This is the iron age. It is the age which Bismarck described when he said that iron is king and coal is its prime minister. Where is the greatest iron field in the world? In every State but seven of these United States. Iron ore in America is better than the Swedish ore. We've got our richest iron territory on the shores of Lake Superior, right at the water's edge, with the readiest water communication in the world to every port. No other nation can do it. England has 90,000 square miles of coal fields; Germany has 5500 square miles; France, 1800; the rest of Europe, 1400. But our beloved country within her own borders has more than 195,000 square miles. (Tumultuous applause.)

"If England, Scotland and Wales were put into one vast coal field it would not equal in area the number of square miles we have in this land of ours."

"Our Country: We have here, too, the cheapest labor in the world, though the Chinaman is willing to work for 11 cents a day. American labor is the cheapest in the world because it is better housed, better clothed and better educated."

"What do we Americans spring from? The Scotchman, inflexible. He keeps the Sabbath Day and everything else he can get his hands on. (Laughter.) Then there is the man from Southern France—nervous, restless, always active. The German, dull and slow and plodding, and then the Swede, and out of them all we bring the American of the best blood known to the human family. (Great applause.)

"Today in Massachusetts the average wage earner in your shoe factories gets $12 per week. In Germany the average wage is $5 a week, and yet in Germany the element of labor cost in the shoe is 56 cents, while in Massachusetts the average labor cost in the American shoe is but 42 cents. (Applause.)

"Up to last year but two nations in the world had borrowed money of us. Since then Germany has placed two loans; Switzerland, two loans; Great Britain has obtained two loans. But, my friends, the bonds of Great Britain sold for 88 cents on the dollar, and the bonds of our beloved country sold for 106 cents on the dollar." (Tremendous applause.)

"We went into that recent war with Spain with no thought of increasing our domain. Nay, that was the very thing we said that we would not do. But God has led us out of our shell and into that great domain of politics, my friends, for His own mighty purposes. No man and no set of men has ever laid the policy of this country. God has done it. God himself has written it, and now He only looks for American statesmanship that shall be equal to the emergency. (Tremendous applause.)

"Teach politics in this Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company; teach politics in your schools, and by that I mean the politics that Hopkins wrote. God says to you as in those lines of Lowell:

"Bring me men to match my mountains;
Bring me men to match my plains;
Men with empire in their purpose;
And new eras in their brains.
Pioneers to clear thought marshland,
And to clear old error's fen
Bring me men to match my mountains;
Bring me men."

(Enthusiastic applause.)

The entire company rose to its feet and cheered the speaker till the ceiling rang again.

Following Mr. Ainsworth, Department Commander Blackmar was introduced to speak for the Grand Army. He eloquently described the work of the boys of '61 and '65, and declared himself proud of the part his generation had performed. He urged them to live by the memory of the War of the Rebellion, and remember the men who made it possible to establish the American policy. Three stunning cheers were given to General Blackmar.

Capt. Huckins then read a sentiment of welcome to Prince Henry in German, the company responding with singing "Das Wacht am Rhein."

Lieut. James A. Davis spoke to "The Soldier of the Revolution," Senator John K. Berry made a funny speech; Col. Henry Walker responded for the company, and Henry Atwood read a poem. The smoker ended with all hands singing "America."

that brought every loyal "Ancient" to his feet yesterday in the big dining hall of the Quincy yesterday, to drink the health of the Father of his Country and to sing the "Star Spangled Banner" in stentorian chorus.

Since all the functions of the present winter have been held in "Old Faneuil," this naturally was the biggest "Smoker" in point of attendance of the season. It was necessary to throw both the large dining halls into one and then there was scarcely room enough for all that desired to be seated. The walls glowed with the red, white and blue. Washington's benign countenance looked down upon the old company which he had known as more than a century old when he entered upon his martial career. He faced the flags under which he led his Continentals to victory from Cambridge Common to Yorktown—the Pine Tree flag of the Massachusetts Bay Colony with its "Appeal to Heaven," under which he found the army at Cambridge and which he carried to Dorchester Heights; the blue flag with its single cross and pine tree; the striped flag with its double cross of St. George and St. Andrew in the field, and finally the flag adopted at Philadelphia, when, after the Declaration of Independence, Mrs. Ross of Philadelphia introduced the circle of 13 stars on the blue field to accompany the red and white stripes.

The Guests.

Captain Frank Huckins presided at the head of the table and upon his right had Danforth E. Ainsworth, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction of New York, on his left Hon. Charles S. Hamlin of Boston, and right and left up and down the table, Col. J. Payson Bradley, Past Commander Allen, Captain Jacob Fottler, Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar, Department Commander of the G. A. R., Col. Henry Walker, Capt. A. A. Folsom, Capt. E. H. Cram, Dr. D. E. Eldredge, C. E. Chase, Lieut. Col. E. W. M. Bailey, Eighth Infantry, Hon. John Flaherty of Gloucester, Hon. Charles Russell of Gloucester, Fred A. Fisher of Gloucester, Captain Warren of the Boston Police, Lieut. James B. Davis of Boston and many others.

The menu was a gem in its typography as well as in its subject matter. Its cover presented a beautiful embossed picture of Washington and its pages presented this diversity of course:

Blue Points, Deep Shell.	Green Olives.
Green Turtle a l'Anglaise
Consomme, Julienne.
Radishes.
Boiled Fresh Salmon with Peas.
Sliced Tomatoes.	Pommes Duchesse.
Filet of Beef a la Bearnaise.
Philadelphia Capon.	Cranberry Sauce.
String Beans.	Mashed Brown Potatoes.
	Roman Punch.
Red-Head Duck, Currant Jelly.
Lettuce Salad.	Saratoga Chips.
	Frozen Pudding.
Sultana Roll	Claret Sauce.
	Assorted Cake.
Apples.	Oranges.
Roquefort	Malaga Grapes.
	Cheese, Toasted Crackers.
	Black Coffee.
	Apollinaris.

Captain Huckins said he proposed for the first time to make a speech and asked the company to give him a chance. He said that organized in 1638 this company had come down intact to the present day. Its record from 1760 to 1810 would show what the Ancient and Honorable Artillery did for Washington. It gave him soldiers. This company was to the colonies in the 17th and 18th centuries what West Point was in the 19th and 20th centuries. It fitted the officers for the colonies as did West Point those for the United States.

CHARLES S. HAMLIN.

Two notable speeches followed, that of Charles S. Hamlin in the warmth of his encomium for Roosevelt and his policy, and that of Mr. Ainsworth of New York. But for his allusion to Hon. Richard Olney no man would dream that Mr. Hamlin was a Democrat. He left early to fill an engagement in New York, but before leaving he said in response to the toast, "Washington, Soldier Statesman, President."

"The progress of our country from the time our fathers signed the immortal compact at Provincetown to the taking of office of Washington was marvelous. Our progress since that time has been even more marvelous.

"The United States has had to join the family of nations. For almost the first time in our history we are formulating a foreign policy, so-called, on the ground of self-interest in foreign affairs.

"This is well illustrated in the recent note of Secretary Hay protesting against the occupation of Manchuria by Russia on the ground that thereby a Russian monopoly of trade would be established to the injury of American commerce.

"Such a policy may at first sight seem inconsistent with the teachings of Washington, but upon reflection it can be recognized as the natural evolution of our national progress.

"In our dealings with foreign nations, however, we should insist upon the high ideals of Washington. Our conduct should be such that all nations should respect us. Our diplomacy should rest upon that strongest of foundations—truth.

"Let us insist that in our national relations we shall apply the same principles of conduct as would be expected in an individual. Let us establish truth and justice as a maxim of American diplomacy.

The toast "Our President," was responded to by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the entire company. Chaplain Stephen H. Roblin was not present to respond in his customary eloquent fashion.

DANFORTH E. AINSWORTH.

To the toast: "Our Country; First Among the Nations of the Earth! Honored at Home, Respected Abroad." Hon. Danforth E. Ainsworth, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of New York, was introduced to respond. From Mr. Ainsworth's lips the company listened to one of the most unusual and remarkable addresses ever heard at a dinner of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Again and again the audience of the speaker stirred his enthusiasm to enthusiastic cheers. He said in part:

"Probably it can be demonstrated, I believe it can, that the aggregate of our trade in the 100 years prior to the last five was about $378,000,000, but by such leaps and bounds have we come to the front that today we can look back to find that the aggregate of our trade in those last five years has been more than $1,400,000,000, or more than 3½ times what it was for the first 100 years.

"Russia has more than 1000 American-built locomotives; Japan has more than 100 of them; Germany has them. Italy has them. Austria has them, and so has New Zealand. What is true of the railway interests is true of other things. Today Boston merchants and Lynn manufacturers are establishing in Regent Circus in London retail shoe stores, demonstrating that there isn't a shoe made so easy to the foot, so elegant in form as the American shoe. (Applause.)

"The same is true of electrical appliances made in the city of Schenectady in my own State. Glasgow is supplying to its tramway electrical appliances made in America and the Superintendent in charge of the supply is a citizen of that great Washington"—was the toast which brought every loyal "Ancient" to his feet yesterday in the big dining hall of the Quincy yesterday, to drink the health of the Father of his Country and to sing the "Star Spangled Banner" in stentorian chorus.

"It is a fact that the United States of the world supplied 32 per cent. of its food products. Now, my friends, I say that the prosperity which we are now enjoying is destined to be permanent. (Applause.)

The Iron Age.

"This is the iron age. It is the age which Bismarck described when he said that iron is king and coal is its prime minister. Where is the greatest iron field in the world? In every State but seven of these United States. Iron ore in America is better than the Swedish ore. We've got our richest iron territory on the shores of Lake Superior, right at the water's edge, with the readiest water communication in the world to every port. No other nation can do it. England has 90,000 square miles of coal fields; Germany has 5600 square miles; France, 1800; the rest of Europe, 1400. But our beloved country within her own borders has more than 196,000 square miles. (Tumultuous applause.)

"If England, Scotland and Wales were put into one vast coal field it would not equal in area the number of square miles we have in this land of ours.

"Our Country: We have here, too, the cheapest labor in the world, though the Chinaman is willing to work for 11 cents a day. American labor is the cheapest in the world because it is better housed, better clothed and better educated.

"What do we Americans spring from? The Scotchman, inflexible. He keeps the Sabbath Day and everything else he can get his hands on. (Laughter.) Then there is the man from Southern France—nervous, restless, always active. The German, dull and slow and plodding, and then the Swede, and out of them all we bring the American of the best blood known to the human family. (Great applause.)

"Today in Massachusetts the average wage earner in your shoe factories gets $12 per week. In Germany the average wage is $5 a week, and yet in Germany the element of labor cost in the shoe is 56 cents, while in Massachusetts the average labor cost in the American shoe is but 42 cents. (Applause.)

"Up to last year but two nations in the world had borrowed money of us. Since then Germany has placed two loans; Switzerland, two loans; Great Britain has obtained two loans. But, my friends, the bonds of Great Britain sold for 88 cents on the dollar, and the bonds of our beloved country sold for 106 cents on the dollar." (Tremendous applause.)

"We went into that recent war with Spain with no thought of increasing our domain. Nay, that was the very thing we said that we would not do. But God has led us out of our shell and into that great domain of politics, my friends, for His own mighty purposes. No man and no set of men has ever laid the policy of this country. God has done it. God himself has written it, and now He only looks for American statesmanship that shall be equal to the emergency. (Tremendous applause.)

"Teach politics in this Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company; teach politics in your schools, and by that I mean the politics that Hopkins wrote. God says to you as in those lines of Lowell:

"Bring me men to match my mountains;
Bring me men to match my plains;
Men with empire in their purpose;
And new eras in their brains.
Pioneers to clear thought marshland,
And to clear old error's fen
Bring me men to match my mountains;
bring me men."

(Enthusiastic applause.)

The entire company rose to its feet and cheered the speaker till the ceiling rang again.

Following Mr. Ainsworth, Department Commander Blackmar was introduced to speak for the Grand Army. He eloquently described the work of the boys of '61 and '65, and declared himself proud of the part his generation had performed. He urged them to live by the memory of the War of the Rebellion, and remember the men who made it possible to establish the American policy. Three stunning cheers were given to General Blackmar.

Capt. Huckins then read a sentiment of welcome to Prince Henry in German, the company responding with singing "Das Wacht am Rhein."

Lieut. James A. Davis spoke to "The Soldier of the Revolution;" Senator John K. Berry made a funny speech; Col. Henry Walker responded for the company and Henry Atwood read a poem. The smoker ended with all hands singing "America."

GUESTS OF ANCIENTS.

Officers of the Old Guard
Come from New York.

Parade with the Boston
Organization Tomorrow.

Artillery Company Plans for Church and Common.

Gov. Boutwell Attends the Anniversary Banquet.

Roster of the Officers for the Annual Celebration.

Interesting feature of the 264th anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, which takes place tomorrow, will be the presence at the banquet of the Hon.

George S. Boutwell. Exactly 51 years ago tomorrow Gov. Boutwell was escorted by this company to the church on Chauncey place to listen to a sermon preached by the late Rev. Thomas Starr King. Following the other duties of the day Gov. Boutwell, on the Common, presented the commission of captain to Gen. Caleb Cushing.

The programme for the observance tomorrow has been completed, and follows about the same lines as have always made these anniversaries so interesting to the officers and members of the company and to citizens generally.

There will be the morning reveille, the parade to the church, the church exercises, the march to Faneuil Hall, the banquet, and, later, the drum-head election on the Common, when the

FRANK HUTCHINS,
1ST LIEUT.
PHOTO BY E. CHAPMAN.

THOS. J. TUTTLE,
ADJUTANT
PHOTO BY E. CHAPMAN.

REV. W. E. C. SMITH,
OF NEW YORK.

FRANK P. STONE,
2ND LIEUT.
PHOTO BY E. CHAPMAN.

JOHN C. POTTER,
LIEUT.

OFFICERS OF ANCIENTS AND PREACHER OF "ELECTION" SERMON.

Governor will invest the officers elected with their badges of authority.

For many years the Old Guard of New York was represented in the anniversary functions of the company, and its representatives' handsome uniforms of white and gold, with their enormous bearskin hats, formed a very attractive feature of the parade. With in recent years the members of the old corps have found it impossible to attend the anniversary, and they have been greatly missed.

This year some 18 members of New York's pride, including Maj. S. Ellis Briggs, commander, and all his officers, will attend and take part in the festivities. A number of the New York contingent reached the city yesterday, and were received at the armory by Capt. Hutchins and his officers in the early evening and entertained.

A feature of the celebration, which brings together a very fashionable attendance, is the church service. This year, as usual, it will be held at the Old South Church, and there will be a very elaborate programme of song and praise, and the customary "election day" sermon.

The musical programme will be under the personal direction of Priv. Joseph L. White. These artists will take part; The Ruggles Street male quartet, Herbert Johnson, first tenor; William T. Meek, second tenor; Arthur B. Hitchcock, first bass; Dr. George R. Clark, second bass, and Miss Bertha Estelle Mason, soprano; Miss Agnes May, contralto, and Priv. Joseph L. White, baritone, with Samuel Carr, organist, and the Salem Cadet band, Jean Missud.

The full church programme will be as follows:

Salutation to the colors,
Salem Cadet band.
Anthem, "Oh, Sing Unto the Lord".....Buck
Ruggles Street quartet.
Doxology.
Company, chorus and congregation.
Invocation.
"From the Depths".....Campana
Dr. Clark.
Reading of the Scriptures.
"Repentance."

work just about now, has his batteries in complete readiness to answer any demands that may be made upon his department. His duties will commence this afternoon, when he anticipates entertaining the delegation from the Old Guard of New York at the attractive feature of the parade. Within recent years the members of the old corps have found it impossible to attend the anniversary, and they have been greatly missed.

This year some 18 members of New York's pride, including Maj. S. Ellis
Briggs, commander, and all his officers, will attend and take part in the festivities. A number of the New York contingent reached the city yesterday, and were received at the armory by Capt.
Huckins and his officers in the early evening and entertained.

A feature of the celebration, which brings together a very fashionable attendance, is the church service. This year, as usual, it will be held at the Old South Church, and there will be a very elaborate programme of song and praise, and the customary "election day" sermon.

The musical programme will be under the personal direction of Priv. Joseph L. White. These artists will take part: The Ruggles Street male quartet,
Herbert Johnson, first tenor; William T.
Meek, second tenor; Arthur B. Hitchcock, first bass; Dr. George R. Clark, second bass, and Miss Bertha Estelle Mason, soprano; Miss Agnes May, contralto, and Priv. Joseph L. White, baritone, with Samuel Carr, organist, and the Salem Cadet band, Jean Missud.

The full church programme will be as follows:

Salutation to the colors,

Salem Cadet band.

Anthem, "Oh, Sing Unto the Lord".....Buck
Ruggles Street quartet.

Doxology,

Company, chorus and congregation.

Invocation.

"From the Depths".....Campana
Dr. Clark.

Reading of the Scripture.

"Repentance".....Gounod
Miss May.

Prayer.

"Come Unto Me".....Coenen
Miss Mason.

Sermon,

The Rev. Walter E. C. Smith.

"Rock of Ages".....Johnson
Mr. Johnson.

Reading of the death roll for the year,

Adj. Thomas Tute.

"Memory's Roll".....Arranged
Messrs. Johnson, Meek, White and Clark.

Ode, "Thy Kingdom Come".....
The Rev. Minot J. Savage, D. D.

One dream through all the ages
Has led the world along;
The wise words of the sages,
The poet in his song,
The prophet in his vision,—
All these have caught the gleam,
Have caught the light Elysian,
Have told the haunting dream.

This dream is that the story
The ages have unrolled
Shall blossom in the glory
Of one long age of gold;
That every man and woman
Shall find life glad and free,
That in whate'er is human
Is hid divinity.

The rod of old oppression
One day shall broken be;
Those held in night's possession
The light of hope shall see;
For tears there shall be laughing,
And peace shall be for strife,
And thirsty lips be quaffing
The wine of glorious life.

The rage and noise of battle
Shall sink, and fall to peace;
The lowing of the cattle,
The fruit and corn increase;
No more the wide sky under
The rattle of the drum,
No more the cannon's thunder,—
God's kingdom shall have come.

"Break, Break, Break".....Anderton
Miss Mason, Miss May and Mr. Johnson.

"America" (the old melody).....Smith
Benediction.

Grand march.....Salem Cadet Band

Capt. Frank Huckins has issued the orders covering the duties of the day. A summary is appended:

Members of the company will report at the armory in full dress uniform at 7:45 o'clock A. M.

Staff, non-commissioned staff, flank-ers to the commander and orderly will report to the captain at 8 o'clock.

Band and field music will report to the adjutant at 8 o'clock.

Color sergeants will report at headquarters at 8 o'clock.

At 8 o'clock the first Lieutenant will form the right wing, the second Lieutenant will form the left wing, and infantry sergeants and artillery sergeants will respectively take command of their companies, 14 files front, including guides, from right to left, according to seniority.

Battalion line will be formed on South
Market street at 8:50 o'clock. Church services will begin at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Walter E. Clifton Smith of New York will preach the anniversary sermon. Dinner will be served at 1 o'clock.
Line will be formed on Merchant's row at 4:30 o'clock.

Col. Charles K. Darling is detailed as officer of the day.

Gen. Samuel C. Lawrence is detailed as personal escort to the Governor and commander-in-chief, and he will report at the State House at 9 o'clock.

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

JURY DUTY.

Proposed to Stop Ancients' Ancient Privilege.

Hearing at State House on Senator Sullivan's Bill.

He Asks Why Ancients Should Be Exempt.

They Insist Upon it as an Honored Tradition.

Past and Present Commanders There to Register Protest.

The present and several of the past commanders of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Boston were at the state house yesterday afternoon to hear some reason advanced for the change in the law relative to jury duty, which was sought by Senator C. S. Sullivan of Suffolk.

The senator had introduced a bill to take away from the Ancients the exemption from jury service which they have enjoyed for years. His bill also removed the exemption granted under the statutes to members of the volunteer militia who, after a certain number of years of service, are not compelled to serve on juries.

The bill, in the third place, provided for an extension of the age limit from up from 30 to 40 years every year to the 65 years, where it is at present, to 70 years. No one appeared in favor of the bill except the senator himself.

Senator Sullivan addressed the committee at some length in defense of the measure which, he said, was not an attack on the Ancients, but simply introduced for the betterment of the jury system, especially in Suffolk county.

If the exemption were removed and the age limit extended as he desired there would be about 23,000 more men available for jury service throughout the state.

He called attention to the recommendations of Atty Gen Knowlton in that official's last annual report.

The senator asked what the Ancients, as a body, had ever done for Massachusetts to warrant the exemption. They were certainly not more entitled to exemption than other men. He had read a great deal about the Ancients, but had not believed all he had read.

He asked why the militiamen who had served nine years should be exempt and not the C. A. R. veterans who served their country at the front? Why should the Ancients be exempt and not the Sons of Veterans?

"If the Ancients are so deeply patriotic they should not hesitate to serve on juries," he said.

No Reason for Exemptions.

In conclusion, he urged that no good reason had ever been given for present-day exemptions and he trusted that the committee, to better the jury system, would report his bill.

He had heard that men joined the militia, and the Ancients as well, simply to escape jury duty. This he did not think was right or should be tolerated any longer.

Capt George A. Perkins appeared to conduct the hearing in behalf of the Ancients. There were present Capt Frank Huckins, commander; Capt Albert A. Folsom and Capt William Hatch Jones, past commanders; also Col Henry Walker, who marshaled the Ancients in 1886 on their campaign across the sea; Col William H. Oakes, Col Thomas F. Edmands and Maj Ferlie A. Dyar of the Massachusetts militia.

Capt Huckins, commander of the Ancients, at the outset denied that men joined the company to escape jury duty. There are many members, he explained, who would still be exempt from jury service even if the proposed bill went through.

As a matter of fact there are also many members of the company who, if their names were drawn, would not refuse to serve. For himself, he declared he would be perfectly willing to waive the exemption if his name were drawn. He did not think the removal of the exemption would mean so much as Senator Sullivan thought it would.

Mr Perkins followed Capt Huckins with a brief review of the history of the Ancients, maintaining that after all the company was little understood today. There were restrictions and control to which it was subject, and it was not simply the social club that many had been led to believe.

The exemption from jury duty was a tradition of the company and one of its recognized privileges. The jury service in Massachusetts, he did not think, was impaired so much because of the exemptions as because of the men who make up the jury lists. There had been no general demand for the proposed legislation, he said.

Dignified Protests.

Col Henry Walker was against the removal of the exemption. As a matter of fact only about two members of the company a year avail themselves of the exemption.

Capt Folsom contented himself with simply saying: "I am in favor of retaining all the ancient privileges of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company."

Col Walker, besides opposing the removal of the exemption, remonstrated against the extension of the age limit as proposed in Mr Sullivan's bill.

Maj Dyar was against the bill, first because it imposed a hardship on members of the state militia, who now give up from 30 to 40 days every year to the service of the state, and secondly because the removal of the exemption now enjoyed by the Ancients would mean practically no advantage as far as the jury system was concerned.

Capt George A. Hall, commissary officer of the Ancients; Col Edmands and Col Oakes were heard in opposition to the bill, and the committee closed the hearing.

ANCIENTS OPPOSE JURY BILL.

Point to Their Glorious Record as Soldiers and Citizens as Reason for Fighting Bill.

The committee on probate and chancery gave a hearing yesterday on the petition of Sen. Sullivan of Suffolk, for an amendment of the law relating to the exemption and qualification of jurors. Senator Sullivan read the last report of Atty. Gen. Knowlton in regard to the subject, and in nearly all its features it coincided with his own petition.

It was the opinion of the bar of Suffolk Co. that the jurors in this county are not as efficient as they should be, and he thought if fewer men were exempted than now, the efficiency of the juries would be increased.

Very often the most competent men are exempt. The militia consists of some 6500, and it is above all supposed to be a patriotic organization, and one that is ever ready to make sacrifices for the country and the commonwealth. Why should they be exempt from the small sacrifice of serving on a jury?

Statistics show that there are now in the state more than 23,000 men who are exempt from jury duty, and among this number are many competent men whose services would be valuable to the commonwealth. Military men claim that their duties prevent them from serving on a jury. Such instances are rare and even when the militia is called out for a strike, etc., the members could easily foresee trouble in time enough to give notice that they would not be able to appear on the jury and thus be excused.

Capt. Huckins of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. spoke in remonstrance to the petition. He said the company would not oppose the bill if it saw any benefit which would accrue by their not opposing it, but in his opinion no benefit would result. There were 645 members in the company, 327 of whom reside outside of Boston, and 319 in Boston. Seventy of the 327 members are over 65, and the number of men left excluding those who are disabled in any way, etc., would be so small that it would not be worth while to change the law in regard to exemption.

George Perkins of the company supported Huckins.

Perkins explained that the company held two encampments, one in June and one in October. There are regular drills once a week, in preparation to receive the English guests. It is a mistaken idea that this company is not active. There are, it is true, a great many old, crippled men in the company, many veterans of the Civil and Spanish wars. This bill, he said, was not going to purify the jury list as much as some expected. Many of the members are lawyers, doctors, ministers, members of the militia, and these constitute quite a class to be exempted.

Sen. Berry desired to know how many were left after the exemptions; Perkins could not say, but thought the number exempted from other causes in Suffolk co. to be 154.

For years the Ancient and Honorables have been regarded as a kind of entertaining company. To a statement of Sen. Sullivan concerning the patriotism of J. M. Sears in performing jury duty, Perkins retorted that it was well known Mr. Sears sought to be exempted from this duty but there was no reason why he should be. Chairman Berry did not see the connection with this question of Sears. He was honorable, but not ancient.

Col. Henry Walker, former commander of the Ancients, reminded the committee that for 150 years the Ancients were a school of soldiery. The officers of all other military bodies were members and it was the teacher of the military. It is still a military body, with military officers. It is a peculiar body inasmuch as it is under the governor entirely, and not under the militia law. Gen. Lincoln, its former commander had it recognized in the national militia laws. Its members were in the swamp fight, King Philip's war, before Quebec, with Washington, and at the close of the civil war, 120 of its members, from major generals down, were in the union ranks. No other company has so many members occupying high civil positions.

As to its "jovial" qualities, Walker said that in England he inspected the company morning and night and never saw a drunken man under the colors. No other body of 200 men could appear with more dignity to represent their country. Not two members a year are now exempted from jury duty because they belong to this company. The proposed law he believed to be absolutely useless.

Sen. Dyar, Capt. G. A. Hall of Dorchester, and Col. Edmands, commander of the First Corps Cadets, opposed the bill.

LONDON CLUB LUNCH.

"Ancients" With Their Ladies Celebrate on Board the Ivernia.

Yesterday the London Club had a luncheon on board the Royal Mail steamship Ivernia to commemorate the fifth anniversary of the visit of the "Ancients" to London, and it is not entirely due to the presence of the ladies that the staunch steamer rocked not a bit. Dr. R. H. Upham presided, and after the luncheon in the dining cabin, the club adjourned to the shady side of the upper deck, where there was greater opportunity for "hot air," not reported by Weather Forecaster Smith.

All the leading lights of the Ancients were present, in mufti, and the occasion was really a ladies' day.

Colonel Sidney M. Hedges, Captain A. A. Folsom and Colonel J. Payson Bradley were present, besides the new commander, Captain Frank Huckins.

Major Charles G. Davis, sergeant-at-arms of the General Court, and the Revs. A. A. Berle and J. K. Applebee were among the guests.

Due honors were paid to the memory of her late Majesty Queen Victoria.

The speakers, among whom were Captain Watt of the Ivernia, touched more especially upon the cordial relations subsisting between the two great English-speaking peoples, and toasts to President McKinley and King Edward VII. were given.

Captain Watt was received with three times three.

He spoke, he said, as an Englishman, on English soil, under the American flag, being a Scotchman withal.

The presence of so many women led the Rev. J. K. Applebee to refer in his remarks to Florence Nightingale, George Eliot, Clara Barton and other women who had figured prominently in Anglo-Saxon modern history.

Mrs. Hamilton recited Kipling's "Absent-Minded Beggar," and was followed by the Rev. A. A. Berle, who reminded the audience of some of the events of the trip five years ago, in which narrative he took occasion to refer to the Rev. E. A. Horton, who was then the chaplain of the Ancients, as the best bass drummer who had ever conducted a band.

He said that if the Honourable Artillery Company of London should ever happen to visit the "Ancients" a campaign in South Africa would be as nothing to what would be their experience in Boston.

Commander Frank Huckins and Past Commander J. Payson Bradley spoke in felicitous fashion of the good feeling between the United States and England, and personally complimented Captain Watt, to his visible embarrassment.

Ancient and Honorable ARTILLERY COMPANY

Capt. FRANK HUCKINS
Commander

264th Fall Field Day

1638

1901

BOSTON

CIGARS FROM CLARK'S HOTEL
BOSTON

ALFRED MUDGE & SON, PRINTERS, BOSTON.

SHYING AT JURY DUTY.

Military Men Protest at the State House.

Boston Senator Wants the Exempt List Reduced.

Members of Ancients Talk Against the Measure.

The Ancients do not want to serve on juries, and three members of the honorable company made speeches before the legislative committee on probate and chancery yesterday, protesting against a petition fathered by Senator Charles S. Sullivan of Charlestown, who wants the list of men exempted from jury duty reduced. One speaker explained that the Ancients were pretty busy and were drilling once a week to receive their English guests next summer.

Senator Sullivan read the last report of Atty.-Gen. Knowlton on the subject, and it closely coincided with his own petition. It was the opinion of the Suffolk bar, he said, that the jurors in this county are not as efficient as they should be, and he thought if fewer men were exempt the efficiency of the juries would be increased.

"Very often," he said, "the most competent men are exempt. The militia consists of some 6500 men, and is supposed to be a patriotic organization. Then why should militiamen be exempt from the small sacrifice of serving on a jury? There are in the state more than 23,000 men exempt from jury duty, among them many competent men whose services would be valuable. Military men claim that their duties prevent them from serving on a jury. Such instances are rare, and even when the militia is called out for a strike or any other purpose the members could easily foresee trouble in time to give notice that they could not appear on the jury."

Capt. Frank Huckins of the Ancients spoke in remonstrance. He said the company would not oppose the bill if it saw any benefit, but in his opinion no benefit would result. There were 646 members in the company, 327 residing outside of Boston and 319 in Boston. Seventy of the 327 members are over 65 years of age, and the number of men left, excluding those disabled in any way, etc., would be so small that it would not be worth while to change the law.

George Perkins of the company supported Capt. Huckins. He said the company held two encampments, in June and October. There are no regular drills once a week, in preparation to receive the English guests next year. It is a mistaken idea, he declared, that the Ancients are not active. There are in the company a great many old, crippled men in the company, veterans of the civil and Spanish wars. This bill, he said, would not purify the jury list as much as some expected. Many of the members are lawyers, doctors, ministers, militiamen, and with the Governor and adjutant-general constituted quite a class to be exempted.

Senator Berry asked how many were left after the exemptions. Mr. Perkins could not tell, but thought the number exempted from other causes in Suffolk to be 154. For years the Ancients have been regarded as a kind of entertaining company.

To Senator Sullivan's remark on the patriotism of J. Montgomery Sears in performing jury duty, Mr. Perkins retorted that it was well known Mr. Sears sought to be exempted, but there was no reason why he should be. Chairman Berry did not see the connection with Mr. Sears. Mr. Sears was honorable, said Mr. Berry, but not ancient.

Col. Henry Walker, former commander of the Ancients, reminded the committee that for 150 years the Ancients were a school of soldiery. The officers of all other military bodies were members and it was the teacher of the military. It is still a military body, with military officers. It is a peculiar body, as it is under the Governor entirely, and not under the militia law. Gen. Lincoln, its former commander, had it recognized in the national militia laws. Its members were in the Swamp fight, King Philip's war, before Quebec, with Washington; and at the close of the civil war 130 of its members, from major-generals down, were in the Union ranks. No other company has so many members occupying high

REUNION ON BOARD SHIP.

Annual Banquet of the London Club on the Ivernia.

Ancients and Their Ladies Who Took That Famous Voyage Five Years Ago Meet to Recite Once More the Details of the Memorable Trip.

The London Club, which is composed of members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company who made the famous trip from Boston in the Cunard steamship Servia, in 1896, held its annual reunion yesterday afternoon on board the steamship Ivernia. The local office of the company extended the courtesies of the vessel especially on account of the fact that Capt. Watt, commander of the Ivernia, was commander of the Servia five years ago, and took mighty good care of the Ancients.

There were about 100 ladies and gentlemen at table in the saloon of the Ivernia yesterday—the ladies being members of the Servia Club, which is composed of women who made the memorable trip to London.

After dinner, with Dr. R. H. Upham, chairman of the club, at the head table, and Capt. Watt and several officers of the ship in the company, the people gathered above on the boat deck on the starboard side for speeches.

Dr. Upham spoke very cheerily of the opportunity which the Cunard company had afforded the club, proposed toasts to President McKinley and King Edward VII., which were received with cheers, and called upon Mrs. Lockhart, president of the Servia Club, for a toast to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. After that very pleasing beginning, he introduced Capt. Watt, calling the famous trip, on which, he declared, he noticed exemplary good fellowship and unmitigated cordiality, a most permanent good relations between the United States and Great Britain.

Capt. Frank Huckins, commander of the Ancients, followed with a complimentary and recounted in a general way the important experiences on the Servia voyage. The Rev. J. H. Applebee came next with a brilliant and amusing and well pointed story. "I am an Englishman born," he said, as he was closing, "I came over to this country when I was a boy about 13 years old for the benefit of England." Laughter and applause followed his well meaning little address.

Mrs. Hamilton then recited in good form Kipling's "Absent-Minded Beggar," and after that the Rev. A. A. Berle made a speech that stirred the England and the United States. "I have come to appreciate," he said, "the extraordinary wisdom and tactfulness of the present King of England." In closing, Dr. Berle made a poetic reference to Queen Victoria, and said that he hoped the Boston organization might have an opportunity of showing the Honourable Artillery Company of London that the South African campaign "is nothing compared with a Payson Bradley wound up the speech-making with a testimonial of appreciation for the treatment given the Ancients by the London company, and ten-anted compliments to the Duke of Devonshire and the Earl of Derby.

Among those on the ship were Mrs. Capt. Folsom, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory, Joseph Hubbard, Miss Sarah W. Gay, Miss Jennie Knowlton, Lieut. Secretary Benson, Miss Foster, Lieut. Lockhart, Judge Emory, Mr. and Mrs. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Grover, and Mrs. Grover, C. G. Davis and Mrs. Hamilton, Florence Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Cole, Jr.

ANCIENTS' "DUTCH."

Tobacco and Beer a-Plenty in Faneuil Hall.

Captain Borden Dilates on the Philippines.

Thinks Government Mistaken on the Tariff.

Captain Huckins' idea is gaining in the Ancients; that was manifest by the increase at last night's smoker down in old "Funn'le." There were more than three hundred jolly Ancients who gathered round the tables.

All the old stars were there, and none more heartily greeted than Col. Sidney Hedges, or Col. A. M. Ferris. Every individual privileged to be of the company received a birch cob on his entrance at the door. The guests comprised Major Patterson, Commandant of Fort Warren, of the United States Artillery Corps, and his Surgeon, Captain Mathews, and Captain John Borden, Jr., late of the Twenty-sixth United States Volunteer Infantry, in the Philippines.

Immediately after the reception there was a call to mess of which the piece de resistance was a pot of hot baked beans on each table with "hot dogs," and beer galore. The size of the company present was limited only to the four walls of the room, and it is only to be said that the man who doesn't belong to the Ancients misses a good thing.

Huckins' Continuous

Captain Huckins called to order and dwelt upon the success of his own night stands, while he intimated to his immediately interested audience that there were continuous performances every Friday evening in the armory at which the members of the company were earnestly desired to be present.

While the committee on the proposed route to Charleston had reported adversely to the proposition, since it would cost $100 per member, still the matter is left open, provided 100 loyal Ancients can be obtained who will make the trip. It is proposed to take three days in Charleston at the Southern Exposition and three days in Savannah and its vicinity. The whole to be included in the $100.

Borden on Philippines.

Captain Huckins left the matter open, and introduced Captain Borden, who made a very interesting ten-minute speech upon the situation in the Philippines, in the course of which he said that our Government upon gaining acquisition of the islands found a differential treaty against the United States in favor of Germany, France and England.

The policy of this Government, he said, had seemingly been to re-establish the Spanish duties, which was a serious mistake against us. That we proposed to establish a $3,000,000 harbor for Manila meant nothing to the Filipino. His soil is bound up in trade, and until this Government shall make it an object for him to leave Germany and France and those he has traded with it will be impossible to win his favor for the United States.

A tariff against the Philippines would be a serious block to our intercourse. He himself was going back because he believed that this Government would ultimately see its error and adopt the right course toward its new acquisitions. Otherwise the business would go to Germany and France, as it has been doing. He pointed out the remarkable resources of the country in coal, iron, precious metals and tropical timber. As the law now stood it was open to any body to get in his claim and the wood could be cut by anybody, since it was on the common land.

Capt. Borden gave generous tribute to Capt. Fred MacDonald of the Twenty-sixth United States Volunteers in Panay. After him came one of the classiest "dutch" entertainments yet given in Faneuil Hall by the Beacons, March and Dolan, the Beaconsfield Sisters and others from Keith's, Music Hall and Austin & Stone's. It was 11 o'clock before "tags" were sounded.

SHAFTS OF SUNSHINE.

They Fall Upon the Ancients.

Capt. Huckins Wrote
a Letter.

Editor Pokes a Little Fun.

The New York Sun publishes the following in its editorial columns concerning a notable Boston institution: The Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company has found time in the midst of his arduous toils to write us a letter. He seems to wonder somewhat and somewhat to be grieved at our unfeigned interest in that monumental institution of which he has the honor to be the head; and he is afraid that his New York friends will derive from our loving studies of the company's exploits an erroneous notion of its real nature:

To the Editor of the Sun—Sir: For several years it appears to have been your pleasure to occupy some of your most valuable space in your paper with items regarding the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. May I ask what you have against the company to impel you to put in your paper from time to time such items? I make no demand on you to refrain from a continuance of such writings, for in a way it may be none of my business what you put in your editorial columns, but as a matter of courtesy, while I am Commander, at least, may I ask you to discontinue them? While the articles referred to have been very bright, they wholly misrepresent the standing of the great majority of the company, and surely do not place me in a very desirable light in the eyes of my New York friends who may get their whole idea of the company from your paper. If you would favor me with a reply I will be very thankful to you.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.
Boston, June 7.

In this surprise is to be seen a modesty thoroughly Bostonian. Why are the Ancients praised so warmly? Why can't they be permitted to go on their meritorious way without applause?

For Peace and War.

We should have been false to our duty, false to the interests and wishes of our readers, if we had failed to set forth the achievements of this remarkable organization. It is equally effective for peace and for war. It spares no pains and expense in going upon voyages and travels in its mission of good will. To change Macaulay's phrase a little, "Others could conquer; this alone could reconcile." It is not a dauntless front of war only, but it is the real American Peace Society. When its trials and its dangers, especially in the matter of sleeping cars and dining room cars, are considered, its right to be regarded as a band of heroes cannot be questioned.

The Pomp of Age.

This monument has the monumental pomp of age. It is only six years the junior of Boston. It was born in the year in which John Harvard died. It reaches from Charles I. to Edward VII., one of its honorary members. It spans the distance between sedan chairs and automobiles, between ruffs and shirt waists, between basset and bridge whist. It stretches from codfish and calibogus to club sandwiches and champagne, from sack-posset to gin rickeys. It stood at the birth of the first New England knowledge of rumboozie, rumbullion, kill-devil, rhum or rum; it stood at the grave of flip. It has survived generations of men and fashions. It is a wonder of human nature, and a proof of the strength of the human constitution.

Not till the pen drops from our hand shall that pen refuse to record the deeds of this unmatched cohort of Bellona's bridegrooms; and those deeds will not cease while in all this world there are swords or corks to draw. As for "having" anything "against" the Company, we love it. Yet we must obey not the call of its commander but the voice of duty. It is sorrow to have to refuse his request, but we cannot disappoint the millions of admirers of his Company.

THE ANCIENTS AND THE SUN.

Annual Skit Was Published in Spite of Mr. Huckins.

Interesting Letter from the Commander Hinting That the Usual Flattering Notice Might Be Cut Out for Once—The Sun Is Off as to Its Chronology.

[From the New York Sun.]

The commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company has found time in the midst of his arduous toils to write us a letter. He seems to wonder somewhat and somewhat to be grieved at our unfeigned interest in that monumental institution of which he has the honor to be the head; and he is afraid that his New York friends will derive from our loving studies of the company's exploits an erroneous notion of its real nature:

To the Editor of the Sun—Sir: For several years it appears to have been your pleasure to occupy some of your most valuable space in your paper with items regarding the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. May I ask you to put in your paper from time to time such items? I make no demand on you to refrain from a continuance of such writings, for in a way it may be none of my business what you put in your editorial columns; but, as a least, may I ask you to discontinue them? While the articles referred to have been very bright, they wholly misrepresent the standing of the great majority of the company, and surely do not place me in a very desirable light in the eyes of my New York friends who may get their whole idea of the company from your paper. If you would favor me with a reply, I will be very thankful to you.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.
Boston, June 7.

In this surprise is to be seen a modesty thoroughly Bostonian. Why are the Ancients praised so warmly? Why can't they be permitted to go on their meritorious way without applause?

We might reply that the too limited amount of attention which we have been able to bestow upon so great a subject is but inches to leagues compared with that which our Boston contemporaries love to lavish upon it, but we scorn a technical defence, however perfect. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is a majestic public monument, annually and reverently inspected by the Governor of Massachusetts and by thousands of rapturous citizens. It cannot travel in mufti. It cannot veil its triumphs from the eyes of the world. It is a public boon and glory. It is not restricted to Boston or Massachusetts. It is national. It is international. It has stormed the heights of Abraham and the bastille. It has crossed the ocean in a buffet steamer and brought peace and honor. Its fame folds in this orb of the earth.

We should have been false to our duty, false to the interests and wishes of our readers, if we had failed to set forth the achievements of this remarkable organization. It is equally effective for peace and for war. It spares no pains and expense in going upon voyages and travels in its mission of good will. To change Macaulay's phrase a little, "Others could conquer; this alone could reconcile." It is not a dauntless front of war only, but it is the real American Peace Society. When its trials and its dangers, especially in the matter of sleeping cars and dining room cars, are considered, its right to be regarded as a band of heroes cannot be questioned.

This monument has the monumental pomp of age. It is only six years the junior of Boston. It was born in the year in which John Harvard died. It reaches from Charles I. to Edward VII., one of its honorary members. It spans the distance between sedan chairs and automobiles, between ruffs and shirt waists, between basset and bridge whist. It stretches from codfish and calibogus to club sandwiches and champagne, from sack-posset to gin rickeys. It stood at the birth of the first New England knowledge of rumboozie, rumbullion, kill-devil, rhum or rum; it stood at the grave of flip. It has survived generations of men and fashions. It is a wonder of human nature, and a proof of the strength of human constitution.

Not till the pen drops from our hand shall that pen refuse to record the deeds of this unmatched cohort of Bellona's bridegrooms; and those deeds will not cease while in all this world there are swords or corks to draw.

As for "having" anything "against" the company, we love it. Yet we must obey not the call of its commander, but the voice of duty. It is sorrow to have to refuse his request, but we cannot disappoint the millions of admirers of his company.

SUN STANDS BY THE ANCIENTS.

In Spite of Commander Huckins's Plea the Paper
Will Sound Praises of the Organization.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Frank Huckins, the new commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, is a tender as well as a valorous warrior.

He and his artillerymen would face battle and the shotted gun, but their feelings must be protected.

The Sun has received the following letter:

To the Editor of the Sun:
"Sir—For several years it appears to have been your pleasure to occupy some of your most valuable space in your paper with items regarding the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. May I ask what you have against the company to impel you to put in your paper from time to time such items? I make no demand on you to refrain from a continuance of such writings, for in a way it may be none of my business what you put in your editorial columns, but as a matter of courtesy, while I am commander, at least, may I ask you to discontinue them? While the articles referred to have been very bright, they wholly misrepresent the standing of the great majority of the company, and surely do not place me in a very desirable light in the eyes of my New York friends who may get their whole idea of the company from your paper. If you would favor me with a reply I will be very thankful to you.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

Boston, June 7.

To which the Sun answers in characteristic style as follows:
"We might reply that the too limited amount of attention which we have been able to bestow upon so great a subject is but inches to leagues compared with that which our Boston contemporaries love to lavish upon it, but we scorn a technical defence, however perfect.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is a majestic public monument, annually and reverently inspected by the Governor of Massachusetts and by thousands of rapturous citizens. It cannot travel in mufti. It cannot veil its triumphs from the eyes of the world. It is a public boon and glory.

It is not restricted to Boston or Massachusetts. It is national. It is international. It has stormed the Heights of Abraham and the Bastille. It has crossed the ocean in a buffet steamer and brought back peace with honor. Its fame folds in this orb of the earth.

We should have been false to our duty, false to the interests and wishes of our readers, if we had failed to set forth the achievements of this remarkable organization. It is equally effective for peace and for war. It spares no pains and expense in going upon voyages and travels in its mission of good will.

To change Macaulay's phrase a little, "Others could conquer; this alone could reconcile." It is not a dauntless front of war only, but it is the real American Peace Society. When its trials and its dangers, especially in the matter of

(Photo by Chickering.)

FRANK HUCKINS,

Commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

sleeping cars and dining-room cars, are considered, its right to be regarded as a band of heroes cannot be questioned.

This monument has the monumental pomp of age. It is only six years the junior of Boston. It was born in the year in which John Harvard died. It reaches from Charles I. to Edward VII., one of its honorary members. It spans the distance between sedan chairs and automobiles, between ruffs and shirt waists, between basset and bridge whist. It stretches from codfish and calibogus to club sandwiches and champagne, from sack posset to gin rickeys. It stood at the birth of the first New England knowledge of rumboozie, rumbullion, kill devil, rhum or rum; it stood at the grave of flip. It has survived generations of men and fashions. It is a wonder of human nature, and a proof of the strength of the human constitution.

Not till the pen drops from our hand shall that pen refuse to record the deeds of the unmatched cohort of Bellona's bridegrooms, and those deeds will not cease while in all this world there are swords or corks to draw.

As for "having" anything "against" the Company, we love it. Yet we must obey not the call of its commander, but the voice of duty. It is sorrow to have to refuse his request, but we cannot disappoint the millions of admirers of his company.

It is sorrow to have to refuse his request, but we cannot disappoint the millions of admirers of his company.

Record of
June 12, 1901.

HUCKINS

Begs the Sun to "Let Up Now."

Sun is Solemnly Obligated to Decline.

From the N. Y. Sun, June 12.

The commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company has found time in the midst of his arduous toils to write us this letter:—

To the Editor of the Sun—Sir: For several years it appears to have been your pleasure to occupy some of your most valuable space in your paper with items regarding the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.

May I ask what you have against the company to impel you to put in your paper from time to time such items? I make no demand on you to refrain from a continuance of such writings, for in a way it may be none of my business what you put in your editorial columns, but as a matter of courtesy, while I am commander, at least, may I ask you to discontinue them? While the articles referred to have been very bright, they wholly misrepresent the standing of the great majority of the company, and surely do not place me in a very desirable light in the eyes of my New York friends who may get their whole idea of the company from your paper. If you would favor me with a reply I will be very thankful to you.

FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.
Boston, June 7.

In this surprise is to be seen a modesty thoroughly Bostonian. Why are the Ancients praised so warmly? Why can't they be permitted to go on their meritorious way without applause?

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is a majestic public monument, a public boon and glory. It is not restricted to Boston or Massachusetts. It is national. It is international.

It has the monumental pomp of age. It is only six years the junior of Boston. It was born in the year in which John Harvard died. It reaches from Charles I. to Edward VII., one of its honorary members. It spans the distance between sedan chairs and automobiles, between ruffs and shirt waists, between basset and bridge whist. It stretches from codfish and calibogus to club sandwiches and champagne, from sack-posset to gin rickeys. It is a wonder of human nature, and a proof of the strength of the human constitution.

As for "having" anything "against" the Company, we love it. Yet we must obey not the call of its commander but the voice of duty.

It is sorrow to have to refuse his request, but we cannot disappoint the millions of admirers of his Company.

ANCIENTS HONOR DEAD PRESIDENT.

Fall Field Day Took Form of Memorial Service.

The fall field day of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was observed yesterday afternoon. It was not in the nature of the usual fall outing, but took the form of a service memorial to the martyred President.

In all the services of memorial which have been held in Boston, for simplicity, beauty and effectiveness those of the Ancients outdid all. From the opening prayer to the closing "taps" all was simple, unaffected, touching tribute to the dead.

The company, under command of Captain Frank Huckins, turned out with full ranks. From the armory at Faneuil Hall the company marched to the New Old South Church in Dartmouth street.

The Rev. E. A. Horton and ex-Senator William A. Morse were the speakers of the day.

The Rev. Mr. Horton spoke of the late President's manliness, his chivalry, his honor and his glory; his perfect life, his sad fate.

Said he: "The eyes of all the world are on America. Here democracy is on trial before the nations of the world. What kind of a spectacle can we present to the Old World? We can show them in the person of William McKinley—a gentleman."

"He was a match in courtesy for the diplomats of the courts of old Europe."

"William McKinley rose from private in the ranks to commander-in-chief of all the people. No one denies that merit alone did that."

"The country is the better that he lived. For the hand that laid him low has taught us a dear lesson."

"Put no padlock on the lips of a free man, I say. But when anarchy comes among us free speech is not for their lessons."

Following Mr. Horton the Hon. William A. Morse spoke in part as follows: "William McKinley will always live in history as one of the greatest Presidents. He will come down to the coming generations as the great messenger of freedom, who took from our altars the pure white light of liberty to enlighten and civilize and dispel the darkness and barbarism of the Orient."

"In physical appearance it was true he resembled Napoleon, but in mind how different! The Emperor of the French was in himself a veritable red comet of war, who filled all France with graves. McKinley was a planet under whose peaceful light the mariner could sail his ship and the shepherd tend his flock."

"Even in that awful moment when horror filled every heart, the Christ-like spirit of this good man was uppermost. Our beloved President, with his life's blood flowing, cried out to those around: 'Do not let them hurt him.'"

"Great as he was in life, even mightier was he as the end drew near. All his nation in tender solicitude knelt at his bedside. Every nation bowed its head."

"What a sad scene before his anguished gaze. His great ambitions were now forever ended. The sundering of sweet friendships, the solemn good-by as he looked for the last time upon the face of that dear wife—who will try and picture such a scene as this?"

"But his great soul was not shaken. With calm courage he looked upon approaching death and beneath the quiet stars in the stillness of the early morning, sublime in his faith and with praises on his lips, the light slowly faded from his eyes and his beautiful spirit journeyed on at the will of God who gave it."

After the services the company returned to the armory, where a banquet was served.

MILITARY AND NAVAL.

Ancients Hold Annual Fall Field Day Today.

Many New Englanders Going to St John on Occasion of Duke's Visit.

Gossip of the Grand Army Posts and Woman's Relief Corps.

Today the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Massachusetts will hold its annual fall field day, but in place of the usual four days' trip to some distant city will hold memorial services in memory of the late President.

CAPT FRANK HUCKINS,
Who Will Command the Ancients Today.

All arrangements had been made for an excursion to Albany, but on the death of President McKinley the company voted to abandon the outing and hold services in the Old South church, corner of Dartmouth and Boylston sts, on the day assigned for the company's departure.

The company has been ordered to rendezvous at Faneuil hall at 1:30 p. m. and headed by the Salem cadet band will march to the church, under command of Capt. Frank Huckins.

The service at the church will commence at 3:30 p. m. The program: Salutation to the colors; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee"; invocation, "Lord, Now the Hero's Mortal Wars Are Ended," male chorus; reading of Scripture; hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," male chorus; address, Rev. Edward A. Horton; solo, "The Lost Chord," Miss Grace Carter; oration, Sergt William A. Morse; "Face to Face," Mr Johnson and male chorus; "America," taps and benediction.

SERG T WM. A. MORSE,
Who Will Deliver the Oration.

The musical service will be under the direction of private Joseph L. White, with Miss Grace Carter contralto soloist, Mr Herbert Johnson conductor and Mr Samuel Carr organist.

At the conclusion of the services the company will return to the armory and partake of a collation.

ANCIENTS GIVE UP TRIP.

No Fall Field Day at Albany, but a Memorial Meeting at Home Instead.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company will not make the proposed fall field day trip to Albany, Oct. 7.

At a largely attended meeting of the company last night it was unanimously voted, in view of the great national affliction, that the company give up its excursion. Arrangements had been made for a trip to Albany, where the annual fall banquet and other pleasant incidents were to take place on Oct. 7 and 8. Returning to Boston, a special excursion down the Hudson river to New York had been scheduled.

An eloquent memorial to the late President was read by Col. Henry Walker and ordered spread upon the minutes. A committee was appointed to send a floral tribute to Canton the day of the funeral. A cable message of condolence was read from the Honourable Artillery Company of London.

It was decided to hold a memorial service in Boston in lieu of the fall outing, and the fall field day committee was appointed to secure a hall and an orator.

These new members were elected: William B. Lantz, Amos R. Storer, William H. Prior and Edgar A. Smith.

NO FALL FIELD TRIP.

Ancients Vote to Abandon This Fixture.

Memorial Service Will be Held in Boston, Oct 7, Instead.

Honourable Artillery Company of London Expresses Sympathy.

At a meeting of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company last night, on the suggestion of the commander, Capt Frank Huckins, the fall field trip to Albany, N Y, Oct 7, was abandoned, on account of the national bereavement.

It was also unanimously voted that instead, memorial services be held in Boston on that day, to be attended by the company in a body.

A beautiful memorial to the dead President was read by Col Henry Walker, and on the motion of Col Sidney M. Hedges, it was voted to send a floral tribute to Canton, O.

A cablegram expressing sympathy was received from the Honourable artillery company of London, and an acknowledgment was cabled the company by Commander Huckins.

Orders were issued that the colors of the company be draped for 90 days.

The following were elected members of the company: William Burton Lantz of Gloucester, Amos Roscoe Storer, William H. Prior and Edgar A. Smith of Boston.

ANCIENTS' MEMORIAL.

McKinley Services Will Be Held in the Old South Church Next Monday Afternoon.

Memorial services in memory of President McKinley will be held by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company at the Old South Church, Boylston and Dartmouth streets, at 3 P. M., Oct. 7, and will consist of an address and oration by the Rev. E. A. Horton and the Hon. William A. Morse and appropriate musical selections.

Capt. E. R. Frost is detailed to command the veteran company. Col. William H. Oakes is detailed for officer of the day. Maj. Charles G. Davis is detailed at the church in charge, and these officers are named as assistants: Col. S. M. Hedges, Horace T. Rockwell, Maj. C. W. Stevens, L. N. Duchesney, Capt. E. E. Allen, William Hatch Jones, A. A. Folsom, E. P. Cramm, Henry E. Smith, George O. Noyes, Thomas J. Olys, Lieut. Emory Grover, C. C. Adams, George H. Innis, James M. Usher, Fred I. Clayton, John E. Cotter.

TRIBUTE TO MR MCKINLEY.

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company Has a Memorial Service Instead of an Excursion.

On the first Monday in October the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Massachusetts, since old times, has celebrated its fall field day by a trip to some other city, but yesterday, out of respect for the late President, the company remained at home and held memorial services in the Old South church in memory of the dead statesman.

The oration of the day was delivered by Hon William A. Morse, a sergeant of the company. It was a most eloquent and poetic tribute to the life and character of the late President McKinley, sketching briefly his career both public and private, and couched in the most felicitous language.

With the singing of "America" by the congregation, and the sounding of "taps" by the buglers, the service was brought to a close.

The company assembled at the armory, Faneuil hall, and shortly after 2 o'clock marched to the church, presenting a fine appearance, but in numbers the strength was somewhat disappointing, as it was fully expected that at least 200 members would turn out.

The services at the church were of a most impressive character, and were as follows: Salute to the colors; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee"; invocation, "Lord, now the Hero's Mortal Wars are Ended," male chorus; reading of Scripture; hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," male chorus; address, Rev Edward A. Horton; solo, "The Lost Chord," Miss Grace Carter; oration.

The musical services were under the direction of private Joseph L. White. At the conclusion of the services at the church the company reformed and marched back to the armory, where a collation was spread.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Capt Jacob Fottler chairman, Sergt Charles S. Damrell, Lieut Emery Grover, Capt George E. Hall, G. H. W. Bates, Daniel B. Badger, Lieut George E. Adams, Lieut Edw. Sullivan, Lieut Edw. E. Wells, Sergt William L. Willey, Lieut George H. Allen.

ANCIENTS GIVE UP TRIP.

No Fall Field Day at Albany, but a Memorial Meeting at Home Instead.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company will not make the proposed fall field day trip to Albany, Oct. 7.

At a largely attended meeting of the company last night it was unanimously voted, in view of the great national affliction, that the company give up its excursion. Arrangements had been made for a trip to Albany, where the annual fall banquet and other pleasant incidents were to take place on Oct. 7 and 8. Returning to Boston, a special excursion down the Hudson river to New York had been scheduled.

An eloquent memorial to the late President was read by Col. Henry Walker and ordered spread upon the minutes. A committee was appointed to send a floral tribute to Canton the day of the funeral. A cable message of condolence was read from the Honourable Artillery Company of London.

It was decided to hold a memorial service in Boston in lieu of the fall outing, and the fall field day committee was appointed to secure a hall and an orator.

These new members were elected: William B. Lantz, Amos R. Storer, William H. Prior and Edgar A. Smith.

ANCIENTS ARE DISSATISFIED.

Provisions of Dick Militia Bill Not to Their Liking.

Privileges Recognized in Previous Measure Wanted—Congressmen Napfen and Powers Delegated to Conduct a Campaign to Effect Desired Result.

Congressmen Napfen and Powers attended a meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of which they are both members, last evening, and explained the provisions of the Dick bill, so called, a measure which suggests the reorganization of the militia of the states, and in which is omitted a clause which gives to a few ancient military organizations—the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company and the 1st and 2d corps of Cadets of this state—certain desirable privileges recognized in previous bills affecting such organizations.

CONGRESSMAN HENRY F. NAPFEN.

The congressmen stated that, in company with Capt. A. A. Folsom of the company, they had called upon Chairman Dick of the military committee of the national House and explained their desires to him, and that he had agreed to see that they were protected. To add emphasis to the affair, upon the suggestion of both congressmen and

INSANE PRISONER ESCAPES.
[Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.]
DOVER, N. H., May 5, 1902. Arthur Hutton, who was sentenced at the February term of the superior court, here, to the insane asylum, escaped from the institution last Tuesday and has not yet been recaptured. He was interest of the public health. The act seemed to be demanded in the family in the category of panders, as could not place the deed or his city paid the entire cost of the burial so desired, although the fact that the paying for the cost of the casket, if there would be no objection to a family were complied with, and he added that granted, provided certain restrictions were observed. He said he had no time to an informant, he said he had to be present at the cemetery at the immediate relatives expressed a desire Dr. Duggan said that if a few of the there was any ceremony over the body, subsequent prayers, regardless of whether feebly benighted by a mass or by sub- the Holy Ghost, but the soul is as ef- temple of the soul, and therefore of

MCKINLEY MEMORIAL.

Annual Fall Field Day of the Ancients Made a Tribute of Respect to Martyred President.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company is celebrating its annual fall field day with a memorial service at the Old South Church in memory of the late President William McKinley.

The company assembled at the armory at 2 o'clock and a half-hour later, under command of Capt. Frank Huckins, took up the route for the church.

Parading on the staff of the commander were many past captains of the company and Cols. Darling of the 6th infantry, M. V. M., and Oakes of the 5th infantry, M. V. M. The Salem Cadet band furnished the music.

The route was up State street to Washington to School to Beacon to Arlington street, thence Commonwealth avenue to Exeter street to Boylston to the church.

Previous to the arrival of the company the church was crowded, with the exception of the seats reserved for the parading men, and as they were seated the services began.

The programme called for a service of songs and an oration by the Hon. William A. Morse, remarks by the Rev. E. A. Horton, etc.

Following the service the company will return to Faneuil Hall, where it will lunch and be dismissed.

AN ANCIENTS' MEMORIAL.

Services to Be Held This Afternoon in the Old South Church to Honor President McKinley.

It is anticipated that the memorial exercises today of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company at the Old South Church, Copley square, in memory of President McKinley, will be unusually impressive and interesting. An elaborate programme of music has been announced, and the remarks of the Rev. Mr. Horton and the oration of the Hon. William A. Morse promise to be worthy of the occasion.

Since the tickets have been issued there has been a great demand for them from the public; while the limited accommodations at the church will prevent the issue of but a few to other than members of the company. The services are expected to begin a little after 3 o'clock. The company, it is expected, will leave Faneuil Hall about 2:30 and march up State street, to Washington, to School, to Beacon, to Arlington street, to the north side of Commonwealth avenue, to the church. After Boylston street to the church. After the services the company will return to the armory via Tremont, Court and State streets and Merchants' row to the armory. At the armory a light lunch will be served.

The Ancient and Honorable artillery company tomorrow will hold services to the memory of the late President McKinley in the Old South church, corner of Boylston and Dartmouth sts, when an address will be delivered by Rev Edward A. Horton, and an oration by Sergt William A. Morse.

It is the regular fall field day of the company, and usually it has visited some other state for a few days, but at a meeting held after the death of President McKinley it was voted to abandon the trip this year, and, as a mark of respect to his memory, memorial services be held in its place.

The company will meet at the armory, Faneuil hall, at 1:30 p m, and, under command of Capt Frank Huckins, and escorted by the Salem cadet band, march to the church, where services will be held at 3:30 o'clock.

The following will be the order of service:

Salutation to the colors; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee"; invocation, "Lord, now the hero's mortal wars are ended," male chorus; reading of scripture; hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," male chorus; address, Rev Edward A. Horton; solo, "The Lost Chord," Miss Grace Carter; oration, Hon William A. Morse; "Face to Face," Mr Johnson and male chorus; "America"; taps and benediction.

The musical service will be under the direction of private Joseph L. White, with Miss Grace Carter contralto soloist, Mr Herbert Johnson conductor and Mr Samuel Carr organist.

At the conclusion of the service the company will return to the armory, where a collation will be served.

ANCIENTS ABANDON FALL TRIP

Instead of Going to Albany Next Month They Will Hold a Memorial Service in Honor of the Dead President

Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, at a meeting held at Faneuil Hall last evening, voted, upon the suggestion of their commander, Captain Frank Huckins, to abandon their proposed fall trip to Albany on Oct. 7, and to have instead a memorial service in this city in honor of President McKinley. Arrangements had been completed for this trip to Albany, where the annual fall banquet and other pleasant incidents were to take place on Oct. 7 and 8. Returning to Boston, a special excursion down the Hudson River to New York had been planned. Owing to the members of the organization felt that such a trip would be ill-advised just now.

A cable message of regret on the death of President McKinley, from the Honourable Artillery Company of England, was received. It was as follows:

"The Honourable Artillery Company of London sends expression of deepest sympathy with the people of your great nation and yourselves on the terrible bereavement which has befallen you."

The following reply was sent by the Boston company:

"The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, in deep grief over the loss our country has sustained, acknowledges with sincere thanks your fraternal message of sympathy."

A beautiful memorial to the dead President was read by Colonel Henry Walker, and on the motion of Colonel Sidney M. Hedges it was voted to send a floral tribute to Canton, O. Furthermore it was ordered that the colors of the company be draped for ninety days, and that officers are to wear the badge of mourning prescribed by the rules and regulations of militia for the same length of time.

THE ANCIENTS.

Tomorrow the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company holds its fall field day. It had been the intention of the company to visit Albany and New York on this tour, but the death of President McKinley caused a change in the programme, and it was decided at a meeting of the company to give up the trip and to observe the day in attending memorial services at the Old South Church.

The company will assemble in full uniform at the armory, Faneuil Hall, about 3 o'clock, and then, headed by the Salem Cadet band, will march to the church, where this programme will be carried out: "Salutation to the Colors," Salem Cadet band, Jean Missud director; hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee," congregation to join in the singing; invocation, "Lord, Now the Hero's Mortal Wars Are Ended," male chorus; reading of scripture; hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," male chorus; address, the Rev. Edward A. Horton; solo, "The Lost Chord," Miss Grace Carter; oration, the Hon. William A. Morse, sergeant of the company; "Face to Face," Mr. Johnson and male chorus; "America," taps; benediction and recessional march.

The musical services will be under the direction of Priv. Joseph L. White. The male chorus will consist of George R. Deane, William T. Meek, Jewell Boyd, Edward E. Bullock, William W. Walker, Fred E. Kendall, John E. Ambrose, George A. Buntin, Lester Bartlett, Thomas H. Norris, Elijah M. Spears, George W. Want, Frederick L. Martin, W. B. Phillips, J. L. Thomas, W. E. Davison, Miss Grace Carter, contralto; Herbert Johnson, conductor; Samuel Carr, organist.

Next Monday the doughty Ancients will hold a unique fall field day. Instead of the customary jaunt, the event will take the form of a memorial to the late President McKinley. Services will be held in the Old South and there will be addresses by the Rev. E. A. Horton and the Hon. William A. Morse. Of course, there will be a street parade, and the occasion promises to be a memorable one.

*Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
of Massachusetts.*

Memorial Exercises, October 7, 1901.

Old South Church at 3 o'clock.

Admit One.

Frank Huckins, Captain.

May 6 1902.
Capt Frank Nockins.

Dear Sir:

I have the honor of extending on behalf of the members of the Clover Club of Boston an invitation to dine as their guest at Exchange Club Boston, on Saturday May 10 at 6.30 p.m.

Respectfully yours,

John B. Martin.
President.

P. O. Box 1212.
Boston.

MARCH 7, 1902.

TERSET IN HONOR OF PRINCE HEN

1607

1775

The Society of Colonial Wars in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts requests the honor of your presence at a reception to be held at the Hotel Somerset, Boston on Wednesday evening, May twenty-first nineteen hundred and two at nine o'clock

their fraternal feelings would go on forever.
At the beginning of the year he had found that, accompanying the honor conferred upon him, he had 150 applications for 15 offices to fill. No sooner had he got settled than it became a question of military drill. But after the experience from the 1st of September to the 1st of October they had produced a perfect company. There seemed, therefore, no further occasion for any more drill.
For himself he felt somewhat in the position of the manager of a vaudeville show. If he could please the members of the company with his opening show he would feel himself a success. (Laughter.)

THE GUESTS AT THE BANQUET AT THE HOTEL SOMERSET IN HONOR OF PRINCE HENRY.

Adjutant Korvettenkapitän von	Herbert H. D.	Col. T. A. Bingham	The Hon. Samuel A. Green	James H. Doyle	The Hon. Nathan Matthews, Jr.	Arthur W. Dolan	Stabsarzt Dr. Reich	Com. W. S. Cowles
Kapitänleutnant	Oliver Wendell	Personlicher Adjutant Kapitänleutnant Schmidt von Schwind	Stephen O'Meara	The Hon. Thomas N. Hart	The Hon. William E. Barrett	The Hon. William S. McNary	The Hon. Rufus A. Soule	Adjutant Kapitänleutnant von Trotha
Personlicher Adjutant Kapitänleutnant	James J. Myers	The Hon. James J. Myers	Fred H. Seavey	E. A. Grozier	Col. August H. Goetting	The Hon. James Donovan	Count M. G. Seckendorff	Rear-Admiral Mortimer L. Johnson
Kapitänleutnant	Edward Carter	Dr. Mantler	Charles W. Gammons	William Craig	William N. Young	The Hon. John H. H. McNamee	Brig.-Gen. Samuel Dalton	The Hon. George S. Boutwell
Kapitänleutnant	Johnathan H.	Henry Lee Higginson	Charles H. Taylor, Jr.	P. F. Sullivan	The Hon. Edward E. Willard	Lawson B. Bidwell	Brig.-Gen. Thomas R. Mathews	The Hon. T. Jefferson Coolidge
Kapitänleutnant	Henry B. Carrington	Brig.-Gen. Fitzhugh Lee	Frederick B. Carpenter	Edmund A. Poole	Joseph Gahn	The Hon. William Shepherd	The Hon. William L. Putnam	Amory A. Lawrence
Kapitänleutnant	Nathaniel S. Shattuck	Eugene V. R. Thayer	Robert S. Peabody	George A. Litchfield	Dr. Francis H. Brown	Col. Robert B. Edes	Prof. Hugo Munsterberg	Lieut.-Col. Thomas F. Edmands
Kapitänleutnant	LeBaron B.	Col. John L. Tiernon	Thomas M. Babson	The Hon. Charles Bruce	The Hon. Edward Glines	The Hon. John W. Weeks	The Hon. Charles S. Hamlin	Henry W. Putnam
Kapitänleutnant	Warren	The Hon. Albert Mason	William Jackson	James H. Dodge	The Hon. Andrew J. Bailey	Charles R. Saunders	The Hon. Frederick W. Hollis	Gen. Francis Peabody, Jr.
Kapitänleutnant	Joseph A.	The Hon. Francis C. Lowell	The Hon. Charles S. Baxter	The Hon. John Larabee	The Hon. Charles M. Bryant	The Hon. Murray D. Clement	Charles Francis Adams	William Theodore Reincke
Kapitänleutnant	Robert Grant	Capt. George R. H. Buffington	The Hon. Isaac P. Hutchinson	Samuel A. Warren	A. Shuman	Dr. Samuel H. Durgin	Prof. von Jagemann	Col. William A. Gaston
Kapitänleutnant	R. Pritchett	Robert Treat Paine	Laurence Minot	Alpheus Sanford	George U. Crocker	The Hon. John P. Feeney	George A. Hibbard	John T. Burnett
Kapitänleutnant	George F. H.	George Ripley	Col. J. Payson Bradley	Horatio A. Lamb	The Hon. Charles L. Dean	The Hon. Edward J. Donovan	The Hon. John F. Brown	John Parkinson
Kapitänleutnant	W. G. Read	George W. Boyd	George A. Comins	William P. Fowler	Courtenay Guild	Salem D. Charles	William F. Warren	Thomas P. Beal
Kapitänleutnant	W. J.	John M. Hall	Godfrey Morse	Samuel Hauser	Louis Hecht, Jr.	Edward W. McGlenen	John C. Gray	Lucius Tuttle
Kapitänleutnant	Hennigan	Rear Admiral George E. Belknap	William H. Lott	The Hon. W. T. A. Fitzgerald	John Drohan	Oswald Kunhardt	Charles L. Burrill	Andrew G. Webster
Kapitänleutnant	Van Etten	George H. Leonard	John F. Dever	Charles B. Woolley	Hugh Montague	Charles H. Dalton	Prof. Frank Vogel	Robert F. Clark
Kapitänleutnant	E. Adams	John H. Holmes	Thomas A. Whalen	James M. McLaughlin	Louis Weissbein	Dr. Henry C. Baldwin	The Rev. Elmer H. Capen	Wilhelm Gericke
Kapitänleutnant	William A. Croft	Col. Melvin O. Adams	John S. Damrell	J. Albert Brackett	Thomas J. Lane	John E. Gilman	Edwin D. Mead	Charles E. Stratton
Kapitänleutnant	Charles H. Taylor	Charles T. Gallagher	James F. Aylward	George E. McKay	Martin G. Egan	John H. Fabey	Grafton Dulaney Cushing.	George R. Nutter
Kapitänleutnant	Hemenway	Jasper N. Keller	Patrick J. Kyle	Edward J. Leary	Mr. Zoller	Mr. Haedicke	Col. Charles B. Amory	Edward Ruhl
Kapitänleutnant	Lincoln	Col. Josiah H. Benton, Jr.			Robert H. Hazard	Charles W. Tyler	Heinrich Conried	Curtis Guild
Kapitänleutnant	Currie	Gen. W. W. Blackmar			Hofstaatssekretar Hintz	Mr. Viereck	James P. Munroe	Thomas J. Gargan
Kapitänleutnant	Kelterborn	Frederick W. Smith			Charles Ray Dean	Hofrath Kinne	Edward H. Clement
Kapitänleutnant	George A. Bartlett	Capt. Frank Huckins			B. L. Dunn	N. Lazarnick	Dr. Franz Pfaff	J. Montgomery Sears
Kapitänleutnant	Lagrene

The Hon. Richard Olney	Kontreadmiral Graf Bandisau	Maj.-Gen. Henry O. Corbin	H. E. Koeniglicher Gesandter Viceadmiral von Eilsendercher	The Hon. Charles W. Elliot	H. E. Staatssekretar von Tirpitz	The Hon. W. Murray Crane	His Royal Highness Prince Henry of Prussia	The Hon. Patrick A. Collins	H. E. Baron von Holleben	The Hon. John D. Long	H. E. Generaladjutant General von Plessen	The Hon. David J. Hill	H. E. Hofmarschall Viceadmiral Freiherr von Seckendorff	Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans	Kapitän zur See von Muller	Col. Thomas Wentworth Higginson	Graf Quadt Botschaftsrath	The Hon. George H. Lyman
------------------------	-----------------------------	---------------------------	------------------------------------------------------------	----------------------------	----------------------------------	--------------------------	--------------------------------------------	-----------------------------	--------------------------	-----------------------	-------------------------------------------	------------------------	---------------------------------------------------------	------------------------------	----------------------------	---------------------------------	---------------------------	--------------------------

HENRY BOSTON'S GUEST AT A BANQUET AT THE S

Men of the City Meet the Brother of the Kaiser in the Great Hall of the ipality Does Honor to the Royal Visitor Who Has Just Been Honored by H

FAREWELL THE WIDOW

Ancients' Pledge to Das Wurtembrau.

Jolly Good Time in the Cradle.

Black Care on the Door's Outside.

It was Bohemia! Bohemia! jolly Bohemia, at the opening "smoker" of the Ancients under the roof-tree of the Old Cradle last night. They bade bon soir to la veuve Clicquot, and toasted high das Wurtembrau.

It was the initiation of a new departure by Capt. Huckins, and it is needless to say that it took, because dinners are become so blase, you know. A soldier's sup a soldier's fare shall be, and so there were doughnuts and crackers and cheese and coffee, with smoke galore.

Everybody was happy. It was the jolliest opening night of a winter season that the Ancients have known in years, and Capt. Huckins says they're going to keep it up in the same democratic fashion. Everybody had a heart warm welcome. That goes without saying under the Ancients' roof-tree. But in they sat around the little tables in the homely camp fashion, and each little coterie made merry after its own way in the style the line loves after taps have sounded and the nightcap comes.

Sam Adams Winked.

Old Sam Adams winked approvingly, and there even seemed the semblance of a smile upon the canvas face of Washington crossing the Delaware, as he looked forth from his gilded frame upon the jolly company.

Mess call sounded at 7.45 sharp, and when the smoke wreaths began to curl Capt. Huckins arose to make a characteristic speech. He said that they had assembled for their annual opening of the winter season under the happiest of auspices. With such a beautiful home to come to for their annual gathering, it had been decided that all subsequent gatherings should be held there throughout the winter. It was agreed that the hotels were not the places for men to get together. The large number there present last evening assured him that the greater part of the company, at least, would stand by him in this new departure. New friendships would be formed and their fraternal feelings would go on forever.

At the beginning of the year he had found that, accompanying the honor conferred upon him, he had 150 applications for 15 offices to fill. No sooner had he got settled than it became a question of military drill. But after the experience from the 1st of September to the 1st of October they had produced a perfect company. There seemed, therefore, no further occasion for any more drill.

For himself he felt somewhat in the position of the manager of a vaudeville show. If he could please the members of the company with his opening show he would feel himself a success. (Laughter.)

One Night Stands.

It was settled that they would make one-night stands in that armory once a month throughout the winter, with one exception. That might be on the night of the 22d of February, when, if the prevailing sentiment of the company held good as he read it, that night might be spent in Charleston, S. C. (Applause.)

Captain Huckins rallied his command merrily upon their fondness for drill, and the immortal "seven" who responded on the floor. (Great laughter.) Then the Captain introduced Adjutant Tute, who proceeded to read with great gravity, General Order, Current Series, No. 999. They provided first—"That being a perfect military company, no drills are necessary. Therefore, every Friday, Sergeants need not be present, the more especially since they are already overburdened with taxes. No officer will exercise any command that he doesn't think necessary. The motto 'I Am As Good as You Are' must prevail throughout the command. Second—"This company shall always pose as a military company, except that on occasions of public parade it shall faithfully perform its duty."

"So Say We All of Us."

These and more sections were unanimously approved, and the company joined in singing that assuring ode, "So Say We All of Us."

Captain Huckins then said that any gentleman present might speak if he wanted to upon first asking the privilege, which request he would consider. He didn't know of anybody who had any desire to speak unless it be Sergeant Tirrell, who was just now running for Mayor of Quincy. He would like to have him tell the company why he should run for Mayor of Quincy, and what he expected to make out of it. But Sergeant Tirrell was modest, and declined the invitation.

Chick Fox's merry troubadours filled up the intervening time of the evening, and when taps were sounded every jolly Ancient agreed that the new departure was the real thing, and voted it a huge success. It was simply an evening for fun, and everybody enjoyed it.

It was pleasant to see the many familiar faces, prominent among whom was Col. Sidney Hedges, with many another past Commander. The oldest veteran of them all was Lieut. John Dalton, now in the 80th year of his age. He enjoyed it all just as much as the rest of the boys. Quartermaster Hall was the right man in the right place. The company broke up at 11.

Mr Frank Huckins, who as commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, was present at the parade and banquet of the Old Guard in New York this week, has a pleasant recollection of his visit.

Circulation over 8500
Daily.

Circulation over 8500
Daily.

PRINTED IN

The Haverhill Gazette.

The Gazette has the Largest Circulation in Northern Essex Co. and Southern New Hampshire.

Haverhill, Mass., June 13, 1901.

They have elected a commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston who evidently holds the honor of his command dearly, and has felt called upon to write a letter to the editor of the New York Sun, asking that worthy to desist from his long-established practice of poking the ribs of the Ancients upon the occasion of their annual drum-head election. Of the valor of this commander there can be no doubt, for he has gone out boldly to meet the New York Goliath and asked him to stop being naughty and be good. Unfortunately, he did not follow the example of the youth of old who faced the giant and smite him in his vulnerable spot, and as a consequence the giant has hardened his heart and proceeds to still further lampoon the poor Ancients, and Capt. Huckins in particular. The Sun is getting reckless. Doesn't it know that all New England stands at the back of the Ancients, and that an insult to one is an insult to all. Why, the strike and boycott of Big Six will be as nothing to the wrath of the people, if the defenders of the Hub are not let alone. As a possible means of averting this disastrous warfare, and yet of avenging the honor of our citizen soldiers, we propose a duel upon neutral links between Capt. Huckins and the editor of the Sun, the weapons to be golf balls and driving clubs.

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
of Massachusetts

Monday, June 2, 1902

THIS CARD WILL ADMIT THE PERSON WHOSE NAME
IS WRITTEN ABOVE TO THE OLD SOUTH CHURCH
AT 9 O'CLOCK A. M., AND TO FANEUIL HALL, FOR DINNER, AT 12.30 O'CLOCK P. M.

THOMAS J. TUTE
ADJUTANT

FRANK HUCKINS
CAPTAIN A. & H. A. Co.

[OVER]

RETAIN THIS TICKET

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
of Massachusetts

ADMIT the Bearer to the Marquee
Tent, LEFT, on Parade Ground,
Boston Common, 5 P. M., Monday,
June 2, 1902

THOMAS J. TUTE
ADJUTANT

FRANK HUCKINS
CAPTAIN

RETAIN THIS TICKET

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company
of Massachusetts

ADMIT the Bearer to the Marquee
Tent, RIGHT, on Parade Ground,
Boston Common, 5 P. M., Monday,
June 2, 1902

THOMAS J. TUTE
ADJUTANT

FRANK HUCKINS
CAPTAIN

RETAIN THIS TICKET.

SEAT NO.

PARADE GROUND

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

Admit holder within the lines and to the Governor's tent

JUNE 2, 1902
5 P. M.

THOMAS J. TUTE
ADJUTANT

FRANK HUCKINS
CAPTAIN

RETAIN THIS TICKET

PARADE GROUND
A. & H. A. Co.

The holder of this is entitled to entrance and SEAT INSIDE the lines, Beacon St. side

JUNE 2, 1902
5 P. M.

THOS. J. TUTE
ADJUTANT

FRANK HUCKINS
CAPTAIN A. & H. A. Co.

PARADE GROUND

A. & H. A. Co.

Admit a Gentleman and Ladies

JUNE 2, 1902
5 P. M.

THOS. J. TUTE
Adjutant

FRANK HUCKINS
Captain A. & H. A. Co.

OLD SOUTH CHURCH

DARTMOUTH COR. BOYLSTON STREET

PASS ONE

JUNE 2, 1902
CHURCH OPEN AT 9 A. M.

THOS. J. TUTE
ADJUTANT

FRANK HUCKINS
CAPTAIN A. & H. A. Co.

THE NEWS AND COU

THREE FAMOUS COMMANDS.

THEY WILL VISIT THE EXPOSITION
THIS WINTER.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery
Company, of Boston, Already Preparing for its Journey Here--The National Lancers, of Boston, to Come in March--
The Famous Seventy-first Regiment, of Virginia, will Visit the Exposition in the Spring.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Boston, which is perhaps the oldest and most famous military organization in America, will probably visit the Exposition in February on their way to the Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans.
Mr H. A. Molony received a letter yesterday from Capt Frank Huckins, stating that the organization would probably come to Charleston if the necessary quarters can be secured. They will bring from 125 to 150 men with them, together with a full band of thirty pieces, and will occupy quarters in one of the hotels of the city, provided they can get the accommodations they want.

The visit of this celebrated organization will be one of the most noted events of the winter and will attract to the city a large crowd of Northern visitors, as well as from other parts of the country where the name and fame of the corps has been a household word ever since the Revolution.

The Ancient and Honorables' record is part of the history of the country and their visit to Charleston is certain to be one of the greatest attractions of the Exposition. It is their custom to make trips off every year, on which occasions they always travel in a special train and with the most luxurious surroundings. The organization is one of the oldest and richest in the country. They have made many notable trips in their history, but perhaps the most celebrated expedition they ever made was their visit to England several years ago, when they chartered a special steamer to transport them to the shores of the Old World with all their equipments and paraphernalia. They were received and entertained by the Prince of Wales, now King Edward VII, and given a garden party at Marlborough House, which was attended by the most select and distinguished coteries of London and American society. They afterwards made a tour of the Continent and were received with the greatest eclat wherever they went. Should they decide to visit Charleston they will be received and entertained here in truly royal style and be given an experience as interesting as any in their long and celebrated history.

Mr Malony has taken the matter up with Major Schachte and everything will be done to induce them to visit the city.

ARMORY A. & H. A. CO.

BOSTON, May, 10, 1902--Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co are hereby notified of and invited to attend the funeral service of their late associate, Lieut Edward Everett Wells, which will be held from the chapel, Mt Auburn, on Sunday, the 11th inst, at 1 o'clock. FRANK HUCKINS, Captain,
GEO. H. ALLEN, Clerk.

GUESTS FROM LONDON

Honourable Company to Visit the Ancients.

The Latter's Invitation Is Accepted for 1903.

Capt. Huckins Announces the Joyful Advices.

The Honourable Artillery Company of London will visit Boston in 1903 as the guest of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts.
That much was learned from a letter received by Capt. Frank Huckins of "The Ancients" from Lord Denbigh, lieutenant-colonel, commanding the mother company, read at a meeting of the Ancients last evening. The letter from Lord Denbigh was as follows:

"NEWNHAM PADDOX,
"Lutterworth, Nov. 4, 1901.

"My Dear Sir--I duly received the very kind renewal of the invitation for the corps which I have the honor to command to visit Boston in 1903, and I hope you will forgive the delay in replying to your letter. I need hardly say that we all appreciate most cordially the kindly feeling which has prompted
the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts to renew the invitation which had been extended to us for last year, and which, to the great disappointment of all concerned we were unable to avail ourselves of.
The matter, however, required considerable and careful consideration on our part, for after having heard of all the trouble you were put to in respect to preparations and expectations which were destined to be unfulfilled, we were naturally loath to run the risk of again trespassing on your kindness in a similar way. I expect you will have, ere this heard from our court of assistants, to whom I submitted your letter and who, with past cordiality resolved to accept your invitation. I am afraid that such acceptance must, however, be accompanied by the proviso that it will only be possible for us to avail ourselves of it if the circumstances at the time permit of our doing so. Trust-cause any further disappointment and begging you to accept my most earnest wishes for the prosperity of your ancient company, I am, yours most faithfully,

DENBIGH.
Lieutenant-Colonel Commanding Honourable Artillery Company of London.
To Capt. F. Huckins, commanding
A. and H. A. Co., of Massachusetts.
Following the reading of this letter Hedges said: "At the time the announcement came from the Honourable Artillery Company that it would be necessary for them to postpone their visit to Boston, this company voted to pointed to arrange for their reception and entertainment."

"I move now that, on receipt of the formal acceptance from the courts of assistants of the Honourable Artillery Company, the committee be authorized to proceed with the arrangements for their entertainment, and to report to the company in print from time to time as the arrangements progress."

He also moved that the committee be authorized to fill any vacancy in its membership that may exist, now or hereafter, and that the committee on military museum and library be authorized to return to the committee on reception and entertainment all books and papers relating to the work that had been done before the postponement of the visit. Col. Hedges' motion was adopted.

ANCIENTS MAY NOW REJOICE.

London Honourables Are Sure to Come Over Next Year.

The Official Notification Arrives and Sets at Rest All Doubts--The Local Committee of Arrangements Will Now Get Down to Work in Earnest.

The much-talked-of visit of the Honourable Artillery Company of London to Boston in 1903 is to become a reality.
Some time since the Boston company received from Lord Denbigh, the commanding officer, a letter announcing that the company had decided to make the visit, and that a letter would follow from the court of assistants officially announcing that fact.

The apparent delay in the receipt of the court of assistants' letter had given rise to an opinion among many members of the Boston command that perhaps something had gone wrong on the other side, and it was considered possible that the visit might be again postponed.
The arrival of the official notification places all doubts at rest as to the intention of the mother company, and the committee having in charge the arrangements for the visit will be called together immediately.

THE ANCIENTS.

According to the Charleston, S. C.,
News and Courier, Capt. Frank Huckins of the company has been in correspondence with the managers of the exposition at that place, which correspondence, the Charlestonians appear to think, indicates a desire on the part of the company to visit that city next February. Inquiry as to hotel accommodations and on other points of interest were made, and the captain has been given the desired information.

With the exception of a little suggestion made in a brief talk to the company at its last meeting, nothing is known by the members of the company as to a Charleston trip. The abandonment of the usual fall excursion, caused by the assassination of President Mc-Kinley, might possibly be a factor in inducing the command to fill the gap with a winter trip down into the sunny South, but if made it would have to be entirely a voluntary affair.

Capt. Huckins announces that the second smoker of the season will take place at the armory on Thursday, Dec.
19, at 7:30 o'clock. The first function of the kind was found to be most enjoyable, and the officers of the company will probably find their efforts to please the company by a second affair on a somewhat larger scale will be appreciated by a large number of members.

It is proposed to have a vaudeville entertainment Thursday, in which some 30 professional artists will take part.
There will be the customary lunch, and much tobacco will be consumed.

SECOND SMOKE TALK.

Ancients Enjoyed an Evening of Fun
at Faneuil Hall.

Last night the second in the series of smoke talks under the auspices of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company took place at Faneuil hall, the headquarters of the organization, and it was the largest and most enthusiastic ever held by the organization, some 300 responding to the invitation of Capt Frank Huckins, the commander.

Capt. Huckins, previous to the show, had a few minutes' talk with regard to the southern trip, which had been contemplated by the company, and introduced Capt John Boardman, late of the 26th USV, to give a talk on "The Philippines and their possibilities."
Then followed a solid two hours of fun,
Lieut Frank Stone being responsible for the program.

GOOD ADVICE FOR ANCIENTS

Retiring Captain Huckins Gave It in a Speech at the Dinner—J. Stearns Cushing the New Captain

Good advice for the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was given at the banquet yesterday afternoon by Captain Huckins, the retiring leader. He said in part:

"When you stop to think this company has been handed down to you intact, without a break, through 264 years, you should take at least as good care of it as you would a valuable article handed down to you by your ancestors through a same period. Any company that has had 264 years of existence is worthy to be continued and have an outlook for 200 years more. I say to the members of the company: Look after the company's affairs carefully and loyally. I say to the citizens of this Commonwealth and to their representatives in the Legislature, give us your support and commendation, join its ranks and help carry forward a great inheritance.

"Condemn surely what is bad, but aid and help what is good. Nothing is perfect, but nothing that is thoroughly bad can live. Let the people of this city be not blinded with old sayings and jokes of the past few years. Have their jokes if they will, but do not in the telling of 'chestnuts' get to look upon them as facts. The organization is a military company, and should look after the true military spirit. Citizens of Boston do not expect this company to march equal to soldiers of twenty to twenty-five years of age, but the commander-in-chief and the people of this State do expect you to keep step, to keep your alignments; they do expect you to place in office men capable of commanding; they do expect to see on parade a true and perfect military courtesy and discipline.

"We are about to receive the Honourable Artillery Company from London. This city, this nation will welcome it, and great results will come from such fraternal visits. No alliances! no entanglements! but strengthened friendship! Closely allied as we are with the Honourable Artillery Company, friendly as we feel toward the British nation, we are Americans, and for America, first, last and all the time."

Lieutenant Governor Bates was greeted with "Three cheers for the next governor!" "It is exceedingly gratifying," he said, "to be reassured at the start and to know that I am all right." (Laughter.) "Who would not be governor, just for a day, especially if it happened to be Ancients' Day?" (Applause.) "I am not building any hopes on the most of this opportunity." Mr. Bates paid a high tribute to Governor Crane and closed by congratulating the company on its honorable and useful career.

After the dinner—and the speeches had to be cut short in order that the start might be made on time—the company marched to the Common, escorting the Lieutenant governor and guests. A conspicuous figure in line was Frederick Hassam, an aged Bostonian who has for years been a guest of the company and who marched over the entire route yesterday, the only man in line except his vest-wearing civilian clothes.

On the Common there was the usual review, in the presence of a great throng of people, then the drumhead election, each new officer receiving his commission under sanction of the commander-in-chief of the Commonwealth, and being saluted by the Lawrence Battery as he returned to his place. The election resulted as follows:

Captain, Lieutenant J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood.

First Lieutenant, Lieutenant James M. Usher of West Medford; second Lieutenant, Sergeant William S. Best of Brookline.

Adjutant, Captain Edward W. Abbott of Winchester.

First sergeant of infantry, Frederic W. Winrell of Quincy; second sergeant of infantry, Milton C. Paige of South Boston; third sergeant of infantry, John P. Hazlett of Charlestown; fourth sergeant of infantry, George...

ANCIENTS' SMOKE TALK

1638 ~~~~~ 1902

TWO HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of MASSACHUSETTS

Church Service
Monday, June 2
Nineteen Hundred & Two
Old South Church
Boston, Mass.

Preacher of the Anniversary Sermon
Rev. Walter E. C. Smith

Writer of the Anniversary Ode
Rev. Minot J. Savage, D.D.

HONORABLES.

and the entrance and the entrance announce that the held at the arranged, Jan. 18. From will be given for compliments of the 15 a light lunch at 8:15 "smoke"'clock the commutation of vaudeville continuous performance of the "new theme" connected with this been secured at and are warranted unparalleled points out that the present should the special post the committee, the from annoyance. own front," may bers of the bald-early application. of the company mbers, the read-ly discussion of the constitu- of importance death of Dr. which occurred in makes the 19th bers of the com-London contin- not been in good but he was up the day of his al and kindly reatly missed by e company and this city. His mouth, Me., his be Boston members Honorable Artillery a annual reception Old Guard," in New ting. It is expected will be present.

smoke talks of the Artillery Company day evening, was a d interesting event, fifty members being eight P. M. came the 's reception, the of- s, Lieut. John C. Stone, and Adj. the comrades, while ll served rations to id their respects to eption and rations company listened n unusually fine r more than one 'the occasion were ay and naval of-

SSIP.

deville artists appear at the mpany, which ers on Thurs-y settled that company of in 1903, Capt s that every n drill. As a lls on Friday tended. lively contest er next year. candidates in arns Cushing, Lieut James the Ancient and any who attended st Thursday night

Huckins, Lieutenants John C. Potter, Frank P. Stone and Thomas J. Tute.

Order of Service

SALUTATION TO THE COLORS

SALEM CADET BAND

ANTHEM. "Oh, Sing Unto the Lord" Buck

RUGGLES STREET QUARTET

Dorology

(To be sung by the Company, Chorus and Congregation.)

Praise God, from whom all blessings flow;
Praise Him, all creatures here below;
Praise Him above, ye heavenly host;
Praise Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

Invocation

"FROM THE DEPTHS" Campana
DR. CLARK.

Reading of the Scripture

REPENTANCE Gounod
MISS MAY

Prayer

"COME UNTO ME" Coenen
MISS MASON

Sermon

REV. WALTER E. C. SMITH

ROCK OF AGES Johnson
MR. JOHNSON

Reading of the Death Roll for the Year

BY THE ADJUTANT

MEMORY'S ROLL Arranged

Words written for the Company by HENRY O'MEARA.

Adapted to the music of the "Vacant Chair."

Chant in praise the roll revealing
Lives of ours from vision gone—
Vanished thoughts o'er Memory stealing,
Voices far that echo on;
Proudly sing of records keeping
Themes that still in love's view throng—
Ranks of comrades calmly sleeping
Rise with our awak'ning song.

CHORUS:

O'er their shrouded, vacant places,
O Bright Memory, shed thy rays;
Light thy roll with forms and faces
Glowing as in bygone days!

MESSRS. JOHNSON, MEEK, WHITE AND CLARK

Though their lives' long march is over,
Round their cheery traversed way
Linger hearts that loving hover,
Moving with our lines to-day;
Trace their steps of honored story,
Treasure now their names and deeds;
Civic worth and martial glory
Nigher sound as life recedes.

Not with note of sadness only
Chant, O Memory, sorrow's roll;
Not with knell for lives made lonely
Marshal our dead manhood's soul:
Sing that years nor death shall sever
Kindred spirits joined of yore;
Valor yet with Honor ever
Marching in our Ancient Corps!

Taps

Ode

REV. MINOT J. SAVAGE, D.D.

THY KINGDOM COME

One dream through all the ages
Has led the world along;
The wise words of the sages,
The poet in his song,
The prophet in his vision,—
All these have caught the gleam,
Have seen the light Elysian,
Have told the haunting dream.

This dream is that the story
The ages have unrolled
Shall blossom in the glory
Of one long age of gold;
That every man and woman
Shall find life glad and free,
That in whate'er is human
Is hid divinity.

The rod of old oppression
One day shall broken be;
Those held in night's possession
The light of hope shall see;
For tears there shall be laughing,
And peace shall be for strife,
And thirsty lips be quaffing
The wine of glorious life.

The rage and noise of battle
Shall sink, and fall to peace;
The lowing of the cattle,
The fruit and corn increase;
No more the wide sky under
The rattle of the drum,
No more the cannon's thunder,—
God's kingdom shall have come.

"BREAK, BREAK, BREAK" Anderton
MISS MASON, MISS MAY AND MR. JOHNSON

"AMERICA" (The Old Melody) Smith
(Congregation will rise and sing.)

My Country, 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing,—
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the Pilgrims' pride;
From ev'ry mountain side
Let freedom ring.

My native country, thee—
Land of the noble free—
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills;
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

Let music swell the breeze,
And ring from all the trees,
Sweet Freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

Our father's God, to Thee,
Author of Liberty,
To Thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With Freedom's holy light;
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King!

Benediction

GRAND MARCH

SALEM CADET BAND

Salem Cadet Band

JEAN M. MISSUD Bandmaster

And the following artists, under the personal direction of Private Joseph L. White:

The Ruggles Street Male Quartet

(The Original)

MR. HERBERT JOHNSON, First Tenor

MR. WILLIAM T. MEEK, Second Tenor

MR. ARTHUR B. HITCHCOCK, First Bass

DR. GEORGE R. CLARK, Second Bass

MISS BERTHA ESTELLE MASON, Soprano

MISS AGNES MAY, Contralto

PRIVATE JOSEPH L. WHITE, Baritone

Samuel Carr Organist

ANCIENTS' SMOKE TALK

Captain John Bordman, Jr., Talked of the Philippines, and the Evening Ended in Hilarity

Nearly three hundred members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company attended the second smoke talk of the organization in Faneuil Hall last evening. Major Paytersen, U. S. A., commander at Fort Warren, his surgeon, Captain Mathews, and Captain John Bordman, Jr., late of the Twenty-Sixth Infantry, U. S. V., were the guests of honor. Captain Bordman spoke on the Philippines, to which he will soon return to engage in business. He found much fault with the present tariff arrangement, and hoped that the Government would soon change conditions so as to encourage trade with this country. As things are now, Germany and France are favored as against the United States.

Captain Huckins explained the plans for the coming visit to Charleston, and after that the fun began. Various variety teams furnished entertainment for the company. The members were seated about the hall at small tables, as in a German beer garden.

"GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH"

Lively Vaudeville in the Ancients' Private Theatre in the Armory at Faneuil Hall.

"The Greatest Show on Earth," specially engaged for the occasion, kept 300 members of Ye Ancients and their friends in right jolly mood for over two hours last evening. The production was staged at the company's private theatre in Faneuil Hall (armory). The scenery, painted especially for this production by Prof. G. Lucusio Look, costumes by Jacobus Bensemoll, were pronounced incomparable. The box office was in charge of Lieut. E. E. Sullivan, and "tea" was poured by Lieut. George Hall. Capt. Frank Huckins acted as general manager, assisted by Lieut. Frank Stone, stage manager; Capt. John C. Potter, "barker," and Adj. Tom Tute, chief usher. "King" Edgar of Brockton acted as gasman. For a couple of hours the liveliest kind of a vaudeville was presented.

ANCIENTS HELD SMOKE TALK

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company held their first smoke talk of the season in their armory at Faneuil Hall last night.

Captain Frank Huckins, after some humorous allusion to the enthusiasm shown by his company in attendance upon drill, where upon more than one Friday, the regular drill day, as many as seven had presented themselves for practice, said that he had resolved to make a change to a vaudeville show.

The adjutant of the company then issued some burlesque orders instructing the officers to "go way back and sit down," and in which even a drill sergeant was a theory and not a condition.

Professional talent furnished music and stories. Light lunch and liquid refreshments were served.

Ancients Not Going South.

Capt Frank Huckins presided at a meeting of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company last night at headquarters. The principal business was amendments to the new bylaws which resulted in an animated discussion. Among those who were elected last night to membership were Henry Kimball Mansfield of Salem, Walter C. Lewis of Boston, John J. Flaherty, John J. Stanwood and Wm. Parsons all of Gloucester. Sergt R. W. Bates presented an elegant oil painting of "The

SMOKE TALK OF ANCIENTS.

Third in the Series of Entertainments Enjoyed by the 350 Members and Invited Guests.

The third in the series of smoke talks of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company took place in Faneuil hall last night, and was a delightful diversion from the usual run of entertainments served for this ancient body.

The armory, in Faneuil hall, presented a most attractive appearance, a large stage being erected at the west end, and some 80 small tables occupying the center. Around the tables the 350 members sat and enjoyed their smoke and light refreshments, and an excellent vaudeville entertainment. The artists were all professionals, many now filling engagements in Boston.

From 7 to 8 there was the usual New Year's reception by the officers, Capt Frank Huckins being assisted in receiving the comrades by Lieuts John C. Potter, Frank P. Stone and Adj. Tute, while the commissary, Capt George E. Hall, took good care of the visitors after they had paid their respects to the commander.

Following the reception some 30 minutes was devoted to discussing a well-served "army ration," the component parts consisting of hot frantforters, beans, cheese, crackers, etc.

The program opened with a 30 minutes' entertainment by the American trum-peters, introducing some pretty musical sketches, which were loudly encored. Then followed Miss Lillian Beach, who sang "Waiting for Julia," and received a hearty encore. Mitchell and Love also made a great hit, as did Bradlow and Arlington.

The efforts of Miss Marion Sawtelle and the Broadway trio were cordially received, and the Rossi sisters were repeatedly encored. Miss Ida Harris aroused considerable enthusiasm by her inimitable impersonations, and had to respond to encores. Cooper and Bailey did a very clever turn for a windup of the program.

Capt Huckins' introduction of the different artists was a feature of the evening's entertainment.

The three smoke talks that are to follow are awaited with impatience.

Among the guests were many U S army and naval officers stationed in Boston.

THE MEMORIAL TABLET

Programme of the Exercises at Whitney Hall last Saturday.

AMONG the organizations that were represented at the exercises attending the presentation to the town of the Revolutionary Memorial Tablet, at Whitney Hall last Saturday afternoon, were some of the most prominent military and patriotic societies in this part of the state. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was represented by the Commander, Captain Huckins, by past Captain A. A. Folsom, and by Mr. Edward Sullivan, a descendent of General Sullivan of Revolutionary fame.

The "Old Guard" ball, in New York City, Thursday evening, eclipsed its predecessors in elegance. The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Boston, was represented by Captain Frank Huckins and ten members of the company and the National Lancers, of Boston, by ten members. Several other Boston military organizations were represented by five smaller delegations.

ANCIENT AND HONORABLES.

Capt. Frank Huckins and the entertainment committee announce that the third "smoker" will be held at the armory Thursday evening, Jan. 16. From 7 to 7:45 o'clock time will be given for the exchange of the compliments of the season; from 7:45 to 8:15 a light lunch will be served, and at 8:15 "smoke" commences. At 8:30 o'clock the company's greatest aggregation of vaudeville talent will begin a continuous performance on the stage of the "new theatre." The artists connected with this special company have been secured at an enormous expense, and are warranted to furnish two hours' unparalleled fun. The committee points out that members intending to be present should announce the fact on the special post card, and thus save the committee, the company and guests from annoyance. Special chairs, "way down front," may be obtained by the members of the bald-headed battalion upon early application. At the next meeting of the company (special) election of members, the reading of applications, the discussion of amendments proposed to the constitution and other business of importance will be transacted.

The recent sudden death of Dr. Charles E. Coombs, which occurred in this city last week, makes the 19th death among those members of the company who formed the London contingent. Dr. Coombs had not been in good health for a long time, but he was up and about almost to the day of his death. He was a genial and kindly gentleman, and will be greatly missed by all of his comrades of the company and his host of friends in this city. His body was buried at Yarmouth, Me., his native place.

A large number of the Boston members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company will attend the annual reception and ball of the famous "Old Guard," in New York, next Thursday evening. It is expected that President Roosevelt will be present.

The third in a series of smoke talks of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company at the armory, last Thursday evening, was a quite largely attended and interesting event, about three hundred and fifty members being present. From seven to eight p. m. came the usual company new year's reception, the officers, Capt. Frank Huckins, Lieut. John C. Potter, Lieut. Frank P. Stone, and Adj. Thomas J. Tute receiving the comrades, while Commissary George E. Hall served rations to members after they had paid their respects to the officers. After the reception and rations had been disposed of, the company listened with great pleasure to an unusually fine vaudeville performance for more than one hour. Among the guests of the occasion were several United States army and naval officers.

ANCIENTS' GOSSIP.

Thirty professional vaudeville artists have been engaged to appear at the next "smoker" of the company, which takes place at headquarters on Thursday evening.

Now that it is definitely settled that the Honorable Artillery company of London is to visit Boston in 1903, Capt Huckins is very desirous that every member become efficient in drill. As a result of his appeal the drills on Friday evening are being well attended.

There promises to be a lively contest for the office of commander next year. There are already three candidates in the field, viz: Lieut J. Stearns Cushing, Lieut George H. Ferris and Lieut James A. Davis.

Among the members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company who attended the Cadet theatricals last Thursday night were Captain Frank Huckins, Lieutenants John C. Potter, Frank P. Stone and Thomas J. Tute.

1776

1902

*His Excellency The Governor and
The Executive Council*

invite you to be present at the Dedication

*(of)
The Monument built by the Commonwealth, as a Memorial of the Evacuation of Boston by the British Troops, on Monday, March the 17th at 2.30 P. M.
Dorchester Heights, South Boston.*

ANCIENTS' SMOKE TALK.

More Than 250 Members Enjoy a German Style Entertainment at Faneuil Hall.

More than 250 members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company attended the first smoke talk of the season last evening, at the armory in Faneuil Hall. It was an informal affair and the opening remarks of Capt. Frank Huckins, who presided, suggested that, with the possible exception of a trip to the fair at Charleston, S. C., in February, the following functions would be like that of last evening. Individual tables were placed about the hall and a very handsome lunch, with beer, was served. The most fun for the "boys," possibly, came from the reading, by Adj. Tute, of "Order 999," a lively skit at the peculiar military discipline installed by Capt. Huckins. Then came a continuous round of refreshment, served by Commissary Hall, and a lively entertainment by Mr. Walter B. C. Fox and his vaudeville artists.

—It has been definitely determined that the Honorable Artillery Company, of London, is to visit Boston in 1903, as the guests of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, of Massachusetts, of which Captain Frank Huckins, well-known yellow pine timber dealer, is the commander.

Capt. Frank Huckins announces that the armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company will be open Friday evening, Dec. 6, for the enrollment of such members of the company as may desire to drill Friday evenings during the winter.

Smoke Talk of Ancients

The first smoke talk of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company for the season was held at the armory last evening. More than 250 members participated. It was an informal affair and the opening remarks of Captain Frank Huckins, who presided, suggested that, with the possible exception of a trip to the fair at Charleston, S. C., in February, the following functions would be like that of last evening.

Captain Frank Huckins and every member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company has just reason to be proud of the event of the company's annual patriotic meeting last Saturday. It was largely attended and was exceedingly interesting from start to finish. We have many favorable comments on the speeches of Hon. Danforth H. Ainsworth, of New York, Rev. Stephen H. Rollin, Gen. W. W. Blackmar, Col. Henry Walker, Hon. Charles S. Hamlin and Lieut. James G. Davis in response to regular toasts.

ARMORY A. & H. CO.

BOSTON, Jan 4, 1902.
Members of the ANCIENT and HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY are hereby notified of and invited to attend the funeral service of their late Lieutenant-major, JOSEPH H. CHADWICK, which will be held at the Baker Memorial Church, Columbia road, cor Cushing av, Upham's Corner, SUNDAY, Jan 5, at 2 o'clock. GEO. H. ALLEN, FRANK HUCKINS, Clerk. Captain.

ARMORY A. & H. A. CO.

Boston, Dec 7, 1901.
Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified of and invited to attend the funeral service of their late associate, Mr JOSIAH E. DANIELL, which will be held from chapel at Newton Cemetery on MONDAY, 9th inst, at 2 o'clock. FRANK HUCKINS, Captain. GEO. H. ALLEN, Clerk.

The New York Sun is ruthless toward the Ancients, and reckless of its commander.

Captain Frank Huckins, of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, represented that organization at the complimentary dinner to the French guests, this evening.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was honored by an invitation for Captain Frank Huckins, its commander, to attend the banquet in honor of Prince Henry.

Frank Huckins, the new commander in the Ancients, is a lumberman of 42. In club life he is known as the president of the old Dorchester Club for three terms. He has been in the Ancients for 10 years.

....The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company has shown excellent taste in abandoning its proposed field day on account of the death of President McKinley.

There seems to be no possible chance for poking fun at the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company this time. Its memorial exercises were impressive and in the best of taste.

Smoke Talk of the Ancients.

The Ancient and Honorable artillery company had its first smoke talk of the season last evening in the armory in Faneuil hall. It was an innovation which had its inception with the commander, Capt Huckins. There were no set speeches and no formality. A troupe of vaudeville artists furnished the entertainment, and the members present had a fine time.

ARMORY A. & H. A. CO.

Boston, June 10, 1901.
Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified of and invited to attend the funeral service of their late associate and Quartermaster, JOHN H. PEAK, which will be held from 162 Paul Gore Street, Jamaica Plain, on TUESDAY, the 11th inst, at 2 o'clock. FRANK HUCKINS, Captain. GEO. H. ALLEN, Clerk. (M. T. m) 1901

At state headquarters Gen Fred W. Wellington entertained Mr James Nichols, Hon Harrison Hume, F. L. Loring, Judge J. Otis Fallon, and Dr Millerick, as well as Capt Frank Huckins and Adj Tute of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company.

Ancients meet and Capt. Huckins announces appointments.

Annual election and banquet of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Frank Huckins of Dorchester elected captain.

ANCIENTS MAY NOT PARADE.
It is not at all likely that the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company will be called upon to parade in South Boston on March 17. The company never has been a unit for this particular public function, and under present climatic conditions it would appear about impossible to get a sufficient number of the members to turn out. It is understood that the company will, however, be represented on Chief Marshal Devine's staff.

CAPT. HUCKINS AT STATE HOUSE.

Capt. Frank Huckins was a caller at the adjutant-general's office at the State House yesterday. The Ancients have expressed a desire to parade on March 17, at the dedication of the Dorchester Heights monument, and it is understood the visit of the company's commander was to establish the exact position the organization would hold in the line of parade.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company was represented at the Prince Henry banquet at the Somerset last Thursday evening, by its commander, Captain Frank Huckins. The company will have its next smoke talk at the armory, March 20.

Armory A. & H. A. Co.

BOSTON, March 15, 1902.
Members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company are hereby notified of and invited to attend the funeral service of their late associate and past commander, Gen. AUGUSTUS PEARL MARTIN, which will be held from the Second Church, Copley sq, on SUNDAY, the 16th inst, at 2 o'clock. FRANK HUCKINS, Captain. GEO. H. ALLEN, Clerk.

ANCIENT AND HONORABLES.

Capt. Frank Huckins orders members of the company to report for drills on Friday evenings, April 4, 11, 18, 25; May 2, 9, 16, 23, at 7.45 o'clock, to prepare for duty in connection with the anniversary, June 2. The sergeant-major, sergeants and color sergeants will report on each of the above evenings, unless excused. At the next meeting of the company Capt. Huckins will announce the preacher of the anniversary sermon and the writer of the ode. The constitution and bylaws of the company were recently submitted to the Governor and council, and approved, as required by law. The last time the Governor and council was called to act on the company constitution was in 1822, it is said.

ANCIENTS MEET.

Vote to Send Congratulations to King Edward.

The first spring meeting of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company was held last night at the armory in Faneuil hall. Capt Frank Huckins presided. The following new members were admitted by unanimous vote: Brig Gen Isaac S. Bangs of Waterville, Me; Edwin G. Brown of Winthrop, John Langdon Fiske of Cambridge and William Sumner Briggs of Lincoln, Mass. It was voted to send a congratulatory address to King Edward on the occasion of his coronation. W. H. Ellis was appointed state colorbearer in place of Lieut Sampson, retired for disability, and a committee was appointed to draw up suitable resolutions on the death of past comrades J. Henry Taylor and A. P. Martin.

Capt. Huckins desires to remind members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company that the funeral of their late comrade, Gen. A. P. Martin, takes place at the Second Church this afternoon. He asks members attending to meet him and the officers of the company at the Public Library at 1.30 o'clock. Two pews have been reserved in the church for the members of the company.

SYMPHONY OF COLOR.

Continued from the First Page.

pipings. There were eight companies of them—four of infantry and four of artillery.

Line Formed.

Line was formed at 8.50 in Faneuil Hall Square and the column moved out through Merchants' Row to State and thence to Washington in this order:

Mounted Police—Sergt. Stone.
Police Flankers.

Band Guide—Sergt. George Look.
Salem Cadet Band—Jean M. Missud.
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company.
Capt. Frank Huckins.
Adj. Thomas J. Tute.

Officer of the Day, Col. Charles K. Darling.
Officer of the Guard, Lieut. Albert A. Gleason.

Chief of Staff—Capt. Jacob Fottler; Maj. Marion, Surgeon; Assistant Surgeons, Capt. G. F. Walker, Lieut. F. S. Abbott; Paymaster, Emory Grover; Assistant Paymaster, Lieut. George H. Allen.

Honorary Staff—Lieut. Col. Supplee, Fourth Maryland; Maj. S. Ellis Briggs, Adj. Geo. H. Wyatt, Commander John T. Cutting, Chief Engineer, William Henry White; Ordnance Officer, Belden J. Rogers; Capt. W. R. Brixey, Capt. Horace H. Brockway, Capt. G. H. McLean, Capt. R. P. Lyon, Capt. C. H. Bennett, Lieut. W. L. Jaques, Lieut. Robert Taylor, Lieut. Chas. H. Chessman, Lieut. S. L. H. Ward, Lieut. Chas. H. Heyzer, Col. L. C. Marceau, Col. Frank T. Huntton, Col. Con McLean—all of the Old Guard of New York; Albert Ross Parsons and Allen Freeman, of the Veteran Corps of Artillery of the Military Society of the War of 1812, of New York; Col. Charles E. Nelson, I. R. P., on staff of Governor of Vermont; Maj. Charles Courtenay, late of Her Majesty's Seventh Royal Dublin Fusiliers, representing the British Veteran Association; Capt. Maurice B. Herriot, Adjutant First Infantry, N. G. S., N. Y.; First Lieut. R. B. L. Dwight, Adjutant Tenth Battalion Infantry, N. G. S., N. Y.; Col. Chas. M. Weldon, Thirty-first Massachusetts Volunteers, who is now in his 81st year, and who was an officer of the Ancients in 1856; F. F. Hasson.

RIGHT WING—INFANTRY.

First Lieut. John C. Potter.
First Company—Sergt. John D. Nichols.
Second Company—Capt. Arthur N. Webb.

good name, and so he therefore felt in honor bound to shoulder the entire debt. His last dollar was gone, and he was 60 years of age. But the sense of honor remained. "The law," he claimed, "recognizes no mortgage on a man's brain, and a merchant, who has given up all that he has, may take advantage of the court of insolvency and start free again for himself. But I am not a business man, and honor is a harder master than the law; it cannot compromise for less than 100 cents on the dollar, and its debts never out-law." The story of this brave man, of his memorable fight throughout the world: Europe, India, Australia, South Africa, for dollars to pay his debts, is the story of that faith of which we have been speaking.

"I meant," he adds also, "to give my creditors all the benefit of this, but I begin to feel that I am gaining something from it, too, and that my dividends, if not available for banking purposes, may be even more satisfactory than theirs." Dividends of the spirit of man, dividends in the strengthening and securing of moral worth and character; dividends which protect life and make it to know less and less of fear; dividends in the solid sense of satisfaction which always accrues out of honorable dealing, clean living, just and righteous treatment of men.

"Finally, who has won the hardest fight, the man who has, by an extraordinary miracle, knitted two continents together so that communication between the two is almost instantaneous; who can send wireless messages across 3000 miles of raging sea; or the man who can hear with a patient, trusting, undaunted spirit the message which comes to him, by cable or without it, that all he loves dearest in the world, or all he possesses, is gone forever? I am not asking that life shall learn indifference or become unsympathetic. The man who can hear of the loss of all he loves, and can endure this with fortitude and calmness, who can take up the duties of life and perform them faithfully, is a conqueror—his victory is the victory of faith.

"Conceive of the spirit of men of whom St. Paul could say, 'They were

Then the congregation and band joined in a grand rendering of "America." Rev. Mr. Smith pronounced the benediction.

THE BANQUET.

Capt. Huckins Words of Advice to the Company.

The line of march was taken for Faneuil Hall, where dinner was served, after 12 o'clock. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion.

In welcoming the guests Capt. Huckins, Commander of the Ancients, said:

"Any company that has had 264 years of existence is worthy to be continued and have an outlook for 200 years more. The company was not made for us, but we for the company, and it is the duty of every member to guard and work for its best interest, and hand it along to the next generation improved and on an even stronger foundation than at present.

"There was a time some years ago when the city might have lost the Old South Church. We have lived enough years since that time to realize what a great loss it would have been. Today no hand can touch its sacred walls with razing tools. This old hall has been taken care of for all ages. No one would dare suggest the pulling down of the Old State House, or Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Why then should any one desire to hurt the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, older than any of these buildings.

"Citizens of Boston do not expect this company to march equal to soldiers of 20 to 25 years of age, but the Commander-in-Chief and the people of this State do expect you to keep step; to keep your alignments; they do expect you to place in office men capable of commanding; they do expect to see on parade a true and perfect military courtesy and discipline.

"The era of universal peace is coming. America is the main factor in bringing this about. This company's fall field day trips are missions of peace, and the sentiment expressed on

(Photograph by Chickering, Boston)
 LIEUT. THOMAS J. TUTE,
 Retiring Adjutant of the Ancients.

tions contrast their clear views as to the judgments of God and His attitude towards the various types of religion and service to Him. They are clear and unambiguous, and for the better part of the world is not self-conscious. It is sympathetic, however, to the real and keen improvements in the conditions of life today which are the result of purely mercantile undertakings, and may be regarded not only from the business man's standpoint as well as as a gentleman and simple justice, and the entire service of God and humanity, even if they lack the radiant radiance of Christianity.

"The survival of animal instincts in man tells a story of the battle for life, and for higher things. There are no doubtless moments today when these heroic servants of life are proposed, summoned for defense and conquest. When we think of the poverty, pain, and surprise that the poor people have to endure, it would assert themselves millions of years ago had they been here. This would tend upon the same high kind of development. But the fact is that what human life includes a range extending from the beast to the saint. The conflict, however, diminishes in fierceness and frequency with civilization. The most warlike people in history used the word 'impedimental baggage' to describe their train, which retarded its progress with its long processions. Some at once, a successful General hasave of his own battles by reducing their impediments." The successful management of this necessary burden in the army's march is a crucial test of generalship. Our animal inheritances are our moral impediments; the passions of men; their combative instinct; their confidence in brute strength, or in the more refined and skillful engineering war.' All these need moral generalship."

Triumph of Commerce.

The preacher then used the words quoted at the beginning of this report. Passing then, to a consideration of triumph of commerce, the preacher said in part:

"The third method of conquering the

"But having said all this, are we not haunted by a sense of disappointment if no greater triumphs of life are before us than these conquests of war, and of trade, and commerce? The greatest champion of large armies and navies understands that the vic-tories of war are not the highest, or noblest, and that at best, they are fearfully costly, and involve an enormous waste of human life and property. The appeal to force is only legitimate when all other honorable appeals fail, and when it calls to the defence of that, so-ciety and Government which alone make a man's life here on earth valuable and useful; or it may be, in defence of weaker peoples; or when the ideas of Government in which we thor-oughly and loyally believe, are

The toastmaster, Rear Admiral, "The
 B. Belknap, U. S. N. ex-Gov. Van
 F. Boutwell, ex-Gov. John G. A. Be-ed, Gen. Wilmon A. Blackman, Depu-ment Commander G. A. R.; Rev. W. I.
 C. Smith of Ascension Church, New York; Rev. E. A. Horton of Boston;
 Maj. Robert H. Patterson of Fort Maren, Maj. S. Ellis Briggs, Old Guard
 New York.
 After Capt. Hunkins's speech the toasts and responses were announced.
Toasts Announced.
 President of the United States—K.
 sponse by hand.
 Commonwealth of Massachusetts—
 Lieut. Gov. Bates.
 City of Boston—Arthur W. Dole.
 President of the Common Council—
 R. H. Patterson, United States—Com-
 R. H. Patterson, United States—Com-
 Defence Artillery.
 The Navy of the United States—Re-
 Admiral George E. Belknap.
 Grand Army of the Republic—Ge-Wilmon A. Blackman, Department
 Commander.
 Invited Guests—Ex-Gov. Boutwell,
 The Clergy—Rev. Mr. Smith.
 Old Guard of New York—Maj. S. E. us Briggs, and Honorable Artillery.
 Hon. John J. Fribourg of Gloucester
 Honorable Artillery of London Band.

IN THE CHURCH.

The church was crowded as it has not been before in a number of years, no seats being reserved except for the shareholders and the company, which occupied the centre of the body of the

that the Anglo-Americans committed to this method of conquest more than any other race on earth. It is probably true that today the commanding interest in America is money-getting. In my judgment, it is better as a nation in the world some such position as industrial sovereigns and financial magnates are more and more securing here in America; the question will certainly arise, 'And is this all?

Lyman Eyring, admitted June 1, 1886; died May 14, 1901; served 23 years.
 Sergt. J. Otis McFadden, admitted Feb.
 17, 1886; died March 17, 1901; served
 15 years.
 Quartermaster John Peak, admitted
 Sept. 27, 1886; died June 9, 1901; served 47 years.
 Maj. Thomas F. Sloan, admitted
 Feb. 1889; died June 23, 1901; served
 12 years.
 Capt. C. Elias Smith and Capt. W. J.

...the hazardous near deas appeared the critical huring the battle of Austmost of the Kaiser's observed that the von Moltke-P
the Franco-P battalion was an u von Holleben,

Line Formed.

pining. There were eight companies of them—four of infantry and four artillery.

Line Formed.

Line was formed at 8.30 in Faneuil Hall Square and the column moved through Merchants Row to State and thence to Washington in this order:

in Ancients Paradise

264th Festal Day—Roosevelt Indorsed by Preacher.

"The conduct of war is constantly undergoing modifications. 'War is hell,' yes, but not so hideous a hell as it was once. Today war is governed by 'rules of war.' Merciful agreements between combatants gleam like threads of gold in the black pall of war. I dare not say that the indescribable cruelties of ancient wars are no longer possible, but they are rare and shock the conscience of humanity. Our own army has been accused of cruelty in the Philippines. There is no need, nor have I the time, nor do I feel that this is quite the occasion to discuss such an indictment against the American soldier. In the face of the tide of public criticism, the shocking statements of witnesses, the daily and violent arraignment of the army in the Philippines by leading newspapers of our land, we may wisely reflect that Mr. Roosevelt is in a position to see and understand the situation better than the public at large. He hates cruelty and injustice as only a great, strong nature can hate these things. We may safely trust him and the able and honest men who are his advisers to guide the affairs of our land and to preserve our country's fair name from every stain of dishonor."—From the annual sermon delivered to the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in the Old South Church today.

Not yet had the clocks of Old Dorchester chimed the hour of 4 this morning, when Adjutant Tute's fanfare with the bugles and drums of the Ancients set all the larks to singing.

A grand morning it was, too, a trifle warm, but with glorious sun, to beam upon the 254th festal day of Boston's most venerable corporation.

When the parade was formed down in front of Old Faneull the white-frocked marksmen were all agreed that for once more had come back a genuine old-time 'Ancients' parade—for there were uniforms galore, and such a symphony of color embracing everything that has been worn from the days of the buff and blue of '76 to the Spanish war of '98. Nothing so picturesque as the column which lined up State Street at about 9 o'clock—been seen in Boston for many a day. New York contributed notably in her magnificent platoon from the Old Guard with their tall bearskin shakos and spotless white coats. Hartford sent her natty Governor's Foot Guards with their red coats, buff pants and elegant black gaiters. The Veteran Society of the War of 1812 of New York contributed a little of the quaintness that pervades in a couple of the uniforms, such as those worn by Old Hickory's men when they charged the redcoats under Pakenham at New Orleans. Oddly enough, close beside them glowed the scarlet of the Seventh Dublin Royal Fusiliers.

The Ancients themselves paraded in the plain dark uniform with its red

Continued on the Third Page.

Continued on the Third Page.

QUEST.

ords of Ad-mpany.
was taken for net was serval was pretty nd hand joined "America."

ced the bene-

tion.
Ancients Capt. Hucksanders said:
"I have had 24 years to be continued book for 200 years was not made for company, and it member to guard best interest, and the next generation
an even stronger
present.
In some years ago
I have lived the Old time to realize what have been. Today sacred walls with old hall has been all ages. No one
the pulling down,
le, or independent
Why then should bury the ancient company, old-

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander of the Ancients.

Commander of the Ancients.

Uniform

SECOND LT. FRANK P. STONE.
(Photo by Gardner Art Gallery.)

Third Company—Sergt. Frederick D. Hicks.
Fourth Company—Maj. George F. Quimby.
LEFT WING—ARTILLERY.
Second Lt. Frank P. Stone.
First Battery—Sergt. Ernest O. Bartels.
Second Battery—Sergt. William H. Thomas.
Third Battery—Sergt. Elmer G. Foster.
Fourth Battery—Sergt. George A. Shackford.

The March.

The march was through State Street to Washington, Newspaper Row to School, thence through Beacon to the State House, where ranks were opened and the customary honors paid to receive His Honor, Lieut. Gov. Bates, who, in the absence of Gov. Crane, represented the Commonwealth. He was accompanied by Adj. Gen. Dalton, Surg. Gen. Blood, Judge Advocate General Dewey, Commissary General Wellington, Inspector General Brigham. Nothing less than a Brigadier would do for this occasion.

Gen. Samuel C. Lawrence was detailed by Capt. Hucks as the special escort for the Commander-in-Chief. Capt. W. M. Bailey were the detailed flankers to the executive party. Then the line broke by the left into column and moved down Beacon to Tremont, to Boylston, to Copley Square and the Old South Church, where the anniversary exercises were held in accordance with long revered custom.

IN THE CHURCH.

Old South Crowded With Great Congregation.

The church was crowded as it has not been before in a number of years, no seats being reserved except for the dignitaries and the company, which occupied the centre of the body of the house. The preacher of the occasion was Rev. Walter E. Clifton Smith of New York, and the Chaplain, Rev. Edward A. Horton of Boston.

There was the customary elaborate music under the direction of Comrade Joseph L. White, a member of the Ancients, who had the original Ruggles Street Male Quartet—Messrs. Herbert Johnson, W. T. Meek, tenors, A. B. Hitchcock and Dr. R. Clark, basses.

Besides these there were Miss Bertha Estelle Mason, soprano; Miss Agnes May, contralto, and the organist, Samuel Carr.

As usual the opening was the salutation to the colors, all rising at the playing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the full Salem Cadet Band. After the depositing of the flags at the altar, there followed the anthem, "O Sing Unto the Lord," followed by the Doxology sung by the congregation.

Then came a short invocation from the Episcopal liturgy read by Mr. White. Dr. Clark sang "From the Depths."

Rev. Dr. Horton chose as the Scripture lesson the 13th chapter of first Corinthians: "If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels and have not love, I am become as sounding brass and a clanging cymbal" (Revised Version).

Miss May sang very sweetly Gounod's "Repentance," and this was followed by a fervent supplication by Dr. Horton, calling for the blessing of God upon this honored old company, that it might march on for years and traverse the centuries.

The response was "Come Unto Me," sung by Miss Mason.

Then followed the sermon, which was much shorter than usual, and delivered this year earlier in the program.

THE SERMON.

Taking for his text the following: "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith"—(I. John v.). Rev. Walter E. Smith spoke first of our conquests of nature, saying that our Chief Engineer, William W. Rogers, Ordnance Officer, Belden J. Rogers, W. R. Brixey, Capt. Horace H. Lyon, Capt. C. H. McLean, Capt. Jacques, Lieut. Robert Taylor, Lieut. H. Chessman, Lieut. S. L. H. Lieut. Chas. H. Heyzer, Col. L. C. Dean, Col. Frank T. Hutton, Col. McLean—all of the Old Guard of New York; Col. Charles E. Nelson, I. R. Charles Courtenay, late of Her Majesty's Seventh Royal Dublin Fusiliers, representing the British Veteran Association; Capt. Maurice B. Herriot, Adjutant First Infantry, N. G. S., N. Y.; First Lieut. R. E. Dwight, Adjutant Tenth Battalion Infantry, N. G. S., N. Y.; Col. Chas. M. Weldon, Thirty-first Massachusetts Volunteers, who is now in his sixtieth year, and who was an officer of the Ancients in 1866. F. F. Hanson.

RIGHT WING—INFANTRY.
First Lieut. John C. Potter.
First Company—Sergt. John D. Nichols.
Second Company—Capt. Arthur N. Webb.

(Photograph by Chickering, Boston.)
LIEUT. THOMAS J. TUTE,
Retiring Adjutant of the Ancients.

victories over her had come only with an appreciation and recognition of her laws and an obedient tribute to her undying claims.

Passing to conquests of war, the preacher said:

"There are hundreds of thousands throughout all lands today who, if they do not give pre-eminence to the idea that 'might makes right,' are fascinated by the methods of force. It is doubtful if anything new can be said upon the subject of war. I may, however, remind you of a fact about which there can be no question. Of the methods of conquest, that of war has the longest history.

"The survival of animal instincts in man tells a story of the battle for life, and for higher things. There are doubtless moments today when these fiercer servants of life are properly summoned for defence and conquest. When we think of the power of habit in our own lives we ought not to be surprised that the racial habits of millions of years should assert themselves. This would be true, even if all mankind were standing upon the same high plane of development. But the fact is that human life includes a range extending from the beast to the saint. The conflict, however, diminishes in fierceness and frequency with civilization. The most warlike people in history used the word 'impedimenta'—that which impedes—to describe their baggage train. The commissariat train, with its long procession of wagons, is, at once, a help and a hindrance. Some of the most successful Generals have won their battles by reducing their 'impedimenta.' The successful management of this necessary burden in the army's march is a crucial test of generalship. Our animal inheritances are our moral impediments; the passions of men; their combative instinct; their confidence in brute strength, or in their more refined and skillful ingenuity of war. All these need moral generalship."

Triumph of Commerce.

The preacher then used the words quoted at the beginning of this report. Passing, then, to a consideration of the triumph of commerce, the preacher said in part:

"The third method of conquering the world is comparatively modern. It is the appeal to enlightened self-interest, and is known as the commercial conquest of the world. The career of Cecil Rhodes is typical of this spirit. It was a dream of his to form a syndicate of the world's richest men, and, by fabulous concentration of capital, to conquer and control the earth—to convert all humanity into an economic machine. There can be no doubt but that the Anglo-Saxon race is more committed to this method of conquest than any other race on earth. It is probably true that today the commanding interest in America is money-getting. In my judgment, it is better for us to recognize the fact, and make the best of it, than to deceive ourselves.

"There are many today who look with the very gravest apprehension upon the influence of the commercial spirit. They see in the claims and power of the business life, in the stupendous aggregations of capital, the enormous industrial combinations, the rapid accumulation of wealth, not possibilities of great public service, but rather a degeneration. The artist, in the midst of this commercial age, laments an absence of esthetic taste, and the lack of appreciation of noble work. He sees vulgarity haunting itself as art in our public buildings and parks, and places the blame at once upon the materialism of our times. Impatient and contemptuous, he escapes, in spirit and imagination, to other centuries when men loved the beautiful above all things when art rose to her highest estate, and he finds there an inspiration and contentment which this age seems to him unable to give. One hears much the same lament in the world of literature and music. Devout men who have the religious interest of mankind at heart feel keenly, and sadly, that the commercial spirit is leading life far afield from those ideals of piety and devotion so generally associated with our Puritan forefathers, as if the Puritan were the only true type of devotion to God and High righteousness.

"After all has been said of the peril of a commercial spirit, it is a fair contention that this commercial spirit and accomplishment of modern life in America may be precisely the contribution which, under God, it is designed that this nation, or the Anglo-Saxon people, shall make to civilization. Israel has given to the world a religion; Greece, art and literature; Rome, government and law. Great people bring their unique gifts to life. It may be the peculiar service of the Anglo-Saxon people to make such a splendid contribution of economic and commercial efficiency to life that in ages to come the absolutely necessary work of keeping the body clothed, fed and housed can be accomplished in a vastly shorter time than has been required in the past, and the balance of the day be given to other and lovelier engagements. If, indeed, America shall make such a contribution to civilization that the substantial and common needs of daily life can be secured by the labor of a few hours, and the inducements of leisure and opportunity put at every man's disposal for art, music, literature, conversation, then surely our race shall have made an offering worthy to be placed by the side of the magnificent contributions of other and earlier nations.

Its Religious Quality.

"We ought not to forget that this great absorbing interest and endeavor of the commercial spirit is itself becoming illumined and empowered with an unmistakably religious quality. Except here and there, where wealth may be turned to vulgar uses, it may be affirmed that on the whole business men today, and great leaders in industrial enterprise, appreciate their responsibility to God and man as faithfully, and more effectively, than did the business man of a hundred years ago. 'Our forefathers,' says President Eliot, 'acted as if they had received and acquired in the doctrine of the survival of the fittest a century in advance of its discovery; the sickly among them died, the insane languished or raged in hopeless confinement; and the poor and shiftless went hungry and cold. No philanthropic notions confused their clear views about the judgments of God and his afflictive providences.' The type of religious service has changed, and for the better. The religious spirit today in the commercial world is not self-conscious. Its sympathies, however, are real and keen. Improvements in the condition of life today which are the results of purely mercantile undertakings must be regarded not only from the business man's standpoint as 'good business' and 'simple justice,' but also as a genuine service of God and humanity, even if they lack the finer radiance of Christian philanthropy.

"But having said all this, are we not haunted by a sense of disappointment if no greater triumphs of life are before us than these conquests of war, and of trade, and commerce? The greatest champion of large armies and navies understands that the victories of war are not the highest, or noblest, and that at best, they are fearfully costly, and involve an enormous waste of human life and property. The appeal to force is only legitimate when all other honorable appeals fail, and when it calls to the defence of that, society and Government which alone make a man's life here on earth valuable and useful; or it may be, in defence of weaker peoples; or when the ideas of government in which we thoroughly and loyally believe, are threatened with overthrow.

"Nor does the triumph of the commercial spirit and of trade throughout the world seem really to reach the summit of life. When we at last shall sell our goods in every town, village and city in the world, and, by greater energy, enterprise and skill, shall possess commercial supremacy, occupying as a nation in the world some such a position as industrial sovereigns and financial magnates are more and more securing here in America; the question will certainly arise, 'And is this all? Is this the filling out of the measure of life upon the earth?' 'Is this the final victory which overcometh the world?' It is in the presence of such questions as these that one may recall the words of John and of Christ, 'This is the victory which overcometh the world, even our faith.' Nineteen hundred years of usage and misusage may indeed have dulled the rich meaning and beauty of this word, 'Faith.'

"There is, of course, always this danger for the 'words of life.' The word 'faith' has come to be thought of as a purely technical term, or else as descriptive of an attitude of mind and heart which, since it cannot build upon the foundation of rational processes, and a solid science, claims for the reality of the most precious things in life some other foundation—and this is given the name of 'faith.' At all events for a great many people the word 'faith,' I suspect, has lost reality, and a statement like that of my text, has come to be disesteemed as not having clear meaning or vital significance. My purpose this morning is to re-establish in your minds, if possible, this word 'faith.' I should like to show you its power; and to make clear to you that the highest victory in life is the Victory of Faith. I shall not attempt to define the word. I prefer, rather, to illustrate its power.

Power of Faith.

"Throughout the world there are hundreds of thousands of men and women who toil from early morning until evening, honestly and faithfully, to provide for those who are dependent upon their care. Their life is one of drudgery. They live only from day to day. Before them are no visions of a rest from the severe toil of daily life as long as they live; no dreams of a competence for old age. Between their loved ones and old age there is only the bulwark of their own constant labor. A host of subtle temptations attack these faithful spirits—the temptation of despair, of dishonesty—to get a living in the devil's way and at his suggestion. These are some of the enemies that attack the toilers of our country. And yet the vast majority of the working people are conquering these enemies, beating them down into the dust. Think for a moment of the multitude of shop girls who are barely earning a meagre living, who face some of the subtlest perils which can be devised against them; who, nevertheless, keep life pure and sweet, and prefer even death to dishonor. Think of the men, and they are far the vast majority, who are living purely, who believe in the preciousness and sanctity of the family. Think of the men all through our great land who cherish the noblest ideals of national life; who are undaunted by municipal corruption or national perfidy. They may be overthrown, but like splendid soldiers, they are soon upon their feet, upholding again the banner of truth, justice and righteousness, which they know must ultimately triumph. All these are the victories of faith. This is the faith which overcomes the world. Gentlemen, I am speaking now to you, not only as military men, but as men of large business interests. Let me give you an example of the conquest of faith which touches business life.

"Some years ago one of our most brilliant and successful literary men connected himself with a publishing firm. The firm failed. He might have shared the share of the loss to the neighbor; but he knew that the credit of this house that rested upon his own

FIRST LT. JOHN C. POTTER.

stoned, they were slain with the sword; they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented.' And these, we are told, were men of faith. While the attack upon life is in many ways changed, and men are not now, as in former times, burned, racked or tortured, because they are true to their ideals; nevertheless, wherever we see the spirit of martyrdom, or courage witnessing to truth, or supreme devotion, we are in the presence of that faith which is the triumphant force in the world.

"In this faith, then, let us live and conquer. Into our hands, as into the Christ's, God has given all power, both in heaven and in earth. Beyond the battle is the victory. For this present life is not only 'the chance of learning love,' but a divine opportunity given to win all things into the service of the highest manhood. So that at the last we may say:

All life, grief, wrong,
I won at the last to beauty and to song.

MUSTERED OUT.

Following the sermon came the reading of the roll of Ancients gone before—the mustered out. The reaper has been busy this year, especially among the old and honored of the corps. Adj. Tute, to the soft roll of the muffled drum, read this list of 19 members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery who have died since the last anniversary:

Roll of Honor.

Lyman Boynton, admitted June 1, 1868; died May 14, 1901; served 33 years.
Sergt. J. Otis McFadden, admitted Feb. 17, 1896; died March 17, 1901; served 5 years.
Quartermaster John Peak, admitted Sept. 27, 1855; died June 9, 1901; served 47 years.
Maj. Thomas F. Sloan, admitted Sept. 16, 1898; died June 23, 1901; served 3 years.
Samuel S. Slas, admitted Sept. 29, 1886; died June 26, 1901; served 35 years.
Sergt. Asabel Wheeler, admitted April 29, 1868; died July 27, 1901; served 33 years.
Charles H. Hayden, admitted May, 1860; died Aug. 28, 1901; served 41 years.
Sergt. Samuel T. Snow; admitted January, 1861; died Nov. 12, 1901; served 40 years.
Fred C. Libbey; admitted Sept. 21, 1891; died Nov. 14, 1901; served 10 years.
Josiah E. Daniel; admitted April 2, 1894; died Dec. 9, 1901; served seven years.
Elijah Bent; admitted May 20, 1867; died Jan. 1, 1902; served 35 years.
Charles E. Coombs; admitted May 4, 1896; died Jan. 3, 1902; served six years.
Elbridge H. Grover; admitted May 23, 1881; died Feb. 16, 1902; served 21 years.
William L. Lockhart; admitted May 21, 1883; died Feb. 21, 1902; served 19 years.
Gen. Augustus P. Martin; admitted Sept. 22, 1873; died March 13, 1902; served 29 years.
Sergt. Henry W. Tombs; admitted May 12, 1890; died March 13, 1902; served 12 years.
Capt. J. Henry Taylor; admitted May 12, 1879; died March 20, 1902; served 23 years.
Henry Nelson; admitted Oct. 2, 1868; died April 19, 1902; served 33 years.
Horace Partridge; admitted Sept. 24, 1860; died April 26, 1902; served 42 years.
William L. Dolbeare; admitted Sept. 22, 1867; died May 4, 1902; served 35 years.
Lieut. Edward E. Wells; admitted May 12, 1879; died May 8, 1902; served 23 years.

OTHER EXERCISES.

Messrs. Johnson, White, Meek and Clark sang as the response "Memory's Roll":

"Chant in praise the roll revealing
Lives of ours from vision gone."

The bugles of the Cadet Band sang "Taps" from the far organ loft, echoed again from nave and from transept. This was followed by the ode, written this year by Rev. Dr. Minot J. Savage of New York.

THY KINGDOM COME.

One dream through all the ages
Has led the world along;
The wise words of the sages,
The poet in his song,
The prophet in his vision—
All these have caught the gleam,
Have seen the light Elysian,
Have told the haunting dream.

This dream is that the story
The ages have unrolled
Shall blossom in the glory
Of one long age of gold;
That every man and woman
Shall find life glad and free,
That in whatever is human
Is hid divinity.

The rod of old oppression
One day shall broken be;
Those held in night's possession,
The light of hope shall see;
For tears there shall be laughing,
And peace shall be for strife,
And thirsty lips be quaffing
The wine of glorious life.

The age and noise of battle
Shall sink, and fall to peace;
The lowing of the cattle,
The fruit and corn increase;
No more the wide sky under
The rattle of the drum,
No more the cannon's thunder—
God's kingdom shall have come.

Andertin's trio—"Break, Break, Break," was sung by Miss Mason, Miss May and Mr. Johnson.

various visits to other cities. Good, friendly feelings one set toward another in this country. visit of the company to London in was a mission of peace, and the nations were drawn together by We are about to receive the Honorable Artillery Company from London. company, this city, this nation, welcome it, and great results will come from such fraternal visits. No alliances! No entanglements! strengthened friendship!

"Closely allied as we are with Honorable Artillery Company, friends as we feel toward the British nation we are Americans, and for America first, last and all the time."

465 at the Tables.

The response to dinner was prompt and hearty as it always is with the Ancients. When all were seated there were 465 at table. Capt. J. Henry Bates was here and there everywhere in a fatigable. Quartermaster Willey in an admirable layout.

At the head table was Capt. Hucks. On his right Lieut. Gov. John L. Bates and up and down the table President Dolan of the Boston Common Council, Adj. Gen. Dalton, Adj. Thomas Tute, toastmaster; Rear Admiral E. Belknap, U. S. N., ex-Gov. George F. Boutwell, ex-Gov. John Q. A. Brackett, Gen. Wilmon A. Blackmar, Department Commander G. A. R.; Rev. W. C. Smith of Ascension Church, New York; Rev. E. A. Horton of Boston; Maj. Robert H. Patterson of Fort Warren, Maj. S. Ellis Briggs, Old Guard New York.

After Capt. Hucks's speech the toasts and responses were announced.

Toasts Announced.

President of the United States—Response by band.
Commonwealth of Massachusetts—Lieut. Gov. Bates.
City of Boston—Arthur W. Dolan, President of the Common Council.
Army of the United States—Major R. H. Patterson, United States Co. Defence Artillery.
The Navy of the United States—Rear Admiral George E. Belknap.
Grand Army of the Republic—General Wilmon W. Blackmar, Department Commander.
Invited Guests—Ex-Gov. Boutwell. The Clergy—Rev. Mr. Smith.
Old Guard of New York—Maj. S. Ellis Briggs.
Ancient and Honorable Artillery—Hon. John J. Flaherty of Gloucester, Honorable Artillery of London Band.

and band joined in "America." announced the bene-

Continued on the Third Page.

Words of Ad-Company.

a was taken for a dinner was served, after 12 o'clock. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion.

In welcoming the guests Capt. Hucks, Commander of the Ancients, said: "Any company that has had 264 years of existence is worthy to be continued and have an outlook for 200 years more. The company was not made for us, but we for the company, and it is the duty of every member to guard and work for its best interest, and hand it along to the next generation improved and on an even stronger foundation than at present.

"There was a time some years ago when the city might have lost the Old South Church. We have lived enough years since that time to realize what a great loss it would have been. Today no hand can touch its sacred walls with blazing tools. This old hall has been taken care of for all ages. No one would dare suggest the pulling down of the Old State House, or Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Why then should any one desire to hurt the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, older than any of these buildings.

"Citizens of Boston do not expect this company to march equal to soldiers of 60 to 75 years of age, but the Commander-in-Chief and the people of this state do expect you to keep step; to keep your alignments; they do expect you to place in office men capable of commanding; they do expect to see on parade a true and perfect military courtesy and discipline.

"The era of universal peace is coming. America is the main factor in bringing this about. This company's all field day trips are missions of peace, and the sentiment expressed on

OR GERMAN
ance Henry will er's Gift at a ridge This Eve

and band joined in "America." announced the bene-

Continued on the Third Page.

Words of Ad-Company.

a was taken for a dinner was served, after 12 o'clock. The hall was prettily decorated for the occasion.

In welcoming the guests Capt. Hucks, Commander of the Ancients, said: "Any company that has had 264 years of existence is worthy to be continued and have an outlook for 200 years more. The company was not made for us, but we for the company, and it is the duty of every member to guard and work for its best interest, and hand it along to the next generation improved and on an even stronger foundation than at present.

"There was a time some years ago when the city might have lost the Old South Church. We have lived enough years since that time to realize what a great loss it would have been. Today no hand can touch its sacred walls with blazing tools. This old hall has been taken care of for all ages. No one would dare suggest the pulling down of the Old State House, or Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Why then should any one desire to hurt the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, older than any of these buildings.

"Citizens of Boston do not expect this company to march equal to soldiers of 60 to 75 years of age, but the Commander-in-Chief and the people of this state do expect you to keep step; to keep your alignments; they do expect you to place in office men capable of commanding; they do expect to see on parade a true and perfect military courtesy and discipline.

"The era of universal peace is coming. America is the main factor in bringing this about. This company's all field day trips are missions of peace, and the sentiment expressed on

ANS TO MEET THE PRINCE.

Them Will be a Veteran of Three Prussian wars and a Number of German Women.

JOSEPH SPANG.

MRS CLARA STUART.

Who Will Be Among the Germans to Meet Prince Henry.

Joseph Spang, a veteran of three Prussian wars, will be a leading figure in the delegation of 30 veterans who will take part in the city's reception at the public library building this forenoon.

Mrs. Clara Stuart, wife of Dr. F. W. Stuart of South Boston, a leader in the German women's societies of Boston and vicinity, is largely responsible for the reception to 20 German women that has been arranged at 5:30 p. m.

The delegation of veterans at the public library and the special reception to women by the prince are the two occasions when the distinguished guest will greet his countrymen who are residents of Boston.

The 30 veterans will join in the reception to Prince Henry by Mayor Collins at the city government. They will meet at Casino hall and march to the city building. Each man will wear on his breast the bronze medal bearing the likeness of William I.

Joseph Spang has one of the most distinguished records of any German in Boston, having served in the Prussian army in 1864, the Austrian army in 1866 and the Franco-Prussian war in 1870-71.

It was Mr Spang's distinction to be member of the Hohenzollern fusiliers, one of the crack regiments named after Kaiser's family. This regiment was used with positions of extreme danger in the most hazardous times, when the Prussians appeared near defeat.

During the critical hours of the battle of Sadowa, one of the greatest of the Austrian war, Mr Spang observed Kaiser William I, Bismarck and von Moltke under fire.

During the Franco-Prussian war Mr Spang's battalion was commanded by von Holleben, an uncle of the present ambassador to Washington. During one of the battles before Metz Mr Spang was standing near his major when a shell exploded under his horse and killed the officer.

Mr Spang was president of the association of German veterans of Boston and vicinity during the five years the organization was in existence.

Mrs. Clara Stuart, who, with Mrs. Jennie Hoffman, wife of Paul Walter Hoffman of Jamaica Plain, induced Mayor Collins and Consul Reinecke to include a reception for German women in the program for the entertainment of the prince, is the daughter of a soldier.

Her maiden name was Fischer and she was born in Berlin in 1869. Her father served with great honor in the Prussian army for 20 years and went through the arduous campaigns of the Franco-Prussian war. After that he came to America with his family and Mrs. Stuart was brought up in Boston.

Mrs. Stuart is prominent in the organizations of German women, although at the reception the 20 women who are to meet the prince do not attend as representatives of the societies.

Dr. F. W. Stuart is prominent in German societies in Boston also. He received the degrees of AB and MD at Harvard university and is a member of the Germanic museum association of that institution.

The prince will receive the German women at the Somerset in the imperial room at 5:30 p. m. upon his return from Cambridge. Mrs. Stuart will present him with a bouquet of cornflowers, the national flower of Germany, and American beauty roses, the latter being the handsomest American floral growth. The bouquet is to be tied with ribbon of the national colors of Germany and America.

Mrs. Hoffman will pay a graceful tribute to the prince by reading a poem in German, written by her husband, Paul Walter Hoffman.

FOR GERMANIC MUSEUM.

Prince Henry Will Present the Emperor's Gift at a Reception in Cambridge This Evening.

One of the most interesting and perhaps the most important of the incidents connected with Prince Henry's visit to Boston is the reception at the Germanic museum.

SCHURZ, German Association.

German association, Hugo Munstermann. Here the present by Emulation, than a year old, the first meeting to consider the advisability of its formation having been held on May 1, 1901. Its declared object is "to establish and maintain in the United States a museum illustrating, through objects of art and industry, the history of civilization among the Germanic peoples, primarily in Germany, but also in Scandinavia, Denmark, the low countries, German Austria, and the cantons of Switzerland."

The reception is as follows:

President, Carl Schurz, New York. Vice presidents, Gustav V. Bezold, Nuremberg; Wilhelm Bode, Berlin; H. P. Bowditch, Boston; Arthur V. Brieseman, New York; Carl Bunz, New York; Wm. H. Carpenter, New York; Hermann Collitz, Bryn Mawr, Penn.; Heinrich Conried, New York; Charles W. Eliot, Cambridge; Frederick P. Fish, Brookline; A. L. Frothingham Jr., Princeton, N. J.; Miss Ellen Frothingham, Boston; Wendell P. Garrison, New York; Julius Goebel, Palo Alto, Cal.; John Green, St. Louis; Gustav Gruener, New Haven; W. T. Harris, Washington; Jacob H. Hecht, Boston; George Hempl, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Mrs. Henry L. Higginson, Boston; Hermann Hilprecht, Philadelphia; Th. von Holleben, Washington; Henry Holt, New York; Charles L. Hutchinson, Chicago; Gustav E.

ROUTE OF PRINCE HENRY TH

The special train bringing Prince Henry to Boston will arrive at the south station at 9:35. The procession, which includes 12 carriages containing the prince and his suite and an escort of cavalry and mounted police, will pass through Summer, Winter, Tremont, and Commonwealth streets and end at the hotel Somerset.

where Prince Henry will be called upon at 10:15 by Gov. Crane and other dignitaries.

Leaving the hotel Somerset shortly before 11 a. m., the route will be through Commonwealth av., Massachusetts and Beacon st to the state house, where Gov. Crane's address will be made.

A visit made to the legislature.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS.

Great Difference Between Methods in Use There and in the United States, but Rapid Progress Likely.

The newspaper press of Germany is radically different from that of the United States, because it pays less attention to current news than to interesting and valuable information on important topics. This fact is apparent from the very makeup of the German newspaper. The first page contains a long editorial or a correspondence on the political situation from one of the large capitals.

The first page is generally divided into an upper and a lower part—the latter being devoted to reviews of the latest books, plays or operas, and to essays or short stories. News is relegated to the rear, the most important frequently to an out-of-the-way corner, for almost every morning paper closes its editorial work in the evening, leaving perhaps one man in charge, whose duty it is to put the news arriving after that time into the paper, condensing it as much as possible, under the caption "Arrived after the editorial department was closed."

The "working up" of items is practically unknown. Even Berlin papers do not hesitate to print reports of accidents or other important events two or three days after their competitors have published them, without changing a word and giving full credit to the paper which published them first. Privacy is strictly respected, and items are frequently printed without a single name being mentioned, the identity of the persons connected with the event being indicated by the title and the initials of the name.

It has been the custom, and is still to a considerable extent, for several families to subscribe to the same newspaper, the first reading it during the forenoon, the second during the afternoon and the third receiving it in the evening. From this it will be seen that that hunger for news which is so characteristic of the American is not

BRITISH VET

Address Printed on Vel
blems of British-P

To His Royal Highness
Prince Henry of

We, the members of the tary Veterans Association of Mass.
to be allowed to express their gr old Commonwealth a grandson of Majesty, Queen Victoria, and we parts of the world cannot let th knowledging the pursuit of our

Hotel Somerset.

JUDGE BOLSTER

GEN. BANCROFT

J. PARKINSON

COL. GASTON

C. E. STRATTON

PROF. MUNSTERBERG

PROF. M. H. MORGAN

J. D. LONG

ALFRED HEMENWAY

ED. ATKINSON

GEN. BLACKMER

W. T. REINCKE

T. J. COOLIDGE

FREDK. W. SMITH

PROF. SHALER

DR. KELTERBORN

WINSLOW WARREN

DR. FRANZ PFAFF

PROF. JAGEMANN

THOS. A. WHALEN

ALPHEUS SANFORD

HUGH MONTAGUE

SAMUEL HAUSER

THOS. M. BABSON

CURTIS GUILD

WILHELM

WILLIAM DOOGUE

COL. BRADLEY

GEO. G. CROCKER

T. J. GARGAN

C. H. TAYLOR JR.

W. E. BARRETT

JOHN H.

WILLIAM CRAIG

R. F. CLARK

JOHN DROHAN

J. N. KELLER

J. H. FAHEY

STEPHEN O'MEARA

EDWARD RUHL

A. C. WEBSTER

WM. P. FOWLER

LOUIS WEISSBEIM

H. W. PUTNAM

THEIR 264TH

Anniversary Celebration of the Ancients.

C. R. H. & C. O.
BY D. H. B. & C. O.

THEIR 264TH.

Continued from the First Page.

It presented a fine appearance, the staff, which was a very large one, with its variegated uniforms, being extremely picturesque. The uniforms of the old guard of New York were very striking, as were also the uniforms of those members of the company in the continental and those of veteran artillery corps of New York.

From State st to Washington st it was a continual ovation, and as the command passed along Newspaper row it was given an enthusiastic reception. A large crowd was also assembled at city hall, and on the balcony of the Parker house were assembled many members of the Servia club, wives and daughters of those who made the memorable trip to London in 1896, and who waved a cordial welcome with handkerchiefs and flags as the command marched by.

At the state house a halt was made to take under escort Lieut Gov Bates, and as Adj Gen Dalton, Brig Gen Blood, surgeon general; Brig Gen Brigham, in-

Capt J. Henry Taylor, joined May 12, 1879, died March 20, 1902, 23 years.
Henry Nelson, joined Oct 2, 1868, died April 19, 1902, 33 years.
Horace Partridge, joined Sept 24, 1860, died April 26, 1902, 42 years.
William L. Dolbeare, joined Sept 22, 1867, died May 4, 1902, 35 years.
Lieut Edward E. Wells, joined May 12, 1879, died May 8, 1902, 23 years.

Ode Rev Minot J Savage, DD

THY KINGDOM COME.

One dream through all the ages

Has led the world along;

The wise words of the sages,

The poet in his song,

The prophet in his vision—

All these have caught the gleam,

Have seen the light Elysian,

Have told the haunting dream.

This dream is that the story

The ages have unrolled

Shall blossom in the glory

Of one long age of gold;

That every man and woman

Shall find life glad and free,

That in whatever is human

Is hid divinity.

The rod of old oppression

One day shall broken be;

use. On the contrary, they cause us, occasionally, annoyance and often great peril. There are other survivals of remote ages in our nature.

"The conduct of war is constantly undergoing modifications. 'War is hell,' yes, but not so hideous a hell as it was once. Today war is governed by 'rules of war.' I dare not say that the indescribable cruelties of ancient wars are no longer possible, but they are rare and shock the conscience of humanity. Our own army has been accused of cruelty in the Philippines. We may wisely reflect that Mr Roosevelt is in a position to see and understand the situation better than the public at large. We may safely trust him, and the able and honest men who are his advisers to guide the affairs of our land and to preserve our country's fair name from every stain of dishonor.

"The triumph of commerce, the third method of conquering the world, is comparatively modern. It is the appeal to enlightened self-interest, and is known as the commercial conquest of the world. The career of Cecil Rhodes is typical of this spirit. There can be no doubt but that the Anglo-Saxon race is more committed to this method of conquest than any other race on earth. It is probably true that today the commanding interest in America is money-getting. In my judgment, it is better for us to recognize the fact, and make the best of it, than to deceive ourselves.

Merchants' row, to Faneuil hall, where the banquet took place.

Col Charles K. Darling of the 6th infantry was the officer of the day, and Lieut A. A. Gleason of the 1st heavy artillery, MVM, officer of the guard.

Exercises at Armory.

On the return of the command to the armory an hour was spent in social and convivial intercourse and an opportunity given to the members living in the suburbs to become acquainted with the resident members of the organization.

The hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and Capt Huckins, the commander of the company, in opening the post-prandial exercises, said in part as follows:

The 264th anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company! These figures are inspiring. Members of the company, when you stop to think this company has been handed down to you intact, without a break through 264 years, you should take at least as good care of it as you would a valuable article handed down to you by your ancestors through a same period.

Any company that has had 264 years

The best way to keep them there is high spirit, good discipline, and your officers.

The era of universal peace America is the main factor this about.

This company's full field missions of peace, and the expressed on various visits cities results in good, friend one section toward another, is try.

The visit of the company in 1896 was a mission of peace two nations were drawn together.

We are about to receive this Artillery company from this city. It will welcome it, and great it come from such fraternal visit.

No alliances! no entanglements! strengthened friendship! Closely allied as we are with our Artillery company, we feel toward the British in last and all the time.

These thoughts come to me honor of having for one of the 264 years commanded this and I go out of this high office with more respect for this organization than what it stands for a year ago, and I had a spect for it then, or I had a been a member even. I would to hold it in high esteem and its best interests as long as I it will be one of the proudest I can carry in mind through the my days, that I was honored its captain in 1901 and 1902.

THIRD IN A HUNDRED YEARS

Gov Crane Fails to Attend the H. Celebration Today—H. Been in the Best of Health.

But twice in the last 100 years governor or the acting governor commonwealth failed to attend annual June anniversary celebration Ancient and Honorable artillery company. Today Gov Crane, Lieut Gov John L. F.

CAPT GEORGE E. HALL, COMMISSARY.

LIEUT THOMAS J. TUTT, ADJUTANT.

DR HORACE E. MARION, SURGEON.

vided as it has not number of years, no committed other race than any other true that today in money probably interest in America is money. It is better will

LIEUT GOV JOHN L. BATES,

Who Represented the State at the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Anniversary.

Time-Honored Program Carried Out in Royal Style.

Day of Good Cheer and Good Fellowship — Inspiring Scenes All Along Line of March from Faneuil Hall to the Old South — Impressive Services at the Church — Exercises at Armory — Earnest Address of Capt Huckins.

The natal day of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company of Massachusetts is being celebrated today, and before sundown it is safe to say that many of the older members will be somewhat fatigued, judging by the lengthy program mapped out by Capt Frank Huckins and his officers.

For 264 years this ancient and unique organization has gone through this same program, and there were men today in the ranks who have participated in this event for over a half century.

Several attempts have been made to revise the bylaws of the company and modernize the ceremonies of the day, but all have failed, and while the exercises each year are a duplicate of those preceding, there is always something that not only attracts the members, but also the citizens, and tickets for the church service and also for those on the Common are always in great demand.

In its ranks today were men in all walks of life, including manufacturers, bankers, merchants, judges, lawyers and statesmen, many of whom got their early military training in the MVM and their baptism of fire in the civil and Spanish-American war.

They came from many states, Massachusetts, of course, claiming the great majority. New Bedford and Gloucester sent up nearly full companies, the former being headed by Sergt Charles S. Ashley, mayor of the city, and the latter by Mr Frank Homans, the chorister of the company. Attleboro, Lowell, Lawrence and the historic town of Marblehead also sent large delegations.

Although the company did not leave Faneuil hall until 9 o'clock for the church, the various details were on hand to receive orders at 7:30, and at that hour many of the out-of-town members put in an appearance, and for all these "early birds" Capt George Hall had a substantial breakfast with the usual fixings prepared.

Those living in Boston and suburbs had been aroused from their peaceful slumbers by Drum Major "Jimmie" Clark and the field music of the 1st heavy artillery, MVM, who also, according to ancient custom, had left the hall at daybreak and started to rout out the members, and it is safe to say that those who failed to put in an appearance and answer to roll call on time could not make the excuse, "I failed to hear reveille."

Drum Major Clark and his band of disturbers not only broke in on the slumbers of the members of the corps, but of thousands of citizens, judging by the large gathering assembled in the vicinity of Faneuil hall when the company marched away to church.

It was true, as usual at all these parades, that those living at the greatest distance were the first on hand, and, after a thorough inspection by the commander, the companies filed out of the hall on to South Market st. Adjt Thos. Trite made the formation, and as the colors came down the line they were saluted by the command.

Order of March.

At 9 o'clock the company marched off in the following order:

Detail of mounted police.

Platoon of the guard under command of Lieut A. A. Gleason.

Salem Cadet band, 40 pieces, Jean Missud leader.

Capt Frank Huckins, commanding, Lieut Thomas Trite adjt.

Staff—H. E. Marlon surgeon, E. Dwight Hill, J. G. Walker, Lewis E. Morgan, Fred L. Abbott assistant surgeons, Lieut Emory Grover paymaster, Lieut William L. Willey quartermaster, Edward Sullivan quartermaster sergeant, Fred E. Putnam hospital steward, Lieut George H. Allen assistant paymaster, Sergt Gus Andrews sergeant major.

An honorary staff paraded several past commanders, also the civil officers of the company and invited guests, under command of Capt Jacob Fottler, Maj S. Ellis Briggs, Capt R. P. Lyon, Capt John T. Cutting, Capt H. H. Brockaway, Lieut W. L. Jaques, Lieut Robert Taylor, Lieut C. H. Chumar, Lieut L. S. Ward, Lieut J. J. Higgins, Lieut A. M. Hearn, Col T. C. Marceau, Col F. T. Huntoon, Maj C. T. Cutter, Lieut Edward Blohm, Gen J. T. Cutting, all of the old guard of New York; also Alden Freeman and Albert Ross Parsons of the Veteran corps of New York. Maj L. R. Cheney, Capt F. R. Coolery, Lieut E. R. Hubbard Jr, Lieut C. S. Wadsworth, Lieut T. H. Goodrich of the governor's foot guards of Hartford.

INFANTRY WING.

Capt John C. Potter commanding.

First company, Sergt John D. Nichols.

Second company, Capt Arthur N. Webb.

Third company, Sergt Fred D. Hicks.

Fourth company, Sergt Henry P. Wilmarth.

Fifth company, Maj George F. Quimby.

Sixth company, Sergt Frank C. Hyde.

Veteran company, Capt Edwin R. Frost.

1st heavy artillery field music, 24 pieces,

Drum Major James Clark.

ARTILLERY WING.

First company, Sergt Charles S. Ashley.

Second company, Sergt Ernest O. Bartels.

Third company, Sergt William H. Thomas.

Fourth company, Sergt Elmer G. Foster.

Fifth company, Sergt Geo. A. Shackford.

Sixth company, Sergt James Edgar.

As the command marched up State st

Continued on the Fourth Page.

FUN FOR THE ANCIENTS.

Dutch Supper, Followed by Rollicking Sketches by Professional Artists.

There was plenty of fun on tap in the armory of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company last evening. From 7 o'clock until nearly midnight, 200 members and many invited guests had "the time of their lives." From 7 to 8 o'clock Capt. Huckins and his officers held an informal reception, and a "Dutch" supper was served. At 9 o'clock the curtain of the little theatre went up and then followed a rollicking lot of sketches of various kinds by professional artists—male and female—among whom were: The Houston sisters in songs and dances, Miss Annie Southard, songs; Bernard Williams, Mr. Lew Well, the Swiss singers, Lyons and Cronley, Miss Lulu Keegan and the Wilson colored company.

The stage management was in charge of Capt. John C. Potter. Among the special guests were Lieut.-Col. Butler, U. S. A., and Lieut. Riordon, U. S. A., from the Watertown arsenal; Maj. R. W. Patterson, U. S. A., and Lieut. Edward Hill, U. S. A., Lieut. R. H. Williams, U. S. A., and Lieut. W. R. Vance, U. S. A., from Fort Warren.

NOT UNTIL SEPTEMBER, 1903.

Honourable Artillery Company Will Defer Its Visit to the Ancients Until That Time.

The Honourable Artillery company of London will not visit Boston until September of next year. A letter to that effect was read at the meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company last night, at which Capt Frank Huckins presided.

It had been hoped the parent company members would be present at the June anniversary, but the Londoners find that to visit Boston at that time of the year would interfere with their military duty, consequently September had been chosen.

At the meeting a committee was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of Lieut Edward E. Wells, commissary of the company, and for his unexpired term of office Capt Huckins appointed Sergt Wade.

Lieut Parker Jones, in behalf of the museum and library committee, read the annual report.

Quartermaster W. L. Willey was elected a member of the military museum and library committee, Maj Chas. W. Stevens a trustee of the permanent fund and Sergt Arthur Fuller committee on finance.

The following were admitted to membership: William J. Bachelder, Edward C. Beck, Arthur Bliss, Arthur C. Burnett, Boston; Fred Edward Gleason, Charles W. Luce and William A. Homans, Gloucester; Joseph S. Osborn, Peabody, and Lieut Alfred Mudge, Boston.

ANCIENTS' "SMOKER."

About 200 Members and Guests Had a Pleasant Evening.

About 200 members of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company were entertained at the armory in Faneuil hall last night, the occasion being the last smoker of the season at the historic hall.

The program was an excellent one. A score of guests, including Lieut Col Butler and Lieut Reiridon of the Watertown arsenal, and Maj Robert W. Patterson, Lieut Edward Hill, Lieut Willis R. Vance and Lieut R. H. Williams from fort Warren enjoyed the festivities.

At the west end of the hall a stage was erected for the occasion, and the members were seated at tables. Previous to the opening of the show light refreshments were served and a pleasant hour was spent. As usual, the out-of-town members showed up in force and participated most heartily in the festivities.

Capt Huckins and his officers were on hand to welcome their guests and did all in their power to make the occasion a success. The commander had a few words of greeting before the curtain was rung up, and at the conclusion of his remarks turned affairs over to Capt John Potter and his troubadours.

The Houston sisters, the Swiss singers, Prof Williams, Miss May Armstrong, Lyons and Crowley and Ed Wells gave a very enjoyable entertainment.

At the conclusion of the entertainment all the members were the guests of the officers of the company.

Capt. Frank Huckins, commanding the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, has appointed George A. Perkins judge advocate on his staff.

IN EXTENDED ORDER.

Capt. Huckins announces that there will be no dinner or "smoker" of the Ancients this year on the 19th of April.

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company held a business meeting, last Monday evening, at its headquarters, Captain Frank Huckins presiding. It was voted to send a congratulatory message to King Edward on the occasion of his coronation. Comrade W. H. Ellis was appointed State color bearer for the company, as disability prevents Captain W. S. Sampson from performing that duty. Brigadier General Isaac S. Bangs, of Waterville, Me.; Edwin G. Brown, of Winthrop, John Landon Fiske, of Cambridge, and William Sumner Briggs, of Lincoln, Mass.

NOT COMING TILL 1903.

Honourable Artillery Company of London to Visit Boston a Year from Next September.

At a meeting of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, held at Faneuil Hall last night, the time of the visit of the parent organization, the Honourable Artillery Company of London, was definitely given. In a communication to Capt. Huckins, the committee states that it will be impossible for the company to visit Boston until September, 1903.

*Headquarters
Ancient & Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts,
Faneuil Hall,
Boston.*

Sir:

The Ancient & Honorable Artillery Company desires the honor of your presence at the celebration of its 264th Anniversary on Monday, June 2nd 1902.

At 9 o'clock the Company will escort His Excellency the Governor and Commander in Chief to the Church where the Annual Sermon will be delivered.

Following the Dinner, which will be held in Faneuil Hall, the Company will march to the Common, where the ceremony of commissioning the newly elected officers will be performed by His Excellency the Governor and Commander in Chief.

Guests will report to the Chief of Staff at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, at 8.30 o'clock.

Military and Naval Guests are requested to appear in uniform.

Respectfully,

*Frank H. Hucksins,
Captain.*

*Thomas J. Tute,
Adjutant.*

Reply is requested.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

SMOKE TALKS.

Members of the Company are notified that the next "Smoker" will be held at the Armory, on Thursday evening, March 20.

This will be the last but one of the season.

The Armory will be open at seven o'clock.

It will be conducted in the same manner as the other three successful affairs.

Professional artists will give an hour or two entertainment at the Company "Theatre."

A light lunch will be provided during the evening.

Assessment, $1.00 each.

Let those who intend to come send in their cards promptly, and let those who respond make sure to come, in order that the Committee may make proper arrangements.

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,
LIEUT. JOHN C. POTTER,
LIEUT. FRANK P. STONE,
LIEUT. THOMAS J. TUTE, } Committee.

LOST COMPANY BADGE.

Sergt. Wm. L. Miller lost his Company badge at the dinner of the Company on Feb. 22.

Sergt. Miller's name is engraved on the back, and any one finding it will please notify him at 17 Milk St., Boston.

HEADQUARTERS

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company

OF MASSACHUSETTS.

FANEUIL HALL, BOSTON, Feb. 12, 1902.

Washington's Birthday will be celebrated by the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company. Members will report at the Quincy House, Saturday, Feb. 22, at 1.30 o'clock.

Dinner will be served at 2 o'clock. Tickets will be purchased of the Quartermaster at $2.00 each before entering the dining hall. Members who intend to be present must mail their cards before February 20.

On this occasion the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company will do honor to the name of Washington, do honor to the soldiers of the Revolution who fought with Washington, do honor to the soldiers of the Colonies, and to the soldiers of the Rebellion, many of whom during the life of this Company were in its membership.

To speak to these sentiments the Company will have, as its guests, Hon. Danforth S. Ainsworth of Albany, N. Y., Hon. Charles S. Hamlin, Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar, and several other distinguished gentlemen.

FRANK HUCKINS, Captain.
JOHN C. POTTER, 1st Lieutenant.
FRANK P. STONE, 2d Lieutenant.
THOMAS J. TUTE, Adjutant.

Smoke Talks.

The third regular "SMOKER" of the Company will be held at the Armory, THURSDAY EVENING, JANUARY 16.

Armory will be open at 7 o'clock.

From 7 to 7.45 o'clock, New Year greetings.

From 7.45 to 8.15 o'clock, light lunch.

At 8.15 smoke commences.

At 8.30 o'clock there will be given at the "new theatre" of the Company a MOST EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE ENTERTAINMENT by several PROFESSIONAL ARTISTS engaged especially for the occasion.

It is expected that this entertainment will exceed the enjoyment of the one in December.

Assessment for the costs, $1.00 each, payable by all who attend. At the December "smoker" 267 members sent in their cards. 320 were present. The Committee arrange to take good care of all who respond, and members will note the importance of sending in their cards promptly.

Fatigue uniforms may be worn.

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,
LIEUT. JOHN C. POTTER,
LIEUT. FRANK P. STONE,
LIEUT. THOMAS J. TUTE,

Committee.

SMOKE TALKS.

The second "Smoker" of the season will take place at the Armory on Thursday, December 19, at 7.30.

The success of the first one gives the Committee confidence in arranging for this one of a similar character.

From 7.30 to 8 o'clock fraternal greetings.

From 8.00 to 9.30 o'clock there will be an EXCELLENT VAUDEVILLE ENTERTAINMENT by THIRTY PROFESSIONAL ARTISTS, who will drive away care for an hour and a half. New Stage for the occasion.

Members will be seated at small tables as before and pipes, tobacco, and lunch served, but it must be remembered that the lunch will not take the place of a 6 o'clock dinner.

The assessment will be $1.00 each, which just about covers all the costs.

Be sure to send in your reply card promptly, for it is necessary to know just how many will be present.

If any member has suggestions regarding these "Smokers," make them to the Committee.

Members may wear fatigue uniforms.

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,	} Committee.
LIEUT. JOHN C. POTTER,
LIEUT. FRANK P. STONE,
LIEUT. THOMAS J. TUTE,

SMOKE TALKS.

The first of the series of meetings this season will be held at the Armory, Faneuil Hall, Thursday, Nov. 21, at 7.30 o'clock.

On this occasion it is proposed to have, in place of a dinner, what is, more strictly speaking, a "Smoke Talk," where members of the Company may meet one another in a close and fraternal manner.

Refreshments will be served as members sit at the small tables about the hall.

From 8 to 9.30 an entertainment will be given by Mr. Walter B. C. Fox and his Company, or in other words "Chic" Fox and Troupers, one and one half hours of fun.

It is the desire of the Committee to arrange entertainments that will meet the wishes of the members interested in these gatherings, and with an exception or two all these meetings will be held this season in the Armory. It is thought that these "Smokers" will be much more enjoyable than the ordinary dinner.

Assessments will be made to just cover the costs, and on this occasion it will be $1.00.

Kindly reply at once on the enclosed card in order that proper care may be taken of each member. A failure to reply one way or the other will not enable the Committee to make the right arrangements.

CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,	} Committee.
LIEUT. JOHN C. POTTER,
LIEUT. FRANK C. STONE,
LIEUT. THOS. J. TUTE,

EXCHANGE CLUB,

May 10, 1902

264TH ANNIVERSARY.

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company to Celebrate.

The Ancient and Honorable artillery company will meet at Faneuil hall on Monday, June 2, at 7:45 a. m. to celebrate its 264th anniversary. At 8:50 o'clock the battalion will form on South Market st. and at 9 o'clock will march to the Old South church, headed by the Salem cadet band.

At the church the usual exercises will take place and the anniversary sermon will be preached by Rev Walter E. Clifton Smith of New York.

At the conclusion of the services the company will reform and march back to Faneuil hall, where the annual banquet will be served at 1 o'clock.

CAPT FRANK HUCKINS.

The company will again reform and march to the common, where the drum-head election will take place and review by the governor.

The following details have been made by Capt Huckins: Col Charles K. Darling officer of the day, Gen Samuel C. Lawrence, personal escort to the governor; Capt Albert A. Folsom, personal escort to invited guests; Lieut Col E. W. M. Bailey and Capt Wm. Hatch Jones, flankers to the commander-in-chief.

The honorary staff will report to Col J. Payson Bradley, chief of staff, at 8 o'clock. Past commanders are invited to parade on the honorary staff of the captain. Lieut A. A. Gleason is detailed as officer of the guard.

Maj Charles G. Davis will have charge of the detail at the church and on the common, assisted by Col Joseph B. Parsons, Lieut Col A. M. Ferris, Capt Thos. F. Temple, Capt George O. Noyes, Lieut Wm. Parker Jones, Lieut Fred I. Clayton, Lieut George Going, Sergt Wm. H. Robertson, Sergt Joseph W. Adams, private Charles D. B. Fisk, Sergt Benj. A. Stiles.

GUESTS

Hon. CHARLES S. HAMLIN,

JOSIAH H. BENTON, Jr.,

Capt. FRANK HUCKINS,
Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co.

MENU.

Little Neck Clams

HORS D'OEUVRES

Radishes

Olives

Salted Peanuts

SOUPS

Green Turtle, aux quenelles

Consomme, a la Reine

FISH

Boiled Salmon, Sauce Musseline

Cucumbers

Potatoes

RELEVÉ

Philadelphia Capon, Baltimore

Potatoes, Dauphine

Asparagus, Hollandaise Sauce

PUNCH—Helvetienne

GAME

Broiled Squabs, on Toast

Salad

Potato Chips

DESSERT

Strawberry Frozen Pudding

Cakes

Cheese

Coffee

ANCIENTS OBSERVE THEIR 264th ANNIVERSARY.

Time-Honored Program of Sermon, Banquet and Drum-Head Election
On the Common Participated in by Many Members.

AWARDING THE COMMISSIONS ON THE COMMON.

OFFICERS OF THE ANCIENTS.

- Commander.....Lieut J. Stearns Cushing
- First Lieutenant....Lieut James M. Usher
- Second Lieutenant....Sergt William Best
- Adjutant.....Capt Edward W. Abbott
- Paymaster.....Lieut Emory Grover
- Assistant Paymaster.....
- Lieut George H. Allen
- Quartermaster...Sergt William L. Willey
- Commissary.....Capt George E. Hall
- First Sergeant of Infantry.....
- Frederic W. Tirrell
- Second Sergeant of Infantry.....
- Milton C. Paige
- Third Sergeant of Infantry John P. Hazlett
- Fourth Sergeant of Infantry.....
- George B. Ketchum
- Fifth Sergeant of Infantry.....
- Lieut Everett B. Hodges
- Sixth Sergeant of Infantry.....
- William B. Wood
- First Sergeant of Artillery.....
- John Mitchell Galvin
- Second Sergeant of Artillery.....
- George H. Wilson
- Third Sergeant of Artillery.....
- Harry Hamilton
- Fourth Sergeant of Artillery.....
- Samuel A. Neill
- Fifth Sergeant of Artillery George Francis
- Sixth Sergeant of Artillery.....
- George A. Wyman

The anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company was observed yesterday with the same ceremonies that have been followed for 264 years.

Among those who participated were men in all walks of life, including manufacturers, bankers, merchants, judges, lawyers and statesmen, many of whom gained their early military training in the 17th and 18th centuries of the civil and Spanish-American wars.

They came from many states, Massachusetts, of course, claiming the great majority. New Bedford and Gloucester sent up nearly full companies, the former being headed by Sergt Charles S. Ashley, mayor of the city, and the latter by Frank Homans, the chorister of the company. Attleboro, Lowell, Lawrence and the historic town of Marblehead also sent large delegations.

The members of the company first gathered at Faneuil hall where, after inspection, the line was formed in South Market st. At 9 o'clock the column started, under command of Capt Frank Huckins, for the Old South church.

The line presented a fine appearance and the command was warmly applauded on its way through State, Washington, School and Beacon sts to the state house.

Here a halt was made to take under escort Lieut Gov Bates, Adjt Gen Dalton, Brig Gen Blood, Brig Gen Brigham, and Brig Gen Dewey. The column then marched through Beacon, Charles and Boylston sts to the church.

Previous to the arrival of the command every seat in the church was filled with the exception of those reserved for the company in the body of the edifice. As the command filed into the church the whole congregation rose and saluted the colors.

The services were of impressive character, and were as follows:

Salutation to the colors, Salem cadet band.

Antiphon, O Sing Unto the Lord.....Buck Ruggles Street quartet.

Doxology, sung by the company, chorus and congregation.

Invocation.

From the Depths.....Campana

Dr Clark.

Reading of the Scripture.

Repentance.....Gounod

Miss May.

Prayer.

Come Unto Me.....Coeden

Miss Mason.

Sermon, Rev Walter E. C. Smith.

Book of Ages.....Johnson

Mr Johnson.

Reading of the death roll for the year by Adjt Thomas Lute.

Memory's roll, arranged, words written for the company by Henry O'Meara, adapted to the music of the "Vacant Chair," and sung by Messrs Johnson, Meek, White and Clark.

Taps.

Ode.....Rev Dr Minot J. Savage

Break, Break, Break.....Anderton

Miss Mason, Miss May and Mr Johnson.

America (the old melody).....Smith

Benediction.

Grand march, Salem Cadet band.

Taking for his text the following: "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."—(1 John v, 4), Rev Walter E. Smith said in part: "The conduct of war is constantly undergoing modifications. 'War is hell,' yes, but not so hideous a hell as it was once. Today war is governed by 'rules of war.' I dare not say that the indescribable cruelties of ancient wars are no longer possible, but they are rare and shock the conscience of humanity. Our own army has been accused of cruelty in the Philippines. We may wisely reflect that Mr Roosevelt is in a position to see and understand the situation better than the public at large. We may safely trust him, and the able and honest men who are his advisers, to guide the affairs of our land and to preserve our country's fair name from every stain of dishonor.

"The triumph of commerce as a method of conquering the world is comparatively modern. It is the appeal to enlightened self-interest, and is known as the commercial conquest of the world.

"There can be no doubt that the Anglo-Saxon race is more committed to this method of conquest than any other race on earth. It is probably true that today the commanding interest in America is money-getting. In my judgment it is better for us to recognize the fact, and make the best of it, than to deceive ourselves.

"After all has been said of the peril of a commercial spirit, it is a fair contention that this commercial spirit and accomplishment of modern life in America may be precisely the contribution which, under God, it is designed that this nation, or the Anglo-Saxon people, shall make to civilization."

The ode by Rev Dr Savage was as follows:

THY KINGDOM COME.

One dream through all the ages
Has led the world along;
The wise words of the sages,
The poet in his song,
The prophet in his vision—
All these have caught the gleam,
Have shown the light of glory,
Have told the haunting dream.

This dream is that the story
The ages have unrolled
Shall blossom in the glory
Of one long age of gold;
That every man and woman
Shall find life glad and free,
That in what'er is human
Is hid divinity.

The rod of old oppression
One day shall broken be;
Those held in night's possession
The light of hope shall see;
For tears there shall be laughing,
And peace shall be for strife,
And thirsty lips be quaffing
The wine of glorious life.

The rage and noise of battle
Shall sink and fall to peace;
The lowing of the cattle,
The fruit and corn increase;
No more the wide sky under
The rattle of the drum,
No more the cannon's thunder—
God's kingdom shall have come.

At the conclusion of the services the battalion line was formed and the command, with its invited guests, marched back to the armory in Faneuil hall, where the banquet was served, after an hour spent in convivial intercourse. The hall was beautifully decorated.

Capt Huckins, after the feast, opened the speechmaking. He said: "The 264th anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company! Those figures are inspiring. Members of the company, when you stop to think this company has been handed down to you intact, without a break, through 264 years, you should take at least as good care of it as you would a valuable article handed down to you by your ancestors through a same period.

"Any company that has had 264 years of existence is worthy to be continued and have an outlook for 264 years more.

"The company was not made for us, but we for the company, and it is the duty of every member to guard and work for its best interest, and hand it along to the next generation improved and on an even stronger foundation than at present.

"Many things of a derogatory nature are said of the organization by persons who are not thinking what it stands for, persons who do not for the moment realize its life binding the people here and there. These things are valuable as time flies on in these busy days.

"Let the people of this city be not blinded with old sayings and jokes of the past few years. Have their jokes if they will, but do not in the telling of 'chestnuts' get to look upon them as facts.

"This company has in its ranks many members who have served a long number of years, giving much of their time, and whose best thoughts are given to the company's interest. Members of the company should look up to these men and respect them.

"Look at it, members of the company, that you come up to the requirements of this city, and you will have the respect of the people.

"By giving the right thought to this, you will invite into your ranks the very men you want. In old days the company was a school for officers. Now it should be a haven for officers who have retired after a long period of active service.

"These men would like to wear their uniforms and parade at times on just such days as these. Here in this state is the old guard of Massachusetts, 300 strong, of present and retired commissioned officers. At present they are without a home. Some are already members of this company.

"Why not all of them? Why is this company not their home? Invite them in. Urge them in."

When Commander Huckins closed he was loudly applauded.

Adjt Tute called on all to rise and drink to the health of the President of the United States. He then, in flattering terms, introduced Lieut Gov Bates to respond for the commonwealth.

The "City of Boston" was responded to by Pres Dolan of the common council, Maj Robert H. Patterson, in command at Fort Warren, made a forcible address in defence of the army, which elicited loud applause, as did also the remarks of Rear Admiral Belknap, who spoke for the navy.

One of the features of the afternoon exercises was the facetious speech made by Ex-Gov Boutwell in response to the toast, "The Invited Guests." It was more than 50 years ago that the governor appeared as commander-in-chief among the ancients, and his speech was most interesting.

Maj Briggs responded for the old guards of New York, and Mr Flaherty responded for the corps.

Other speeches were scheduled but the time having arrived for the banquet, the line to the common, Capt Huckins ordered the line to be formed, and in the same order as that of the morning. The command marched by way of Merchants row, State, Washington, School and Beacon sts to the reviewing point.

Here the lieutenant governor and staff and invited guests were escorted to the marquee which had been erected, and the novel ceremony of a drum-head election took place, Lieut Cushing being the unanimous choice of his comrades for commander. Lieut Usher was also unanimously chosen first lieutenant and Sergt William Best second lieutenant. The full list of new officers is given above.

Then followed the ceremonies of commissioning the new officers, and as each was presented to the lieutenant governor the latter made some flattering and encouraging remarks. Each officer as he returned to take his position in line was greeted with a salute from the light battery on the right of the line.

This interesting ceremony over the whole command passed in review and the day's work was over, with the exception of escorting the guests back to the state house.

On the return of the company to Faneuil hall, a lunch was served and the balance of the evening spent in a social manner.

mol, Mrs T. B. Vose, Mrs R. W. Bates, Mrs J. A. Emery, Mrs R. H. Upham, Mrs A. L. Ireland, Mrs William Hichborn, Mrs J. J. Feely, Miss Ella Ridlon, Mrs S. E. Gilbert, Mrs Sarah W. Gay, Mrs Charles W. Howard, Mrs H. S. Hayford, Mrs H. L. Kincaide, Mrs A. Graham.

SOLDIER SINCE 1872.

New Commander of the Ancients Has Had a Long Career in Military and Other Organizations.

Capt Josiah Stearns Cushing, the new commander of the Ancients, was born in Bedford, May 3, 1854. At the age of 18 he joined the militia, enlisting in Co K, 5th infantry, Cambridge, afterward serving as private in the Roxbury city guards. He joined the Ancients in 1889, and has served as private, sergeant, second lieutenant and first lieutenant.

In July, 1901, he was commissioned regimental commissary on Col Frye's staff, being assigned to the 1st regiment, heavy artillery, which position he now occupies. The new commander is a devoted yachtsman, having been commodore of the Winthrop yacht club in 1891-93. He is a member of the Hull-Massachusetts and Winthrop yacht clubs. He is also a prominent member of the Boston athletic association and the Aldine association of New York.

He is the sole member of the firm of J. S. Cushing & Co of Norwood, a nephew of the late Luther Stearns Cushing, author of "Cushing's Manual"; a 32d degree Mason, a member of Boston commandery and Aleppo temple, and of several other secret orders. He is at the present time president of the Boston master printers' club, first vice president of the Typothete of America and the Ten of Us club. He is also a member of the Norwood board of trade.

THIRD IN A HUNDRED YEARS

Gov Crane Failed to Attend the A and H Celebration—Has Not Been in the Best of Health.

Only twice before in the last 100 years has the commonwealth failed to attend the annual June anniversary celebration of the Ancient and Honorable artillery company. Yesterday Gov Crane delegated Lieut Gov John L. Bates to represent the commonwealth at the sermon, banquet and the drumhead election on Boston common.

What happened before 1800 can be ascertained, and some one may be sufficiently interested to look the matter up, but from 1800 to the present date only two governors of Massachusetts have refrained from participating in the ceremonies on Ancients' day—Gov Crane makes the third.

In 1847 Gov Briggs was, according to the historical data, "indisposed," and did not attend; the lieutenant governor of the commonwealth was out west. On this memorable occasion the officers of the Ancients decided that the proper course to pursue was to have the newly elected officers commissioned by the president of the executive council, in the presence of a majority of the council. This plan was followed out, a majority of the council attending the ceremonies. At the banquet the following toast was offered: "The executive council—the substitute shines as brightly as a king," and was responded to by the president of the council.

In 1865 Gov Andrew did not attend the ceremonies on Ancients' day. He was in Washington, and his absence was accounted for by the preacher in the election sermon, and by Adjt Gen Schouler, because official business, on account of work to be done at the close of the war, necessitated his absence. The adjutant general commissioned the officers on this occasion. In 1864 Gov Andrew did not attend the banquet on account of the death of a relative, but he heard the sermon and attended the election on the Common.

In 1834 Gov John Davis wrote a lengthy letter of regret begging to be excused because it would be "entirely inconvenient" for him to attend. The Ancients immediately appointed a committee, headed by the commander, Edward G. Prescott, to wait on Gov Davis. It is sufficient to know that the governor changed his mind and according to the historical chronicle all "unpleasant dissatisfaction" was removed.

Gov Crane has not been in the best of health for some time, and the understanding is that he did not feel, when he left the state house on Saturday last, after a busy and tiring day, that he could stand the strain of the march, and decided to call in Lieut Gov Bates to act in his stead.

SERBIA CLUB MEETING.

Sixth Annual Gathering Attended by About 70 Women, Including a Number of Guests.

One of the most pleasant gatherings in the history of the Serbia club was held yesterday by that organization at the Parker house. The occasion was the sixth annual meeting of the club.

Mrs James H. Ellis, the president, was presented with a beautiful bouquet of flowers by some of her admiring friends. There were about 70 women present, including the following guests: Mrs H. Upham, Mrs Fayson Bradley, Miss Florencia Vintura, Mrs W. A. Niles and Mrs E. H. Crosby.

Others present were Mrs Benj. A. Siles, Mrs H. W. Patterson, Mrs H. A. Hamilton, Mrs F. B. Reidell, Mrs W. A. Hamilton, Mrs George H. Wilson, Harriet Gibson, Mrs W. P. Stone, Mrs J. Stearns Deane, Mrs W. S. Cushing, Mrs W. B. Cushing, William S. Cushing, Mrs J. W. Payne, Miss A. E. Teel, Mrs E. J. Foxworth, Mrs A. L. Walker, Mrs J. Ensh-

Dinner
by
The City of Boston
given in honor of
The Mission delegated by the President and Government of the French Republic
to attend the dedication of the statue of Maréchal de Rochambeau.
Saturday evening, May the thirty first, 1902.
Hôtel Somerset.

Ancients Superb on Annual Parade.

With the coming up of the sun this morning members of the Ancient and Honorable Society Company were assembled at Adm. Tate, with the members of the first artillery dragoon corps, had started out for the purpose of sounding the reveille according to ye ancient cus-

Having reached the church the corps commander was given another presentation and then escorted to seats in the church, the company, after donning their arms, following to seats reserved for them. The company was not reserved but accompanied with a most fashionable and quite a number of ladies consisting of many shorter time than has been required in the past, and the balance of the day be given to other and lovelier engagements. If, indeed, America shall make such a contribution to civilization that the substantial and common needs of daily life can be secured by the labor of a few hours, and the inducements of leisure and opportunity put at every man's disposal for art, music, literature, conversation, then surely our race shall have made an offering worthy to be placed by the side of the magnificent contributions of other and earlier nations.

We ought not to forget that this great absorbing interest and endeavor of the commercial spirit is itself becoming illumined and empowered with an unmistakably religious quality. Ex-cept here and there, where wealth may be turned to vulgar uses, it may be affirmed that on the whole business men today, and great leaders in industrial enterprise, appreciate their responsibility to God and man as faithfully, and more effectively, than did the business man of a hundred years ago. "Our fathers," says President Eliot, "acted as if they had received and accomplished in the doctrine of the survival of the fittest a century in advance of its discovery; the sickly among them died, the insane languished or ragged in hopeless confinement; and the poor and shiftless went hungry and cold. No philanthropic notions confused their clear views about the judgments of God and His afflictive providences." The type of religious service has changed, and for the better. The religious spirit and for the better. The religious spirit and for the better. The religious spirit and for the better.

But having said all this, are we not haunted by a sense of disappointment if it be not a factor triumphs of life are before us than these conquests of war, and of trade and commerce? The greatest champion of large armies and navies understands that the victories of war are not the highest, or noblest, and that at best, they are fearfully costly, and involve an enormous waste of human lives and property. The appeal to force is illegitimate when all other honorable means fail, and when it calls to the violence of that society and government which alone make a man's life here on earth valuable and useful; or it may be, in defence of weaker peoples; or when the ideas of government in which we live flourish and loyally believe, are threatened with overthrow.

Not does the triumph of the commercial spirit and of trade throughout the world seem really to reach the summit of life. When we at last shall sell our goods in every town, village and city on the globe, and by greater concentration and skill, shall possess commodities supremely occupying as a nation in the world some such a position as industrial sovereigns and financial magnates are now and more securely here in America, the question will certainly arise. And is this all? Is this the end of the progress of the mind upon the planet? Or is this the final victory and the presence of such a new

E
H
A f d i d
S

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and a dark stain near the top left corner. A vertical crease or fold line runs down the center of the page. The binding edge on the left is visible, showing stitching or thread.

of the Kingdom of Israel has given to the world a magnificent Greece, art and literature, Rome, government and law, and have enabled people bring their unique gifts to the world. The Anglo-Saxon people to make such a beneficial contribution to life that in areas of commercial efficiency to life that in work become the absolutely necessary to work keeping the body clothed, fed and longest List for Name Follow

the Mu
Then followed death roll of the company showed its patriotism in our army have

may corru
life; men cheer since who the tribe can face men dow
quest

[illegible][illegible]

conduct of war is constantly changing modifications. War is no longer, as it was a few years ago, but not so hideous a hell as it once was. The merciful agreements between combatants seem like threads of light in the black path of war. I dare say that the indescribable cruelty of ancient wars are no longer possible, but they are rare and shock the sense of humanity. As to the Philistines, there is no need, nor have I the time, nor do I feel that this is the occasion to discuss such an important question as the American soldier faces on the tide of public opinion, the shocking statements of what the daily and violent attack from

[illegible]

of every "Grand Wasteful" for his best coming to the next can ever see at present. Such as is spent on a double cause, and time if you do not goth for an extraordinary
You are not a business port it and carry it forward any things of a deceptive as the sneaking what is are not thinking of the man persons who do not for the man like this thing, not for the man like those like are best with as time flies on in these days

[illegible][illegible]

Verne thinks but little of Herring River.

Appropriation of $33,000 is also made down by him.

more.
company.

Good things can be no doubt about "deep victory." Victory of some sort
 "the all chain." But in what field does our victory lie?
 Conquests of nature—We hear much about the conquests of nature, and man's triumph over the brute forces of the world. It is a most interesting and wonderful story of combat which comes down to us from the dawn of human life, when the first Great Victory

(Photo by Chelenther)

CAPT. FRANK H. LINS,
Commander of the Ardents.

The Rev. Simon J. Savage, D. D.
 "Brook. Frank. March. May and M. J. Anderson
 "America" (the old melody).....Smith
 Reproduction.
 Grand march.....Salon Cadet band
 The musical programme was under the

The Rev. Walter E. O. Smith,
 'Book of Ages' Mr. Johnson
 Reading of the death roll for the year.
 Miss Thomas White.
 'Mourners' Psalm. 'Yield' White and Child.
 Arranged
 by Dr.

the residences of the officers of the company. The first of these was at the residence of Capt. Frank Huckins, at his home in Dorchester. At this the stirring notes of the drum were heard about the city. The house, where were quarters from the Old Guard of the city, the drummers and fifers in the office, and soon had not visitors, but every one else in the house awake.

(Photo by Chickering.)
CAPT. FRANK HUCKINS,
Commander of the Ancients.

recommended to report at the armory in Faneuil Hall, and at 9 o'clock line was formed on South Market street. For the first time in the history of the company the Adjutant was formally received to the line by two companies of infantry, the balance of the battalion presenting arms while the Cadet band played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The company turned out very strong, presenting the infantry in the right wing, the artillery in the left wing. The staff of Capt. Huckins was a thing of beauty; possibly never before in the history of the command had such an array of brilliant and peculiar uniforms been represented. There was the handsome red of the Governor's Foot Guard, Connecticut and a strong detachment of the Old Guard of New York in the blue and gold and bearskin hats of this famous organization. There were two uniforms in line that attracted great attention, for they were newly new to the present generation. They were worn by the command officer and a fellow-officer belonging to the Veteran Corps Artillery of New York, and were exact facsimiles of the uniforms used by their ancestors in the war of 1812. Then there was a sprinkling of continental uniforms, and a few severe but soldierly blue of the regular army of the United States. It was a striking aggregation.

During the formation the column was in this order:
Salem Cadet band.
Capt. Frank Huckins, commanding.
Capt. Jacob Fortier, chief of staff; Lieut. Tute, adjutant; Col. Alden Freeman, Col. Albert Rose Parsons, Veteran Corps Artillery, New York; Maj. Briggs and officers of Old Guard, New York; Lieut. Col. R. B. Edes, Maj. C. Courtney, British veterans; Col. James A. Fry, Capt. G. R. H. Bullfinch, Capt. Charles Sargent, Col. J. L. Theron, U. S. A.; Maj. R. H. Patterson, U. S. A.; Lieut. R. H. Williams, U. S. A.; Asst. Surg. G. T. Matthews, U. S. A.; Capt. E. S. Benton, U. S. A.; Asst. Henry L. Dwight, 10th battalion, New York; Maj. Louis H. Cherry, Governor's Foot Guard; Col. Supplee, 4th Maryland.
Capt. John C. Potter, commanding infantry wing.

First company infantry, Sergt. James Nichols, and company infantry, Capt. A. N. Webb.
Second company infantry, Sergt. Henry Williams.
Third company infantry, Maj. Quinby.
Fourth company infantry, Capt. E. O. Bartels.
Fifth company infantry, Sergt. W. H. Thomas.
Sixth company infantry, Sergt. Henry Williams.
Seventh company infantry, Sergt. James Edgar.

The route was through Merchants' row, State street, to Washington street, to school street, to Beacon street. At the State House the company formed line and presented arms to Lieut.-Gov. Bates and party. The Lieutenant-Governor was escorted by Gen. Samuel Lawrence of the company, and was accompanied by Gens. Dalton, Dewey, Blood, Wellington and Brigham of his staff and by Rev. Mr. Smith, the chaplain of the company.

As soon as the party had returned the salute it took position in line, with Lieut. W. Hatch Jones and Maj. G. Howard Jones as flankers, and the column proceeded down Beacon street to remount, to Boylston, to the church.

With the coming up of the sun this morning members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company were astir. Earlier still Adj. Tute, with the members of the 1st artillery drum corps, had started out for the purpose of sounding the reveille, according to ye ancient cus-

There was no delay in beginning the service, which, as usual, was very beautiful and very impressive. It was made up of these parts:
Salute to the colors.
Salem Cadet band.
Anthem, "Oh, Sing Unto the Lord.".....Buck Ruggles Street quartet.
Doxology.
Company, chorus and congregation.
Invocation.
"From the Depths".....Campana.
Reading of the Scriptures.
"Repentance".....Gounod.
Prayer.
"Come Unto Me".....Coenza.
Miss Mason.
Sermon.
The Rev. Walter E. C. Smith.
"Rock of Ages".....Johnson.
Mr. Johnson.
Reading of the death roll for the year.
Adj. Thomas Tute.
"Memory's Roll".....Arranged.
Messrs. Johnson, Meek, White and Clark.
Ode, "Thy Kingdom Come".....Anderson.
The Rev. Minot J. Savage, D. D.
"Break, Break, Break".....Anderson.
Miss Mason, Miss May and Mr. Johnson.
Benediction.
Salem Cadet band.
Grand march.
The musical programme was under the

(Photo by Chickering.)
ADJ. THOMAS TUTE,
Who Awoke the Ancients This Morning.

personal direction of Priv. Joseph L. White. These artists took part: The Ruggles Street Male quartet, Herbert Johnson, first tenor; William T. Meek, second tenor; Arthur B. Hitchcock, first bass; Dr. George R. Clark, second bass, and Miss Bertha Estelle Mason, soprano; Miss Agnes May, contralto, and Priv. Joseph L. White, baritone, with Samuel Carr, organist, and the Salem Cadet band, Jean Missud.

The sermon of the chaplain was listened to most attentively for the 25 minutes he spoke.

ELECTION SERMON.

Ancients Reverently Listen to the Eloquent Words of the Rev. Walter E. Smith.

Taking for his text the following: "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith"—(I. John v. 4), the Rev. Walter E. Smith said:
When the apostle John wrote these words his mind must have reverted back more than half a century to the time when his Master, and the conquering sovereign of all subsequent civilization, said to those about him, "In the world ye shall have tribulation, but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world." No thoughtful person today misunderstands this language or the nature of the conquest which Christ claimed. He surely had not conquered the circumstances of his life so that he was free from the conditions of his age. For him labor, hard and wearisome, was inevitable; fatigue followed him; misunderstandings and prejudice and hatred frustrated his purposes even to the end; sorrow and suffering were among his companions as long as he lived, and, at the last, death overtook him and, for the instant, seemed to triumph over him. But all these facts and forces, however they might seem to control him, were, in reality, subject ministers to his own divine and imperishable life. He was master and not they. He had discovered the secret of turning the victory of poverty, the victory of sorrow, the victory of defeat and disappointment, the victory of death, into an imperial triumph for his own moral and spiritual life. Because of them, and by means of them, he was conscious that he had deepened and enriched his own being. In this exultant strength, then, he declared himself conqueror. John, many years later, used Christ's words and re-enforced their truth out of his own eventful experience. He said, "This is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith."

There is a power in man's life which, summoned into service, secures him final success against every hostile force or malign influence. This power constitutes him not only the measure of the universe, but its master. No hostile or hateful influence need subdue its spirit nor disarm permanently its strength. Upon it man stakes the ventures of his life, finds in it his imperishable worth and builds upon it his hope of immortality. The springs and sources of this power lose themselves as they found themselves, within the very being of God himself. It is deep calling unto deep. There can be no doubt about "the victory." Victory of some sort we all claim. But in what field does our victory lie?

Conquests of nature.—We hear much about the conquests of nature, and man's triumph over the brute forces of the world. It is a most interesting and wonderful story of combat which comes down to us from the dawn of human life, when the first great victory should assert itself in beginning the true, even if all high plane of development. But the fact is that human life includes a race extending from the beast to the saint. The conflict, however, diminishes in fierceness and frequency with civilization. The most warlike people in history used the word "impediments"—that which impedes—to describe their baggage train. The commissariat train, with its long procession of wagons, is at once a help and a hindrance. Some of the most successful generals have won their battles by reducing their "impediments." The successful management of this necessary burden in the army's march is a crucial test of generalship. Our animal inheritances are our moral impediments; the passions of men; their combative instinct; their confidence in brute strength; or in their more refined and skilful engineering of war. All these need moral generalship.

The conduct of war is constantly undergoing modifications. "War is hell," yes, but not so hideous a hell as it was once. Today war is governed by "rules of war." Merciful agreements between combatants gleam like threads of gold in the black pall of war. I dare not say that the indescribable cruelties of ancient wars are no longer possible, but they are rare and shock the conscience of humanity. Our own army has been accused of cruelty in the Philippines. There is no need, nor have I the time, nor do I feel that this is quite the occasion, to discuss such an indictment against the American soldier. In the face of the tide of public criticism, the shocking statements of witnesses, the daily and violent arraignment ment of the army in the Philippines by leading newspapers of our land, we may wisely reflect that Mr. Roosevelt is in a position to see and understand the situation better than the public at large. He hates cruelty and injustice as only a great, strong nature can hate these things. We may safely trust him and the able and honest men who are his advisers to guide the affairs of our land and to preserve our country's fair name from every stain of dishonor.

LIEUT.-GOV. JOHN L. BATES,
Who Reviewed the Ancients at the State House.

(3) The triumph of commerce.—The third method of conquering the world is comparatively modern. It is the appeal to enlightened self-interest, and is known as the commercial conquest of the world. The career of Cecil Rhodes is typical of this spirit. It was a dream of his to form a syndicate of the world's richest men and, by fabulous concentration of capital, to conquer and control the earth—to convert all humanity into an economic machine. There can be no doubt but that the Anglo-Saxon race is more committed to this method of conquest than any other race on earth. It is probably true that today the commanding interest in America is money-getting. In my judgment, it is better for us to recognize the fact, and make the best of it, than to deceive ourselves. There are many today who look with the very gravest apprehension upon the influence of the commercial spirit. They see in its claims and power of the business life, in the stupendous aggregations of capital, the enormous industrial combinations, the rapid accumulation of wealth, not possibilities of great public service, but rather a degeneration. The artist in the midst of this commercial age laments an absence of aesthetic taste, and the lack of appreciation of noble work. He sees vulgarly flaunting itself as art in our public buildings and parks, and places the blame at once upon the materialism of our times. Impatient and contemptuous, he escapes, in spirit and imagination, to other centuries when men loved the beautiful above all things, when art rose to her highest estate, and he finds there an inspiration and contentment which this age seems to him unable to give. One hears much the same lament in the world of literature and music. Devout men who have the religious interest of mankind at heart feel keenly, and sadly, that the commercial spirit is leading life far afield from those ideals of piety and devotion so generally associated with our Puritan forefathers, as if the Puritan were the only true type of devotion to God and his righteousness.

After all has been said of the peril of a commercial spirit, it is a fair contention that this commercial spirit and accomplishment of modern life in America may be precisely the contribution which, under God, it is designed that this nation, or the Anglo-Saxon people, shall make to civilization. Israel has given to the world a religion; Greece, art and literature; Rome, government and law. Great peoples bring their unique gifts to life. It may be the peculiar service of the Anglo-Saxon people to make such a splendid contribution of economic and commercial efficiency to life that in ages to come the absolutely necessary work of keeping the body clothed, fed and dead have dulled the rich meaning and beauty of this word, "Faith." There is, of course, always this danger for the "words of life." The word "faith" has come to be thought of as a purely technical term, or else as a sort of an attitude of mind and heart which, since it cannot build upon the foundation of rational processes, and a solid science, claims for the reality of the most precious things in life some other foundation—and this is given the name of "faith." At all events, for a great many people the word "faith," I suspect, has lost reality, and a statement like that of my text, has come to be disesteemed as not having clear meaning or vital significance. My purpose this morning is to re-establish in your minds, if possible, this word "faith." I should like to show you its power; and to make clear to you that the highest victory in life is the Victory of Faith. I shall not attempt to define the word. I prefer, rather, to illustrate its power.

Throughout the world there are hundreds of thousands of men and women who toil from early morning until evening, honestly and faithfully, to provide for those who are dependent upon their care. Their life is one of drudgery. They live only from day to day. Before them are no visions of a rest from the severe toll of daily life as long as they live; no dreams of a competence for old age. Between their loved ones and destitution there is only the bulwark of their own constant labor. A host of subtle temptations attack these faithful spirits—the temptation of despair, of dishonesty—(to get a living in the devil's way and at his suggestion). These are some of the enemies that attack the toilers of our country. And yet the vast majority of the working people are conquering these enemies, beating them down into the dust. Think for a moment of the multitude of shop girls who are barely earning a meagre living, who face some of the subtlest perils which can be devised against them; who, nevertheless, keep life pure and sweet, and prefer even death to dishonor. Think of the men, and they are by far the vast majority, who are living purely, who believe in the preciousness and sanctity of the family. Think of the men all through our great land who cherish the noblest ideals of national life; who are undaunted by municipal corruption or national perjury. They may be overthrown, but, like splendid soldiers, they are soon upon their feet, upholding again the banner of truth, justice and righteousness, which they know must ultimately triumph. All these are the victories of faith. This is the faith which overcomes the world. Gentlemen, I am speaking now to you, not only as military men, but as men of large business interests. Let me give you an example of the conquest of faith which touches business life.

Some years ago one of our most brilliant and successful literary men connected himself with a publishing firm. The firm failed. He might have confined his share of loss to the amount of his liability under the partnership; but he knew that the credit of this house had rested upon his own good name, and so he therefore felt in honor bound to shoulder the entire debt. His last dollar was gone, and he was 60 years of age. But the sense of honor remained. "The law," he claimed, "recognizes no mortgage on a man's brain, and a merchant, who has given up all that he has, may take advantage of the court of insolvency and start free again for himself. But I am not a business man, and honor is a harder master than the law; it cannot compromise for less than 100 cents on the dollar, and its debts never outlaw." The story of this brave man, of his memorable fight throughout the world; Europe, India, Australia, South Africa, for dollars to pay his debts, is the story of that faith of which we have been speaking. "I meant," he adds also, "to give my creditors all the benefit of this, but I begin to feel that I am gaining something from it, too, and that my dividends, if not available for banking purposes, may be even more satisfactory than theirs." Dividends of the spirit of man, dividends in the strengthening and securing of moral worth and character; dividends which protect life and make it to know less and less of fear; dividends in the solid sense of satisfaction which always accrues out of honorable dealing, clean living, just and righteous treatment of men.

Finally, who has won the hardest fight, the man who has, by an extraordinary miracle, knitted two continents together so that communication between the two is almost instantaneous; who can send wireless messages across 3000 miles of raging sea; or the man who can hear with a patient, trusting, undaunted spirit the message which comes to him, by cable or without it, that all he loves dearest in the world, or all he possesses, is gone forever? I am not asking that life shall learn indifference or become unsympathetic. The man who can hear of the loss of all he loves, and can endure this with fortitude and calmness, who can take up the duties of life and perform them faithfully, is a conqueror—his victory is the victory of faith.

Conceive of the spirit of men of whom St. Paul could say, "They were stoned, they were slain with the sword; they wandered about in sheepskins and goatskins; being destitute, afflicted, tormented." And these, we are told, were men of faith. While the attack upon life is in many ways changed, and men are not now, as in former times, burned, racked or tortured, because they are true to their ideals; nevertheless, wherever we see the spirit of martyrdom, or courage witnessing to truth, or supreme devotion, we are in the presence of that faith which is the triumphant force in the world.

In this faith, then, let us live and conquer. Into our hands, as into the Christ's, God has given all power, both in heaven and in earth. Beyond the battle is the victory. For this present life is not only "the chance of learning love," but a divine opportunity given to win all things into the service of the highest manhood. So that at the last we may say:

All life, grief, wrong,
I won at the last to beauty and to song.

DEATH ROLL.

Longest List for Many Years—Each Name Followed by the Tap of the Muffled Drum.

Then followed the reading of the death roll of the year, a most solemn Governor Thinks but Little of Herring River.

The company appropriated of $33,000 Is put Down by Him.
The company duty of every work for its best it along to the next Puts It.

There was a time, some years ago when the city might have lost the Old South Church. We have lived enough years since that time to realize what a great loss it would have been. Today no hand can touch its sacred walls with razing tools. This old hall has been taken care of for all ages. No one would dare suggest the pulling down of the Old State House, or Independence Hall in Philadelphia. Why should any one desire to hurt the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, or any of these buildings? an organization founded in 1637 and chartered in 1638, in existence before any of the buildings I have referred to were thought of, and ready to take any of these buildings for its home, if need have been when they were new, as in fact it did in two of them.

I say to the members of the company: Look after the company's affairs carefully and loyally. I say to the citizens of this commonwealth and to their representatives in the Legislature, give us your support and commendation, join its ranks and help carry forward a great inheritance.

Condemn surely what is bad, but aid and help what is good. Nothing is perfect, but nothing that is thoroughly bad can live. Let the people of this city be not blinded with old sayings and jokes of the past few years. Have their jokes if they will, but do not in the telling of "chestnuts" get to look upon them as facts.

This company has in its ranks many members who have served a long number of years, giving much of their time, and whose best thoughts are given to the company's interest. Members of the company should look up to these men and respect them.

The organization is a military company, and should look after the true military spirit. Citizens of Boston do not expect this company to march equal to soldiers of 20 to 25 years of age, but the commander in chief and the people of this state do expect you to keep step; to keep your alignments; they do expect you to place in office men capable of commanding; they do expect to see on parade a true and perfect military courtesy and discipline.

Look to it, members of the company, that you come up to the requirements of this duty, and you will have the respect of the people. By giving the right thought to this you will invite into your ranks the very men you want. In old days the company was a school for officers. Now it should be a haven for officers who have retired after a long period of active service.

These men would like to wear their uniforms and parade at times, on just such days as these. Here in this state is the Old Guard of Massachusetts, 300 strong, of present and retired commissioned officers. At present they are without a home. Some are already members of this company.

Why not all of them? Why is this company not their home? Invite them in. Urge them in. The best way to get them is to show them there is here the true military spirit, good discipline and respect for your officers.

The era of universal peace is coming. America is the main factor in bringing this about. This company's fall field day trips are missions of peace, and the sentiment expressed on various visits to other cities results in good, friendly feelings, one section toward another in this country. The visit of the company to London, in 1896, was a mission of peace, and the two nations were drawn together by it.

We are about to receive the Honorable Artillery Company from London. This company, this city, this nation will welcome it, and great results will come from such fraternal visits. No alliances! no entanglements! but strengthened friendship. Closely allied as we are with the Honorable Artillery Company, friendly as we feel toward the British nation, we are Americans, and for America, first last and all the time.

Those thoughts come to me after the honor of having for one of these precious 264 years commanded this company, and I go out of this high office today with more respect for this organization, what it is, and what it stands for. I shall continue to hold it in high esteem, and work for its best interests as long as I live, and it will be one of the proudest thoughts I can carry in mind through the rest of my days, that I was honored by being its captain in 1901 and 1902.

The year just closing has little in it to take up your time today in detail. Such as it is stands as a part of its history. For the first time in over 50 years the fall field day was abandoned, but the company did this as its mark of respect to the late President, William McKinley, who was so dastardly assassinated just a few weeks previous to the first Monday in October, our fall field day. The company showed its patriotism.

The "smokers" in our armory have

THEIR ANNUAL FIELD DAY

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts held a big birthday party yesterday, a birthday party such as few existing organizations are able to celebrate, for few can boast of the completion of 264 years of honorable and honored existence.

Members and guests came from all parts of the State, and from other States, too. There was a delegation from the Old Guard of New York. Two members of the Veteran Corps Artillery of New York wore exact fac-similes of the uniforms worn by their ancestors in the War of 1812. Then there was a sprinkling of Continental uniforms. Striking red uniforms were worn by the Governor's Foot Guard of Connecticut, and there was a liberal sprinkling of the soldierly blue of the United States army.

Massachusetts had the majority of the men in line, and Boston the most of these, but from other cities delegations came to join in the festivities. New Bedford and Gloucester were represented by nearly full delegations; the former being headed by Sergeant Charles S. Ashley, Mayor of the city, and the latter by Mr. Frank Homans. Lowell, Lawrence, Attleboro and Marblehead also sent large delegations.

Although the line of march from Faneuil Hall was not to be taken up till 9 o'clock, the out-of-town delegations were on hand an hour and a half ahead of time, and enjoyed a breakfast which Captain George Hall ordered prepared.

Meanwhile, Drum Major "Jimmie" Clark and the field music of the First Heavy Artillery, M. V. M., were following the ancient custom of arousing the sleeping members of the company, and the reveille disturbed many a last nap, not only of the Ancients, but of everybody in their neighborhood.

After inspection by the commander, the line was formed under the direction of Adjutant Thomas J. Tute, and started for a short march through State, Washington, School and Beacon streets to the State House, where Lieutenant-Governor and as the command marched in the entire congregation rose to salute the colors.

The reading of the names of those who had died during the past year was one of the most impressive parts of the service.

After the services the Ancients proceeded over Boylston, Washington, Summer, High, Congress and State streets to Faneuil Hall, where the banquet was held.

LIEUTENANT THOMAS J. TUTE, Adjutant of the Ancients, who was toastmaster at the banquet yesterday.

Seated at the head table were Captain Frank Huckins, who presided, the Rev. E. A. Horton, the Rev. W. E. C. Smith, ex-Governor J. Q. A. Brackett, ex-Governor Boutwell, Lieutenant-Governor Bates, President Dolan of the Boston Common Council, Adjutant-General Dalton, Rear Admiral Belknap, General W. W. Blackmar, Major R. H. Patterson, U. S. A., Major Briggs of the Old Guard

Bates, who represented the State in the absence of Governor Crane, who was obliged to decline the invitation on account of ill health.

"The city of Boston" was responded to by President Dolan of the Common Council.

"The army" was the toast assigned to Major Patterson of the United States Artillery, and Rear Admiral Belknap spoke for the navy.

To the toast "The Grand Army of the Republic," General W. W. Blackmar, commander of the department of Massachusetts, responded.

Ex-Governor Boutwell, who commissioned the officers of the company just 51 years ago yesterday, responded for the invited guests.

The Rev. Walter E. C. Smith, chaplain of the company, spoke for "The Clergy." He spoke of the criticism of the army in the Philippines.

"These things may have been casual wrongdoings, such as are apt to happen among any large body of men," he said. "It is not surprising that they fell into the inheritance of warfare. President Roosevelt understands the situation, and will not brook it if it is shown that such conditions as are alleged exist. Give him a chance. While affairs are in such hands as his and those of Secretary Root we can afford to wait."

Major S. Ellis Briggs spoke for the Old Guard of New York, and the last speaker was John J. Flaherty of Gloucester, who responded to the toast, "The Ancient and Honorable Artillery."

The band responded to the last toast, "The Ancient and Honourable Artillery Company of London," by playing the "London march," after which the line was again formed in front of Faneuil Hall and the company marched to the parade ground on the Common, where it was reviewed by Lieutenant-Governor Bates in the presence of a vast crowd. A salute to the Lieutenant-Governor was fired.

The drum head election resulted in the choice of the following officers for the ensuing year:

Captain, J. Stearns Cushing; first lieutenant, James M. Usher; second lieutenant, William S. Best; adjutant, Edward W. Abbott; sergeants of infantry, Frederick W. Tirrell, Milton C. Paige, John P. Hazlett, George B. Ketcham, Everett B. Hodges, William B. Wood; sergeants of artillery, John Mitchell Galvin, George H. Wilson, Harry Hamilton, SCENE AT THE TENTS ON THE COMMON WHERE THE ANCIENTS WELCOMED THEIR FRIENDS.

ates, Adjutant-General Dalton, Surgeon-General Blood, Inspector-General Brigham and Brigadier-General Dewey, judge advocate-general, were taken under escort. From there the march was taken up through Beacon, Tremont and Boylston streets to the Old South, where the election sermon was delivered by the chaplain, the Rev. Walter E. C. Smith. The church was crowded to the doors, of New York, Speaker Myers of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and Adjutant Thomas J. Tute, who acted as toastmaster.

Adjutant Tute announced the toasts in original rhymes. The first was to the President of the United States, and was responded to by the band, playing "Hail Columbia."

The first speaker was Lieutenant-Gov-

Samuel A. Neill, George Francis, George A. Wyman; paymaster and treasurer, Emory Grover; assistant paymaster and clerk, George H. Allen; quartermaster, William L. Willey; commissary, George B. Hall.

The newly elected captain, lieutenants and adjutant were at once commissioned by Lieutenant-Governor Bates.

After the dress parade and commissioning of the officers the Ancients marched to their armory.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR BATES COMMISSIONING THE NEWLY ELECTED CAPTAIN OF THE ANCIENT AND HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY ON

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR BATES REVIEWING THE ANCIENT AND HONORABLE ARTILLERY COMPANY ON

CAPT. EDWARD W. ABBOTT.

Newly elected Adjutant of the Ancients—Native of South Danvers, now Peabody, Mass.—Born Oct. 13, 1854—Captain Sutton Cadets (boys company), First—Enlisted in Second Corps Cadets, 1873; Second Lieutenant, 1878; Captain, 1884; resigned, 1886—Joined the A. and H. A. Co. in May, 1890—In 1900 was Sergeant of Second Company of Infantry, under Colonel Ferris, and won second prize in competitive company drills—Father and grandfather (General William Sutton) were both members of the Ancients—A Mason of high degree, and a Mystic Shriner—Resided in Winchester, Mass., since September, 1900—Member of Calumet Club, Winchester, and Imperial Club, Boston—Salesman for Boston Plate and Window Glass Company.

TWO OF THREE LIVING EX-
GOVERNORS OF MASSACHU-SETTS WITH THE ANCIENTS
YESTERDAY—A RARE ANNI-VERSARY.

Rare, indeed, was the anniversary of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company yesterday; a day to be marked by a big red star, since not only had the company its oldest living ex-Governor John A. Brack-wealth, the Hon. George S. Boutwell, but also ex-Governor John A. Brack-ett, leaving only ex-Governor Long of the surviving three ex-Chief Magis- trates of old Massachusetts who was not with them.

ett, leaving only ex-Governor Bowdoin, who was not with them. The representatives of old Massachusetts who was not with them. Not only that, but they presented the most picturesque array seen on Boston avenues for many a day, having as guests the handsomest platoon of the Old Guard of the State of New York, in towering bearskins and spotless white coat, which has been here in years. There were also the representatives of the Governor's Foot Guard of Hartford, a company but very little younger in years than the Ancients, also a very faithful presentation of the uniforms of the volunteers of 1812 who brought to dust the redoubtable Packenham at New Orleans, under Old Hickory's relentless charges.

EXERCISES OF THE DAY.

There was the early fanfare in the morning, when Adjutant Tute beat to arms his sleeping comrades in Old Dorchester, with drums, fifes and the blatant bugle call, before 4 in the morning.

There followed the rally at Faneuil Hall; the march to the church, and an elaborate and beautiful military service, with an eloquent discourse in which President Roosevelt found a warm defender in the preacher of the 264th anniversary, Rev. Walter E. Clifton Smith of Ascension Church, Fifth Avenue, New York.

After that came the dinner in Faneuil Hall, with eloquent words by Lieut. Gov. Bates in the absence of Gov. Kane, who was detained by indisposition. The cares of the subway conference at the State House. An eloquent little speaker did President Arthur W. Dolan of the Boston Commonwealth Council prove to be. He rose high enough at the last moment, not to represent the Mayor of Boston, he felt sure, but to rattle round him, and he received the heartiest applause from both the venerable ex-Governors and the benison of Ex-Governor Boutwell, now in his eighty-fourth year, gave reminiscences of the days when in that same hall he had as Governor addressed these same Ancients, and he was listened to with profound attention, the whole company rising to cheer him as he closed.

More than all this the Ancients were honored by a very large contingent from the United States Coast Defence Artillery Corps from Forts Banks, Warren and Strong. There were Colonel Tiernan, Major Robert H. Patterson, Captain Chase and Lieut. Long of the regular service.

After the dinner came the march to the Common and the Drumhead election at which these officers were elected:

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Captains, Lieut. J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood.
First Lieutenant, Lieut. James M. Usher of West Medford; Second Lieutenant, Sergt. Wm. B. Boland.
Adjutant, Capt. Edward W. Abbott of Winchester.
First Sergeant of Infantry, Frederic W. Tilton of Quincy; Second Sergeant of Infantry, Milton C. Paige of South Boston.
Third Sergeant of Infantry, John P. Hazlett of Charlestown; Fourth Sergeant of Infantry, Joseph M. Smith of Boston.
Fifth Sergeant of Infantry, Lieut. George B. Hodges of Providence, R. I.; Sixth Sergeant of Infantry, William B. Wood of New Bedford.
First Sergeant of Artillery, John Mitchell Galvin of Dorchester; Second Sergeant of Artillery, George H. Wilson of Quincy; Third Sergeant of Artillery, George H. Allen of East Boston; Fourth Sergeant of Artillery, Samuel A. Nell of Boston; Fifth Sergeant of Artillery, George H. Allen of Boston.
Sixth Sergeant of Artillery, George A. Wyman of Charlestown.
Paymaster and Treasurer, Lieut. Emory Gove of Salem; Assistant Paymaster and Clerk, Lieut. George H. Allen of Boston; Quartermaster, Sergt. William L. Williams of Boston; Commissary, Capt. George B. Hall of Dorchester.

LATER EXERCISES.

After the election on the Common, there was the customary review; the announcement by the retiring Adjutant, Lieutenant Tute, and the investment by the Lieutenant Governor in the name of the Commonwealth of the several new commissioned officers selected by the company for the ensuing year.

Lieutenant Powell's platoon of Battery C of Lawrence, Captain Sargent, fired the salutes—three guns for the new Captain; two guns for the new First Lieutenant; and one gun each for the new Second Lieutenant and the new Adjutant.

Lieutenant Governor Bates from his presence of a large number of ladies of the Marquee on the Common, in the presence of a company addressed each of the recipients of the honor, assuring them that each happy candidate of his confidence was certain of their support as well as that of the Commonwealth. Captain Manning was received with enthusiastic applause and was striding up the steps of the Marquee. The new Commander of the Government that day, the Lieutenant Governor, that he intended to pledge his fealty and honor to give to the Commonwealth the very best service that he could and to obtain the high prestige of the Ancients.

"Jimmie" Usher raised a little when he expressed the hope that when it would be to say "Your Excellency" and not "Your Honor."

Adj. Abbott paid a neat little tribute to Adj. Gen. Dalton's long service for the Massachusetts militia when he said that it gave him great pleasure to receive at the immediate hands of Adjutant General Dalton, who did the investing part of it, the halberd, sword and Gen. Dalton who was his first commander in the old Salem Cadets, and who subsequently was his Corps Commander before he left the service of the active militia.

Lieut. Powell paid a handsome salary of 12 guineas, well timed to leave the States when he came upon the scene.

AT THE BANQUET

Eloquent Words Spoken in Faneuil Hall.
Dinner was served in Faneuil Hall, which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

[illegible]

"Closely allied as we are with the Honourable Artillery Company, friends we feel towards the British nation, we are Americans, and for America first, last and all the time."

At the head table was Capt. H. C. On his right Lieut. Gov. John L. Bator and up and down the table President Dolan of the Boston Common Council, Adit. Gen. Dalton, Adit. Theron their feet in response to the sentiment to the President. Then somebody shouted "Three Cheers for Teddy Roosevelt." They were given with a vim that shook the roof.

Captain Huckins, after expressing the regret that all felt at the absence of Governor Crane, remarked to Lieutenant Governor Bates that after all he was only but a year ahead of his turn.

There was a roar of laughter, to which Lieutenant Governor Bates humorously responded that it was exceptionally gratifying to a man to know that he was all right at the start, and he was glad to hear it. He made a humorous speech, saying that the fact was that the Adjutant General had been talking so much French lately that he found he was unable to understand a word he said (great laughter), and he found the same difficulty in listening to the remarks of those about him. "I am glad to meet this American company," he said. "I am glad to find that we are all here together. I am glad to stand here in front of a large-hearted; that keen-minded; that patriotic of the public mind of this Commonwealth, His Excellency Governor Crane." (Tremendous applause and cheers.)

dous applause and cheers." said that one of the most pleasing things he had noted along to the march that day was a fellow on Boylston Street who was trying hard to maintain his balance on his bicycle and keep it going, but who, when the flag of his country came up to him, straightened right back and bared his head, cap off at the shoulder. "That boy will make an American citizen of whom we shall all be proud," said the speaker. (Enthusiastic cheers.) Then the Lieutenant Governor spoke of Webster as the corner stone of Constitutional liberty, and of Horace Mann as standing in like position for free education of the masses. He congratulated the company on being 264 years old.

Captain Huddins read a letter from Mayor Collins regretting that he was pinned down by the subway conference, but assuring the Ancients that he would be ready for the coming of the Honourable Artillery of London next summer, and President Arthur W. Dolan of the Common Council made a spirited response for the toast "The City of Boston."

The Army of the United States" brought up Major Patterson of Fort Warren, who warily defended the army against its traducers. "Don't take what you see in the papers," urged the major, "until later. We are out there to put up your defence. Please remember that you haven't heard from the army yet, but from a few of those who are in it. If you really wish, you are all trying to live up to that motto of my own glorious old regiment, the First Heavy Artillery—"Primus aut

Nullus." (Great applause.)
Rear Admiral Belknap spoke for the "United States Navy" and humorously urged his hearers to remember that they were not after all so very American, the nation's debt to Admiral Roach (daughter), and there was a bold dog, who seven years before the ending of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock sailed from the Capes of Virginia in command of 11 vessels and 4000 men, and sailed to Nova Scotia province. He warmly extolled the glorious deeds of the navy.

Ex-Gov. Boutwell.

Turks Island—Ar June 2, brig Irene Conakry (and ordered to Fernandez da NY).
Sama—Sld May 20, st Iberia, Boston.
Sierra Leone—Ar June 1, bk Hiram Emery
Cates, Boston—Sld May 24, days.
Ship Harbor, NS—Ar May 31, sch Fremar
Schmidt, Las Palmas.
St. John's—May 16, sts Albis, Halifax via Kingston (and ordered to St. John's).
Conde Wifredo, New Orleans (and Barcelona). Cayo Bonito, London and Briswick; 19, Havana (and Havana); 18, Lassell Pool via Havana, and de Larrinaga, Liver pool and Port Arthur.
Sld May 27, bk Florence B Edgett, Keay Cienfuegos.

UNITED STATES PORTS

BALTIMORE—Ar 2d, schs Howard, Bow
 Provden, Providence; sch Marguer
 Cid, st Howard, Boston; sch Bradford
 Provden, Portsmouth.
 Cid, st Lunenburg, Boston.
 CAPE HENRY, V.—Passed 2d, tug
 Provden, Providence for Balt, towing
 Macky C Curtis, st Thompson and Montana; sch
 Passed out 1st, schs Bretria, Balt for S
 Portsmouth, (2d), Charles F Mayer, do for Boston, towing barges No 6, 10 and 12
 BATH, ME—Ar 1st, barkentine Bruce
 Provden (to load for Martinique)
 George Kimball, st Boston.
 SId, schs Emma C Agell, Washington
 Hattie Champion, Phil; Abenaki, NY; Hen ietta Simmons, do; yacht Pantooet, Boston.
 BOOTHBAY HARBOR, ME—Ar 2d, schs
 E Davis, Boston; Hattie A Marsh, Lon
 Ove, Me; Spertal, Calais.
 steam yacht Malay, North Haven Magnolia, Orange.
 BRUNSWICK, ME—Ar 2d, st San Marcos, NY
 by Edward L Mayberry Point-a-Pitre.
 CALAIS, ME—Ar 2d, schs

CAPT. J. STEARNS CUSHING

CAPT. J. STEARNS
The new Commander of the Ancient and Honorable for 1902-03—Native of Bedford, Mass.—Born May 3, 1864 wood—Served from private to Captain in the active m setts—Member of Winthrop, Massachusetts, Corinthian Atlantic Yacht Clubs: B. A. A., and Franklin Typogra member of First Corps of Cadets—Prominent in Masoni ber of the Shrine—Was President of the Norwood Busin tion—President of a number of printing social clubs—printing business—Was elected Second Lieutenant of the Ninety-fourth Monthly Dinner

—OF THE—

Boston Boot and Shoe Club

HOTEL BRUNSWICK, BOSTON

Wednesday, October 16, 1901

GUESTS

MR. JOHN E. GILMAN.

Past Commander, Department of Massachusetts. G. A. R.

MR. PETER D. SMITH.

Past Commander, Department of Massachusetts G. A. R.

REAR ADMIRAL FRANK WILDE. U. S. N.

Late Commander of the U. S. Cruiser "Boston"

COLONEL HARRISON HUME

ADJUTANT GENERAL SAMUEL DALTON

CAPTAIN FRANK HUCKINS.

Commander Ancient and Honorable Artillery

COMMITTEE ON ARRANGEMENTS

Colonel H. E. Smith

Colonel F. G. King

MUSIC: PLUMMER'S ORCHESTRA

Menu

Radishes

Olives

BLUEPOINTS

Green Turtle, à l'Anglaise

Consommé Solferino

Celery

Fried Boneless Smelts, Sauce Ravigote

Pommes D'Uxelles

Dressed Cucumbers

Roast Young Turkey, Cranberry Sauce

Saddle Mutton, Currant Jelly

Cauliflower a la Creme

Delmonico Potatoes

Sweetbread Croquettes, aux Petits Pois

Lobster, à la Newburg, en Caisses

Apricot Fritters, Glacé, au Cognac

Coupe St. Jaques

Broiled Philadelphia Squab on Toast

Saratoga Potatoes

Escarole Salad

Marron Parfait

Baba au Sabayon

Assorted Cake

Napolitaine Ice Cream

Roquefort and Brie Cheese

Fruit

Coffee

*The City of Boston
invites you to a dinner to be given in honor of
The Mission delegated by the President and Government of the French Republic
to attend the dedication of the statue of Maréchal de Rochambeau.
Saturday evening, May the thirty first, 1902.
Hotel Somerset
at eight o'clock.*

Please Reply

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co.

OF MASSACHUSETTS

Fall Field Day

MONDAY, OCT. 7, 1901

At 3 o'clock P. M.

Born
Jan. 29,
1843

Died
Sept. 14,
1901

MEMORIAL SERVICE

In Memory of

President William McKinley

Old South Church

BOYLSTON, CORNER OF DARTMOUTH STREET

Order of Service

Salutation to the Colors (Congregation will rise)

HYMN

"Nearer My God to Thee" ADAMS
(Congregation will join in the singing)

INVOCATION

"Lord, now the Hero's mortal wars are ended" FLEMING
MALE CHORUS

READING OF SCRIPTURE

HYMN

"Lead Kindly Light" NEWMAN
MALE CHORUS

ADDRESS

REV. EDWARD A. HORTON

SOLO

"The Lost Chord" SULLIVAN
MISS GRACE CARTER

ORATION

HON. WILLIAM A. MORSE

"Face to Face" HERBERT JOHNSON
MR. JOHNSON AND MALE CHORUS

"America"

(Congregation will rise)

My Country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing;
Land where my fathers died,
Land of the Pilgrim's pride,
From ev'ry mountain side
Let freedom ring.

Let music swell the breeze,
And ring from all the trees
Sweet Freedom's song;
Let mortal tongues awake,
Let all that breathe partake,
Let rocks their silence break,
The sound prolong.

My native country, thee—
Land of the noble free—
Thy name I love;
I love thy rocks and rills,
Thy woods and templed hills,
My heart with rapture thrills
Like that above.

Our Father's God, to Thee,
Author of Liberty,
To Thee we sing;
Long may our land be bright
With freedom's holy light.
Protect us by Thy might,
Great God, our King.

TAPS

BENEDICTION

Recessional March ORGAN

(Congregation will be seated until Company marches out)

MUSICAL SERVICE

UNDER PERSONAL DIRECTION OF PRIVATE JOSEPH L. WHITE

MALE CHORUS

GEORGE R. DEANE	WILLIAM T. MEEK	JEWELL BOYD
EDWARD E. BULLOCK	WILLIAM W. WALKER	FRED. E. KENDALL
JOHN E. AMBROSE	GEORGE A. BUNTON	LESTER BARTLETT
THOMAS H. NORRIS	ELIJAH M. SPEARS	GEORGE W. WANT
FREDERICK L. MARTIN	W. B. PHILLIPS	J. L. THOMAS
	W. E. DAVISON

Miss GRACE CARTER, Contralto

Mr. HERBERT JOHNSON, Conductor

SAMUEL CARR, Organist

Ancient and Honorable Artillery
Company

FALL FIELD DAY COMMITTEE

October 7, 1901

OFFICERS

Capt. FRANK HUCKINS

Lieut. JOHN C. POTTER

Lieut. FRANK P. STONE

Adjutant THOMAS J. TUTE

Capt. JACOB FOTTLER

G. H. W. BATES

Sergt. CHARLES S. DAMRELL

DANIEL B. BADGER

Lieut. EMERY GROVER

Lieut. GEO. E. ADAMS

Capt. GEO. E. HALL

Lieut. EDW. SULLIVAN

Lieut. EDW. E. WELLS

Sergt. WILLIAM L. WILLEY

Lieut. GEO. H. ALLEN

DIAGRAM OF DINING ROOM

ON THE OCCASION OF DINNER

IN HONOR OF THE

MISSION DELEGATED BY THE PRESIDENT AND GOVERNMENT OF THE FRENCH REPUBLIC

TO ATTEND THE

DEDICATION OF THE STATUE OF

MARÉCHAL DE ROCHAMBEAU

SATURDAY, MAY 31

1902

HOTEL SOMERSET

DIAGRAM OF DINING ROOM

ON THE OCCASION OF DINNER

IN HONOR OF

His Royal Highness, Prince Henry of Prussia

THURSDAY, MARCH 6

1902

HOTEL SOMERSET

Commander Raymond P. Rodgers, United States Navy, Member of the President's Committee

George A. Hibbard, Postmaster at Boston

Professor Charles H. Grandgent,
Chairman of the French Department, Harvard University

Robert de Billy, Secretary, French
Embassy at Washington

Camille Thurwanger, President du Cercle Français de l'Alliance
Boston

Lieutenant Vicount de Faramond,
Naval Attaché to the French
Embassy at Washington

Honorable Rufus A. Soule, President, Massachusetts Senate

Admiral Higginson, United States
Navy

Captain Etienne Pilloneau, Aid-
de-Camp to General Brugère

Captain Lyons, U.S.S. "Olympia"

M. Victor Ayguesparse, Attaché to the French Embassy at Washington

Honorable Samuel A. Green,
M.D., former Mayor of Boston

Honorable Joseph H. O'Neill,
Reception Committee

Honorable Thomas N. Hart,
former Mayor of Boston

Edwin Ginn, Director, American
Peace Society

Dr. Francis H. Brown, President, Massachusetts Society, Sons of the Revolution

Honorable James P. Baxter, President, New England Historic Genealogical Society

Lieutenant Evans, Aide to Captain
Lyons, U. S. S. "Olympia"

General Hazard Stevens

Oscar H. Sampson, Vice-President,
Boston Merchants' Association

Winand Toussaint

Honorable T. Jefferson
Coolidge, former Ambassador to France

Général de Chalandar,
Commander, 14th Infantry
Brigade, French Army

Honorable Herbert H. D.
Feirce, Third Assistant
Secretary of State,
Washington

Vice-Admiral Fournier,
Inspector-General of the French Navy

His Excellency M. Cambon,
the French Ambassador
at Washington

Honorable Patrick A. Collins,
Mayor of Boston

General Brugère, Général of Division, Vice-President of the Supreme Council of War, France

Honorable John L. Bates, Lieutenant-Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts

Charles W. Eliot, President,
Harvard University

M. Croiset, Member of the French Institute, Dean of the Faculty of Letters,
Paris

Colonel T. A. Bingham,
United States Army,
Member of President's
Committee

Lieutenant-Colonel Meunier-
Saint Marc, Aid-de-Camp and personal representative of M. Emile Loubet,
President of the French
Republic

Count Sahune de La Fayette

2 Captain de Surgy, Captain of the armored-cruiser "Gaulois"

4 William H. Lincoln, President,
Chamber of Commerce

6 M. Lagrave, representing the French Ministry of Commerce

8 Arthur Dixey, President du Cercle Français, Harvard University

10 Mr. Renouard, Painter and Engraver, representing the Ministry of Public Instruction, France

12 Philippe Marcou, Assistant-Professor of Romance Languages, Harvard
University

14 Captain Vignal, Military Attaché
to the French Embassy at Washington

16 Lieutenant Gustave Le Jay,
Aid-de-Camp to Vice-Admiral
Fournier

18 Honorable James J. Myers,
Speaker, Massachusetts
House of Representatives

20 Captain Lasson, Attaché of the General Staff of the Governor of Paris

22 Robert S. Peabody, President,
Boston Society of Architects

24 Edwin V. Morgan, Secretary to the President's Delegates

26 Walter Allen, representing Boston Herald

28 James H. Doyle, Chairman,
Boston Board of Aldermen

30 Aide to Captain Hemphill

32 George A. Litchfield, Publisher,
Boston Traveler

34 Honorable John B. Martin, Penal Institutions
Commissioner of Boston

36 Commander E. K. Moore, United States Navy, Aide to Rear-Admiral Johnson

38 Captain Frank Huckins, Captain,
Ancient and Honorable
Artillery Company

40 Thomas Riley, Reception
Committee

2 Rear-Admiral George E. Belknap

4 M. de Margerie, Counselor of the French Embassy at Washington

6 Lieutenant-Colonel Hermite,
Commander of the 6th Foot
Artillery, French Army

8 Alphonse Brun, Instructor in French in Harvard University

10 Robert M. Burnett, Chairman,
Reception Committee

12 Jules Bœufve, Chancellor of the French Embassy at Washington

14 Duncan Bailly-Blanchard, Vice-Consul de France at Boston

16 Morin La Meslée, Délégué de l'Alliance Française, Groupe de Cambridge et Boston, Harvard University

18 Captain Pouilloux de Saint-Mars,
Captain of Artillery, French
Army

20 General Wilmon W. Blackmar,
Commander, Massachusetts
Division, Grand Army of the Republic

22 Count Antonie de Bréda

24 Arthur J. C. Sowdon, Governor,
Society of Colonial Wars

26 Brigadier-General T. R. Mathews,
First Brigade, Massachusetts
Volunteer Militia

28 Edward H. Clement, Editor,
Boston Transcript

30 J. C. Joseph Flamand, Reception
Committee

32 Winslow Warren, President, Massachusetts Society of the Cincinnati

34 Reverend William F. Warren,
President, Boston University

36 William Craig, President, Boston
Fruit and Produce Exchange

38 Frederic H. Vieux, Treasurer,
Boston Real Estate Exchange

40 E. M. Poltevin, Vice-President,
St. Jean Baptiste Société

Reserved
for Press
Representatives

Brigadier-General Samuel Dalton,
Adjutant-General of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts

General Henry B. Carrington,
LL. D.

E. A. Grozier, Editor, Boston Post

Arthur W. Dolan, President,
Boston Common Council

Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas F.
Edmands, First Corps Cadets

Honorable Robert Grant, Judge,
Probate Court

James Morgan, Assistant Managing Editor, Boston Globe

Gordon Abbott, President, Massachusetts Electric Companies

Herbert S. Underwood, Managing Editor, Boston Advertiser and Record

Charles E. Adams, President,
Massachusetts State Board of Trade

Captain George R. H. Burlington,
Commander of Massachusetts
Naval Brigade, Massachusetts
Volunteer Militia

Henri Morand, Instructor in French in the Boston Public Schools

Elisha N. Peirce, President,
Minute Men of 1861

Henry F. Chandler, President, Medal of Honor Legion of Boston and Vicinity

Charles C. Hoyt, President, Boston
Boot and Shoe Club

Martial E. Lebon, Reception Committee

Reserved
for Press
Representatives

Colonel Melvin O. Adams, President, Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn Railroad Company

Honorable Edwin U. Curtis,
former Mayor of Boston

Thomas J. Gargan, Vice-President, Irish American Historical Society

Curtis Guild, Jr., Reception
Committee

Edwin P. Seaver, Superintendent of Schools of Boston

Captain Hemphill, U. S. S.
"Kearsarge"

Reverend Elmer H. Capen,
President Tufts College

Elias J. Bliss, President, Massachusetts Society, Sons of the American Revolution

Honorable Nathan Matthews, Jr.,
former Mayor of Boston

Honorable John F. Brown, Chief Justice, Boston Municipal Court

Stephen O'Meara, Editor, Boston
Journal

Edmund A. Macdonald, City
Collector of Boston

Major George F. H. Murray,
Commander, Massachusetts
Division, Legion of Spanish War Veterans

Eugene S. Sullivan, Water
Commissioner of Boston

John M. Minton, Chairman, Election Commission, Boston

Michael P. Curran, Secretary to Mayor Collins

Rear-Admiral Mortimer L.
Johnson, Commandant,
Charlestown Navy Yard

Jean Guillemin, Sub-Director of the Cabinet of the French Foreign Minister

Charles P. Lebon, Instructor in French, Boston English High School

Major Berthelot, Aid-de-Camp to General Brugère

Edward L. Osgood, Reception
Committee

Lieutenant Andre Sauvaire-
Joudan, Aid-de-Camp to Vice-Admiral Fournier

John J. Collins, Reception
Committee

Lieutenant Baron Maximillon de
Reinach de Werth, Aid-de-
Camp to Vice-Admiral
Fournier

Colonel John L. Tiernon, United States Artillery Corps

M. Louis Hermite, Secretary of the French Embassy at Washington

Honorable LeBaron B. Colt, Judge, United States Circuit
Court

Major-General William A.
Bancroft, Commander,
Massachusetts Commandery,
Military Order of Foreign Wars of the United States

Honorable Augustine Heard, ex-Minister to Corea

Aide to Admiral Higginson

J. Richard Carter, President,
Associated Board of Trade

Captain A. W. Chase, United States Artillery Corps,
Aide to Colonel Tiernon

Edgar Van Etten, President,
Boston and Albany Railroad Company

John H. Fahey, New England
Representative, Associated Press

Patrick J. Kennedy, Wire
Commissioner of Boston

George A. Kimball, President,
Boston Society of Civil Engineers

INDEX.

B 33. Adams, Charles E.
 E 19. Adams, Charles Francis
 B 38. Adams, Colonel Melvin O.
 E 41. Amory, Colonel Charles B.
 C 39. Aylward, James F.
 C 15. Babson, Thomas M.
 D 17. Bailey, Andrew J.
 D 36. Baldwin, Dr. Henry C.
 B 35. Bancroft, Major-General William A.
 D 3. Barrett, Honorable William E.
 B 47. Bartlett, Professor George A.
 C 19. Baxter, Honorable Charles S.
 A Baudissin, Kontreadmiral Graf
 E 28. Beal, Thomas P.
 B 32. Belknap, Rear-Admiral George E.
 B 44. Benton, Colonel Josiah H., Jr.
 D 10. Bidwell, Lawson B.
 B 2. Bingham, Colonel T. A.
 B 46. Blackmar, General W. W.
 A Botschaftsrath, Graf Quadt
 E 8. Boutwell, Honorable George S.
 B 28. Boyd, George W.
 C 38. Brackett, J. Albert
 C 25. Bradley, Colonel J. Payson
 D 13. Brown, Dr. Francis H.
 E 25. Brown, Honorable John F.
 C 16. Bruce, Honorable Charles
 D 19. Bryant, Honorable Charles M.
 B 22. Buffington, Captain George R. H.
 E 24. Burnett, John T.
 E 31. Burrill, Charles L.
 E 35. Capen, Reverend Elmer H.
 C 11. Carpenter, Frederick B.
 B 11. Carrington, General Henry B., LL.D.
 B 7. Carter, J. Richard
 D 28. Charles, Salem D.
 E 34. Clark, Robert F.
 E 47. Clement, Edward H.
 D 20. Clement, Honorable Murray D.
 A Collins, Honorable Patrick A.
 B 15. Colt, Honorable LeBaron B.
 C 27. Comins, George A.
 E 43. Conried, Heinrich
 B 19. Conry, Honorable Joseph A.
 E 10. Coolidge, Honorable T. Jefferson
 A Corbin, Major-General Henry C.
 E 2. Cowles, Commander W. S.
 C 8. Craig, William
 A Crane, Honorable W. Murray
 D 23. Crocker, George U.
 E 51. Curran, Michael P.
 B 43. Curtis, Laurence
 E 39. Cushing, Grafton Dulaney
 D 34. Dalton, Charles H.
 E 7. Dalton, Brigadier-General Samuel
 C 37. Damrell, John S.
 D 25. Dean, Honorable Charles L.
 C 33. Dever, John F.
 C 18. Dodge, James H.
 D 2. Dolan, Arthur W.
 D 26. Donovan, Honorable Edward J.
 D 6. Donovan, Honorable James
 C 2. Doyle, James H.
 D 31. Drohan, John
 D 22. Durgin, Dr. Samuel H.
 D 14. Edes, Colonel Robert B.
 E 14. Edmonds, Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas F.
 B 5. Egidy, Persönlicher Adjutant Kapitänleutnant von
 A Eisendecker, His Excellency Königlicher
 Gesandter Viceadmiral von
 A Eliot, Honorable Charles W.
 B 31. Etten, Edgar Van
 A Evans, Rear-Admiral Robley D.
 D 40. Fahey, John H.
 D 24. Feeney, Honorable John P.
 C 32. Fitzgerald, Honorable William T. A.
 C 28. Fowler, William P.
 D 11. Gahn, Joseph
 B 40. Gallagher, Charles T.
 C 7. Gammons, Charles W.
 E 46. Gargan, Thomas J.
 E 22. Gaston, Colonel William A.
 E 36. Gericke, Wilhelm
 D 38. Gilman, John E.
 D 15. Glines, Honorable Edward
 D 5. Goetting, Colonel August H.
 B 21. Grant, Honorable Robert
 E 29. Gray, John C.
 C 1. Green, Honorable Samuel A., M.D.
 C 6. Grozier, E. A.
 A Grumme, Flügeladjutant Korvettenkapitan von
 D 27. Guild, Courtenay
 E 44. Guild, Curtis

B 30. Hall, John M.
 E 15. Hamlin, Honorable Charles S.
 C 4. Hart, Honorable Thomas N.
 C 30. Hauser, Samuel
 D 29. Hecht, Louis, Jr.
 B 39. Hemenway, Alfred
 E 29. Hennigan, P. Frank
 E 23. Hibbard, George A.
 B 10. Higginson, Henry Lee
 A Higginson, Colonel Thomas Wentworth
 A Hill, Honorable David J.
 A Holleben, His Excellency Baron von
 E 17. Holls, Honorable Frederick W.
 B 36. Holmes, John H.
 B 3. Holmes, Honorable Oliver Wendell
 B 50. Huckins, Captain Frank
 C 21. Hutchinson, Honorable Isaac P.
 C 17. Jackson, William
 E 21. Jagemann, Professor von
 E 6. Johnson, Rear-Admiral Mortimer L.
 B 42. Keller, Jasper N.
 B 45. Kelterborn, Dr. Louis
 D 32. Kunhardt, Oswald
 C 41. Kyle, Patrick J.
 B 49. Lagrèze, H. C.
 C 26. Lamb, Horatio A.
 D 37. Lane, Thomas J.
 C 20. Larrabee, Honorable John
 E 12. Lawrence, Amory A.
 C 42. Leary, Edward J.
 B 12. Lee, Brigadier-General Fitzhugh
 B 34. Leonard, George H.
 B 41. Lincoln, Solomon
 C 14. Litchfield, George A.
 A Long, Honorable John D.
 C 31. Lott, William H.
 B 20. Lowell, Honorable Francis C.
 A Lyman, Honorable George H.
 B 8. Mantler, Doctor
 B 18. Mason, Honorable Albert
 E 9. Mathews, Brigadier-General Thomas R.
 D 1. Matthews, Honorable Nathan, Jr.
 D 30. McGlenen, Edward W.
 C 40. McKay, George E.
 C 36. McLaughlin, James M.
 D 8. McNamee, Honorable John H. H.
 D 4. McNary, Honorable William S.
 E 37. Mead, Edwin D.
 C 23. Minot, Laurence
 D 33. Montague, Hugh C 29. Morse, Godfrey
 B 27. Mullan, Reverend W. G. Read, S. J.
 A Müller, Kapitän zur See von
 E 45. Munroe, James P.
 E 13. Münsterberg, Professor Hugo
 B 25. Murray, Major George F. H.
 B 6. Myers, Honorable James J.

E 40. Nutter, George R.
 A Olney, Honorable Richard
 C 3. O'Meara, Stephen
 B 24. Paine, Robert Treat
 E 26. Parkinson, John
 E 18. Peabody, General Francis, Jr.
 C 13. Peabody, Robert S.
 A Pierce, Honorable Herbert H. D.
 E 49. Pfaff, Dr. Franz
 A Plessen, His Excellency Generaladjutant General von
 C 12. Poole, Edmund A.
 B 23. Pritchett, Henry S.
 E 16. Putnam, Henry W.
 E 11. Putnam, Honorable William L.
 B 1. Rebeur, Korvettenkapitän von
 E 1. Reich, Stabsarzt Dr.
 E 20. Reineke, William Theodore
 B 26. Ripley, George
 E 42. Ruhl, Edward
 B 51. Russell, Colonel Henry S.
 C 24. Sanford, Alpheus
 D 18. Saunders, Charles R.
 B 4. Schwind, Persönlicher Adjutant Kapitänleutnant
 Schmidt von
 E 50. Sears, J. Montgomery
 C 5. Seavey, Fred H.
 E 5. Seckendorff, Count M. G.
 A Seckendorff, His Excellency Hofmarschall
 Viceadmiral Freiherr von
 B 13. Shaler, Professor Nathaniel S.
 D 12. Shepherd, Honorable William
 D 21. Shuman, A.
 E 3. Soule, Honorable Rufus A.
 B 48. Smith, Frederick W.
 E 38. Stratton, Charles E.
 C 10. Sullivan, P. F.
 B 37. Taylor, General Charles H.
 C 9. Taylor, Charles H., Jr.
 B 14. Thayer, Eugene V. R.
 B 16. Tiernon, Colonel John L.
 A Tirpitz, His Excellency Staatssekretär von
 E 4. Trotha, Adjutant Kapitänleutnant von
 E 30. Tuttle, Lucius
 E 33. Vogel, Professor Frank
 C 22. Warren, Samuel A.
 E 27. Warren, William F.
 B 17. Warren, Winslow
 E 32. Webster, Andrew G.
 D 16. Weeks, Honorable John W.
 D 35. Weissbein, Louis
 C 35. Whalen, Thomas A.
 B 9. Whitney, Brigadier-General Jophanus H.
 D 9. Willard, Honorable Edward E.
 C 34. Woolley, Charles B.
 D 7. Young, William N.

Honorab! Richard Olney		Kontreadmiral Graf Baudissin		Major-General Henry C. Corbin		H. E. Königlichcr Gesandter Vizeadmiral von Eiseudacher		Honorab! Charles W. Eliot		H. E. Staatssekretär von Tirpitz		Honorab! W. Murray Crane		His Royal Highness, Prince Henry of Prussia		Honorab! Patrick A. Collins		H. E. Baron von Hollehen		Honorab! John D. Long		H. E. Generaladjutant General von Plessen		Honorab! David J. Hill		H. E. Hofmarschall Vice-admiral Freiherr von Seckendorff		Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans		Kapitän zur See von Müller		Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson
Flügeladjutant Korvettenkapitän von Grumme		Honorab! Herbert H. D. Pierce		Korvettenkapitän von Rebeur		Honorab! Oliver Wendell Holmes		Persönlicher Adjutant Kapitäuleutnant Schmidt von Schwind		Persönlicher Adjutant Kapitäuleutnant von Egidy		J. Richard Carter		Brigadier-General Jophanus H. Whitney		General Henry B. Carrington		Professor Nathaniel S. Shaler		Honorab! LeBaron B. Colt		Winslow Warren		Honorab! Joseph A. Conry		Honorab! Robert Grant		Henry S. Pritchett		Major George F. H. Murray		Reverend W. G. Read Mullan, S. J.		P. Frank Hennigan		Edgar Van Etten		Charles E. Adams		Major-General William A. Bancroft		General Charles H. Taylor		Alfred Hemenway		Solomon Lincoln		Laurence Curtis		Dr. Louis Kelterborn		Professor George A. Bartlett		H. C. Lagrèze
1		2		3		4		5		6		7		8		9		10		11		12		13		14		15		16		17		18		19		20		21		22		23		24		25		26		27		28		29		30		31		32		33		34		35		36		37		38		39		40		41		42		43		44		45		46		47		48		49
Colonel T. A. Bingham		Honorab! Samuel A. Green		Persönlicher Adjutant Kapitäuleutnant Schmidt von Schwind		Honorab! James J. Myers		Doctor Mantler		Henry Lee Higginson		Brigadier-General Fitzhugh Lee		Eugene V. R. Thayer		Colonel John L. Tiernon		Honorab! Albert Mason		Honorab! Francis C. Lowell		Captain George R. H. Bullington		Robert Treat Paine		George Ripley		George W. Boyd		John M. Hall		Rear-Admiral George E. Belknap		George H. Leonard		John H. Holmes		Colonel Melvin O. Adams		Charles T. Gallagher		Jasper N. Keller		Colonel Josiah H. Benton, Jr.		General W. W. Blackmar		Frederick W. Smith		Captain Frank Huckins
Honorab! Stephen O'Meara		Fred H. Seavey		Charles W. Gammons		Charles H. Taylor, Jr.		Frederick B. Carpenter		Robert S. Peabody		Thomas M. Babson		William Jackson		Honorab! Charles S. Baxter		Honorab! Isaac P. Hutchinson		Laurence Minot		Colonel J. Payson Bradley		George A. Comins		Godfrey Morse		William H. Lott		John F. Dever		Thomas A. Whalen		John S. Darnell		James F. Aylward		Patrick J. Kyle
3		4		5		6		7		8		9		10		11		12		13		14		15		16		17		18		19		20		21		22		23		24		25		26		27		28		29		30		31		32		33		34		35		36		37		38		39		40		41		42		43		44		45		46		47		48		49
James H. Doyle		Honorab! Nathan Matthews, Jr.		Honorab! Thomas N. Hart		E. A. Grozier		William Craig		P. F. Sullivan		Edmund A. Poole		George A. Litchfield		Honorab! Charles Bruce		James H. Dodge		Honorab! John Larrabee		Samuel A. Warren		Alpheus Sanford		Horatio A. Lamb		William P. Fowler		Samuel Hauser		Honorab! W. T. A. Fitzgerald		Charles B. Woolley		James M. McLaughlin		J. Albert Brackett		George E. McKay		Edward J. Leary
Honorab! William E. Barrett		Colonel August H. Goetting		William N. Young		Honorab! Edward E. Willard		Joseph Gahn		Dr. Francis H. Brown		Honorab! Edward Glines		Honorab! Andrew J. Bailey		Honorab! Charles M. Bryant		A. Shuman		George U. Crocker		Honorab! Charles L. Dean		Courtenay Guild		Louis Hecht, Jr.		John Drohan		Hugh Montague		Louis Weissbein		Thomas J. Lane		Martin G. Egan		Mr. Zöller		Robert H. Hazard		Hofstaatssekretar Hintz		Charles Ray Dean		R. L. Dunn
1		2		3		4		5		6		7		8		9		10		11		12		13		14		15		16		17		18		19		20		21		22		23		24		25		26		27		28		29		30		31		32		33		34		35		36		37		38		39		40		41		42		43		44		45		46		47		48		49
Arthur W. Dolan		Honorab! William S. McNary		Honorab! James Donovan		Honorab! John H. H. McNamee		Lawson B. Bidwell		Honorab! William Shepherd		Colonel Robert B. Edes		Honorab! John W. Weeks		Charles R. Saunders		Honorab! Murray D. Clement		Dr. Samuel H. Durgin		Honorab! John P. Feeney		Honorab! Edward J. Donovan		Salem D. Charles		Edward W. McGlenen		Oswald Kunhardt		Charles H. Dalton		Dr. Henry C. Baldwin		John E. Gilman		John H. Fahey		Mr. Haedicke		Charles W. Tyler		Mr. Viereck		Hofrath Kinne		N. Lazarnick
Stabsarzt Dr. Reich		Honorab! Rufus A. Soule		Count M. G. Seckendorff		Brigadier-General Samuel Dalton		Brigadier-General Thomas R. Mathews		Honorab! William L. Putnam		Professor Hugo Münsterberg		Honorab! Charles S. Hamlin		Honorab! Frederick W. Holls		Charles Francis Adams		Professor von Jagemann		George A. Hibbard		Honorab! John F. Brown		William F. Warren		John C. Gray		Charles L. Burrill		Professor Frank Vogel		Reverend Elmer H. Capen		Edwin D. Mead		Grafton Dulaney Cushing		Colonel Charles B. Amory		Heinrich Conried		James P. Munroe		Edward H. Clement		Dr. Franz Pfaff
1		2		3		4		5		6		7		8		9		10		11		12		13		14		15		16		17		18		19		20		21		22		23		24		25		26		27		28		29		30		31		32		33		34		35		36		37		38		39		40		41		42		43		44		45		46		47		48		49
Commander W. S. Cowles		Adjutant Kapitäuleutnant von Trotha		Rear-Admiral Mortimer L. Johnson		Honorab! George S. Boutwell		Honorab! T. Jefferson Coolidge		Amory A. Lawrence		Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas F. Edmands		Henry W. Putnam		General Francis Peabody, Jr.		William Theodore Reincke		Colonel William A. Gaston		John T. Burnett		John Parkinson		Thomas P. Beal		Lucius Tuttle		Andrew G. Webster		Robert F. Clark		Wilhelm Gericke		Charles E. Stratton		George R. Nutter		Edward Ruhl		Curtis Guild		Thomas J. Gargan		J. Montgomery Sears

51

Colonel Henry S. Russell

51

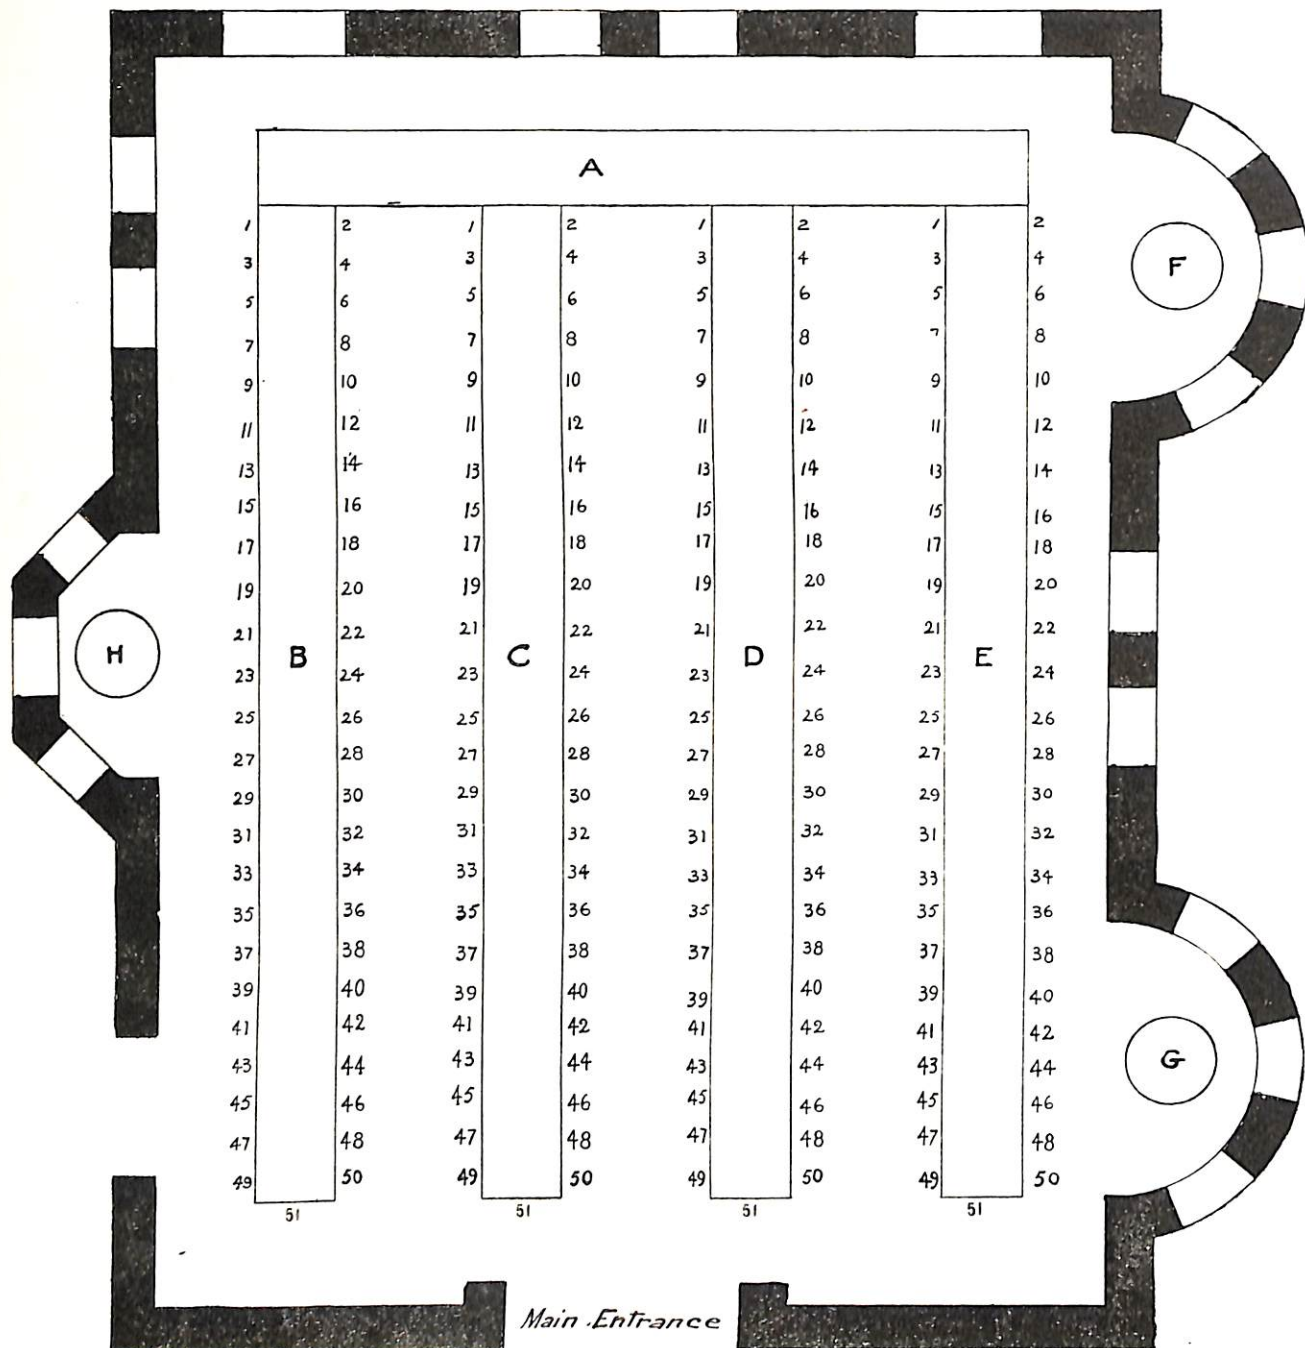

James Hare

51

Michael P. Curran

DIAGRAM OF DINING ROOM

HOTEL SOMERSET

Dinner

in honor of

His Royal Highness Prince Henry
of Prussia,

by the

City of Boston,

Thursday evening, March the sixth,

Hotel Somerset,

Nineteen hundred and two.

ANTIENIS DINE IN STYLE IN FANEUIL HALL AND THEN VOTE ON THE FAMOUS DRUMHEAD.

THE ANCIENTS AND HONORABLES.

The Exercises on the Common. Centre Picture Shows a Detachment of the Old Guard of New York.

Capt. Huckins Tells Them to Have No Fear of Quips and Jokes.

First Regiment band, stationed in the gallery, responded, with "The Star Spangled Banner." Then somebody shouted, "Hooray for Teddy Roosevelt," and the Ancients jumped to their feet and made the old chapel rock with the vehemence of their responses. Lieut.-Gov. Bates responded to the toast of "The Commonwealth of Massachusetts." He was greeted with three cheers and cries of "The next Governor of Massachusetts."

there may have been wrongdoing, but you fret because you feel that the criticism is unjust and unfair, taking in the whole situation. President Roosevelt understands the situation, and you know a man of his nature would not for a moment brook brutality. He would at least do everything under heaven to see that cruelty is rebuked. While matters are in such hands as those of Roosevelt and Root, I believe everything will come out all right. "The point I want to make is that the church is now and then subjected to unjust and unfair criticism. It stands and has always stood for the welfare of the community. Your wives or children would not be safe for one moment in the streets of Boston if it were not for the church. So, I say, don't criticize the whole of it makes mistakes, but on the whole it stands for decent living and the good of the community." Maj. Bragg responded to the toast, "The Old Guard of New York," and the Hon. John J. Flaherty of Gloucester for the "Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company." "The Honourable Artillery Company of London" was responded to Dalton. Then came his successor, stepping briskly to the front to the strains of even livelier music, and the emblem of authority was in turn bestowed on him. After this was over the battery boomed out another salute, the Ancients "fell in," and, with the lively air from the band, officers and men circled the field once and disappeared under the rope while the ladies dodged under the rope barricades and escaped to late dinners. The following were the officers chosen: Captain, Lieut. J. Stearns Cushing of Norwood; first lieutenant, James M. Usher of Chelsea; second lieutenant, Sergt. William S. Abbott of Brookline; adjutant, Capt. Edward W. Frederick W. Threll of Quincy; Milton C. Paige of South Boston; John P. Hazlett of Charlestown; George B. Graham of Cambridge; Lieut. Everett B. Hodges of Portland; sergeants of artillery, John M. Galvin of Dorchester, George H. Wilson of Quincy, Harry Hamilton of East Boston, Samuel A. Neill of Boston, George Francis of Boston, George A. Wyman of Charlestown; paymaster and treasurer, Lieut. Emory Grover of Needham; assistant paymaster and clerk,

COMMON CROWDED.
Thousands Gather and Crane Their Necks to See the Exercises.

Filled with the enthusiasm upon which youth is supposed to have a copyright, as well as with good food, both solid and liquid, 460 members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Massachusetts enjoyed the 26th anniversary banquet at Faneuil Hall, yesterday afternoon.

Retiring Capt. Frank Huckins presided, and seated with him at the head table were Lieut.-Gov. John L. Bates, Adj.-Gen. Dalton, Rear Admiral George E. Belknap, U. S. N., retired, Gen. Wilmon W. Blackmar of the G. A. R., Maj. Patterson, U. S. artillery, Maj. S. Ellis Briggs of the Old Guard of New York, President Dolan of the common council, ex-Gov. George S. Boutwell, ex-Gov. J. Q. A. Brackett, the Rev. Walter E. C. Smith of New York, the Rev. Edward A. Horton and Adj. Thomas J. Tute, who acted as toastmaster.

The company sat down to dinner shortly after 1 o'clock, and it was nearly 3 when Capt. Huckins arose and rapped for order. So high were the spirits of the ancients by this time, however, and so great the desire of each individual to air his own personal views, that it took the captain, although the banquet was intended to be a social occasion, fully 15 minutes to get the company to listen to him.

When the Ancients had become sufficiently resigned to silence, Capt. Huckins made his farewell address, saying in part:

CAPT. EDWARD W. ABBOTT
ADJUTANT A. & H. A. CO.
PHOTO BY E. CHICKERING

JAMES J. USHER
1ST LIEUT.

W. S. BEST
2ND LIEUT.

J. STEARNS CUSHING
LIEUT.
PHOTO BY E. CHICKERING

"It is exceedingly gratifying," he said, "to be reassured at the start and to know that I am all right." (Laughter.) "Who would not be Governor, just for a day, especially if it happened to be Ancients' day?" (Applause.) "I am not building any hopes on next year, gentlemen, but I am making the most of this opportunity." Mr. Bates paid a high tribute to Gov. Crane and closed by congratulating the company on its honorable and useful career. "The City of Boston," which was the next toast, was responded to, in the enforced absence of Mayor Collins, by President Dolan of the common council, who said he had consented to rattle around in the mayor's place. The city, he said, rejoiced with the company on its 26th anniversary. "The Army of the United States" was made a brief plea for the soldiers. "Don't take what you see in the papers," he said, "listen to our side. It will all come out right in the end. Remember that you have sent us out to defend and not to perpetrate excesses."

by the band, which played the "London March." GRAND COLOR EXHIBIT. Brilliantly Clad Ancients Paraded to the Common and Held the Drum-Head Election. In coats of many colors, and with a light step, in spite of a heavy dinner, the Ancient Artillerymen paraded the ancient streets between Faneuil Hall and the Common yesterday afternoon, and there, on the sunlit green, in sight of their friends, fair and stalwart, beneath the shade of the arching elms of "election day." There was a review by the Lieutenant-Governor and staff and the visiting soldiers from New York and Hartford, a picturesque Lieut. George H. Allen of Boston; quartermaster, Sergt. William L. Willey of Boston; commissary, Capt. George E. Hall of Dorchester.

1638

1902

264th ANNIVERSARY
— of the —
A. & H. A. Company

Capt. FRANK HUCKINS, Commander

♦ ♦ ♦ ♦ Boston ♦ ♦ ♦ ♦

CIGARS from Clark's Hotel

Washington's Birthday

• • 1902 • •

Dinner of the . . .

Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company of Mass.

MENU

Blue Points, Deep Shell

Green Turtle a l'Anglaise
Radishes

Consomme Julienne
Queen Olives

Boiled Fresh Salmon with Peas
Sliced Tomatoes

Pommes Duchesse

Fillet of Beef a la Bearnaise
String Beans

Philadelphia Capon, Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Brown Potatoes

Roman Punch

Red-Head Duck, Currant Jelly
Lettuce Salad

Saratoga Chips

Frozen Pudding

Sultana Roll, Claret Sauce

Assorted Cake

Apples

Oranges

Malaga Grapes

Roquefort Cheese

Toasted Crackers

Black Coffee

Apollinaris

QUINCY HOUSE, Boston.

O. G. Barron, Prop.

OFFICERS 1902

FRANK HUCKINS, Captain.

JOHN C. POTTER, 1st Lieut.

FRANK P. STONE, 2nd Lieut.

THOMAS J. TUTE, Adjutant.

FOLK SONGS.

Banquet of the Ancient and Honorable

Artillery Company, February 22, 1902.

Soldiers of the Revolution - The right arm of Washington, builders of Liberty and Independence.

Responding to Toast

Hon. STEPHEN H. HURLIN

Washington - Soldier, Statesman, President - The first guiding hand of the Ship of State on its voyage to the front of the Great Nations of the Earth.

Responding to Toast

Hon. CHARLES S. HAMLIN

Our Country - First among the Nations of the Earth, loved at Home, respected Abroad.

Responding to Toast

Hon. DANFORTH E. AINSWORTH.

Our City - The home of our Company and the home of many brave Soldiers.

Responding to Toast

ONE OF OUR FRIENDS

Our Company - The West Point Artillery, ever ready to respond to the call of the early days of the Country in time of need.

A life-longing the past with the best of the present and future.

Responding to Toast

MEMBERS OF THE COMPANY

Soldiers of the Revolution - The right arm of Washington, builders of Liberty and Independence.

Responding to Toast

ONE OF OUR COMPANY

